Red Demands Cause Wrangle In UN Council

Procedural Issues Delay Balloting On New Memberships

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Russia handed the Security Council an all-or-nothing ultimatum today on the proposed admission of 18 countries to the U. N. The Russians also threatened to block the whole scheme with a veto if the Council did not vote on new members according to procedure dictated by Moscow.

Amazed delegates, confronted with unyielding stands by the Soviet Union, assailed "suspicious Russians." The bitter procedural wrangle at two extraordinary Saturday sessions was not settled as the delegates adjourned at 5:43 p.m. EST. The Council will meet again next Tuesday.

Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet delegate, unleashed his twin threats during five hours of debate. First, he said the Russians were willing to accept all 18 applicants "without exception," and would take no other plan. This had been expected but his notice was the formal warning.

Next, he opposed a plan by Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand, and Cyro de reitas Valle, for the voting procedure. They wanted to have the Council vote separately on each country in order of application and then vote as a whole on all of those passing the voting by each country.

Sobolev said he would vote against priority for this plan and against the plan itself. This would veto the 18 in one ballot.

Nasrollah Entezam, Iran and Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain, assailed the "mistrust" of the Russians. Dixon said it is "shocking" to hear that Moscow wants to start with a veto.

Sobolev said there were so many countries in the Assembly not voting for Albania and Outer Mongolia, for instance, that "accidents" might happen. To give sufficient guarantees, he said, the Council must vote according to his plan.

This called for the Council and

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —UP— President Eisenhower Saturday accepted the resignation of Civil Aeronautics Administration Frederick B. Lee and appointed Charles J. Lowen Jr. of Colorado to succeed him.

Lowen has been deputy CAA administrator.

Aviation industry sources said earlier this week that Lee, a Republican, was under pressure from Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks to resign.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) of the Senate Commerce committee, already has urged an investigation of reports that Lee was under pressure to quit.

In his letter of resignation Lee said the present appears to be "a suitable time for me to relinquish my post and to move on to other activities."

Lee refused later to say whether he had been asked to resign.

But he told the United Press that published reports he had been under pressure to leave "probably haven't been too far off."

"I don't want to appear to be questioning the President's decision," Lee insisted. "I certainly accept it. What's back of it is sort of past history."

He said he knew of no criticism of his administration at CAA, and said he had no comment on Magnuson's call for an investigation.

Thousands View Colorful Parade Ushering In The Christmas Season Here

Christmas, in all its sanctified glory, was officially ushered into Monroe yesterday with one of the most well planned parades ever to pass down DeSiard street.

With less accent on flash and more emphasis on reverence, the parade passed through the heart of the city while possibly more than 50,000 looked on. The procession took nearly 30 minutes to pass.

There was no disappointment this year. Visitors from throughout northeast Louisiana flocked to Monroe for the affair and probably went home pleased with what they saw.

With the theme "Put Christ Back Into Christmas," the parade consisted primarily of more than 20 floats depicting Biblical scenes and ideas. Somewhere in the midst of the procession was a candy-laden float skippered by that jolly old gentleman from the north — Santa Claus.

Santa Claus and a half dozen aides hurled candy kisses into the viewing crowd of children while the float moved along at a slow pace. While the children cheered their hero of the season, candy boiled out from the truck-trailer float.

Leading the parade were a white horse and rider in a white costume carrying the Christmas banner. Drumming and tooting "Onward Christian Soldiers," the Winnsboro High School band followed.

Following the Winnsboro band were several groups of marchers, each presenting a Christmas scene, including a "spirit of giving" float that showed a scene of an aged

Adlai Bids For Support In Arkansas

JEROME, Ark., Dec. 10 (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, so far the only avowed candidate for the Democratic nomination for president next year, today said he would be "naturally very pleased" to have the support of the Arkansas delegation.

He added, however, that he wasn't "shooting for votes" on this trip to southeast Arkansas and quipped that he thought such hunting was "probably out of season."

Stevenson made the remarks at a new conference at the nearby plush hunting lodge of Dr. J. S. Rushing and his brother, Dr. Shade Rushing, of El Dorado, Ark., his hosts on a 3-day duck hunting trip.

Stevenson, a former Illinois governor and the 1952 Democratic candidate for president, is one of a number of political figures who are the guests of the Rushings.

Others include Stevenson's 1952 running mate, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, Sens. John L. McClellan and J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, and Reps. Oren Harris of Arkansas and Hale Boggs of Louisiana.

New Expansion Of U. S. Missile Program Planned

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said tonight that a "substantial expansion" of the long and medium-range rocket development program is under way.

The new upswing in the already heavily stressed guided missile program had been reported decided on because of reports of swift and substantial progress by Russia. Scientists in both countries are working on development of rockets that will be able to cross oceans with nuclear warheads.

In making his announcement at a brief meeting with newsmen, however, Wilson said that "as far as we know (the Russian) progress has been about as expected" in this field.

Wilson said that U.S. emphasis on the development of both the long-range and intermediate-range ballistic missiles systems has been under way over a period of years.

It is now at a point which requires "expansion of development and testing facilities and the establishment of specific responsibilities for each of the services," the defense secretary said.

The over-all direction of this new program, Wilson said, is under Deputy Defense Secretary Reuben Robertson, with the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force each directing the programs within their own departments.

Wilson said the stepped-up program is "designed to provide the United States, on a priority basis, a family of ballistic missiles which will be an additional effective deterrent to any possible aggressors, by increasing significantly the capability of our own forces."

Fast House Move To Slash Income Taxes Predicted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — Sen. George (D-Ga) predicted today the Democratic - controlled House will move immediately toward a reduction in individual income taxes when Congress reconvenes next month. But he said it may be some time before the Senate gets around to considering the issue.

George, a veteran member of the Senate Finance Committee, said in a telephone interview from Vienna, Ga., that he feels sentiment for tax cuts will be so strong among returning legislators that the House Ways and Means Committee will act quickly. That is where all tax bills must originate.

While there have been indications that President Eisenhower might point the way to a future tax cut in his January State of the Union message, administration officials generally have indicated they want to hold off on any specific recommendations until there are clearer indications that the budget will be balanced.

George, who has said budget balancing is at hand, indicated that he expects the Democrats to get the jump on the administration in tax cutting.

"I am under the impression there will be an immediate more in the House and that action will be taken there rather promptly," George said. He added he thinks the move will have the full approval of House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Because of the time lag involved in hearings and House floor action, George said the Senate may not get around to considering the tax issue for some time. He said this lapse of time will provide more information on whether the budget is going to be balanced.

"I hope we can increase the individual income tax exemption from $600 to at least $700," George said. "That will benefit the low income group most but it will help everybody. Also, I think there should be some adjustment in the rates on middle income brackets."

The middle brackets generally are regarded as those ranging from $6,000 up to about $50,000 a year. It has been George's contention that many small businessman in this bracket have been hard hit and need tax relief.

George has opposed any reduction in over-all corporation rates, which now range to a maximum of 52 per cent. His proposed $100

Cold, Light Rain Predicted Today

Mostly cloudy and cold, with some scattered light rain or possibly snow Sunday is the forecast for weather in northeast Louisiana today.

Arkansas is expected to have possible light snow in the eastern portion Sunday; cloudy and cold.

Saturday's Monroe temperatures ranged from a high of 38 to a low of 26, C.A.A. officials said.

Snow flurries were falling lightly at 10:30 p. m. Saturday night in Monroe and West Monroe.

Surplus Grain To Be Released For Relief Work

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —UP— The government is preparing to release thousands of tons of surplus grain to church agencies for overseas relief, officials disclosed Saturday.

Barring an unforeseen obstacle, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson probably will announce the action during the coming week.

Agriculture Department officials said Benson is taking a keen personal interest in the project as a result of urgent appeals from religious leaders to "share our surplus" with less fortunate people abroad.

Benson has discretionary authority, under Public Law 480 which Congress passed last year, to release all types of government-owned farm surpluses to voluntary relief agencies for free distribution to the needy overseas. So far, however, the Agriculture Department has released only commodities which were in danger of spoiling in storage, mainly dairy products and cottonseed oil.

A delegation representing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish relief agencies urged Benson at a meeting here last month to release 250,000 tons of wheat, 100,000 tons of corn products, and 80,000 tons of rice to fight the threat of "actual starvation" in many countries.

Agriculture Department officials had said previously that Benson was "sympathetic" to the request, but was not sure it could be granted under department policies forbidding any use of surplus commodities that would tend to displace normal commercial sales.

Officials said Saturday it now appears that all problems in connection with the project can be worked out, and that a favorable decision can be announced within a few days.

Church and congressional pressure for early action has been building up steadily.

Two American Soldiers Freed By Russians After Note Voices U.S. Demand

BERLIN, Dec. 10 —UP— The Soviets Saturday night released two American soldiers whose case had become a major issue in a mounting controversy over Communist East German claims to sovereignty.

East German propagandists, claiming that recent announced agreements with Russia superceded four-power control over the divided city of Berlin, had demanded that the two Americans be tried in an East Berlin court to prove the sovereignty of East Germany.

The Communist announced their arrest last Wednesday on charges of attacking a cabaret actor in East Berlin.

The Soviets released the Americans Saturday afternoon after U.S. authorities handed the Communists a written demand for their immediate release.

Col. O. M. Barsanti, Army chief of staff in Berlin, followed up the written demand with a visit to Soviet headquarters to see Col. Ivan A. Kotsiuba, Berlin's deputy Soviet commandant. Shortly thereafter, the American soldiers were handed over to Lt. Col. Vernon Hammonde, Army provost marshal here.

"The men appeared to be in good physical condition, but they were admitted to the U.S. Army hospital for a routine physical examination," an Army announcement said.

"U. S. Army authorities will make a thorough investigation of the circumstances in which they were detained," the announcement added.

American officials sent the written note after the Reds hinted they might try the soldier in an East Germany court. Such a trial would be a violation of four-power agreements in Berlin.

The American authorities put the demand in writing after three previous demands, all made by phone, were ignored by the Soviets. The letter asked for information about the alleged incident involving the

Gov. White Orders Release Of Rose Shears Murderer

Gov. Hugh White, who believes she should have been convicted of manslaughter instead of murder, granted the suspension yesterday "after a study of the facts, the character and behavior of the person convicted and the public responsibility. . . .

"Full opportunity has been repeatedly given for filing of protests and a public hearing was held in the municipality (Leland) where the alleged crime was committed."

Mrs. Dickins' husband, a cotton broker, met her at the prison and they drove to their Leland home.

Supt. Marvin Wiggins said Mrs. Dickins "seemed happy, in good health and good spirits" when she left the penal farm this morning.

The 49-year-old woman was convicted in 1949 of the rose shears murder of Mrs. Idella Long Thompson. The state claimed the killing was a result of an argument over money. Mrs. Dickins contended a Negro man was the killer.

The jury disagreed on punishment, making a life sentence mandatory. Mrs. Dickins served about six years.

Austrian Girl Hunts Husband In U.S.

DALLAS, Dec. 10 —UP— Anna Maria Springer of Vienna, Austria, whose picture indicates she has plenty of Old World charm, asked a Dallas editor Saturday to find her a rich and lonely Texan to whom she can offer "a hot heart."

Miss Springer wrote Editor Bill Ruggles of the Dallas Morning News that she wants a husband from Texas who can afford to buy her a 1956 Chevrolet for a wedding present. She promised Ruggles a mess of Viennese schnitzel if he delivers.

Her letter said:

"American newspaper people are said to have a right understanding of extraordinary or original conceptions. At least, this is rumored here in Vienna.

"Well, I suppose I have a somewhat unusual idea and therefore I apply to you. I do not intend to immoderately occupy your precious time. Therefore, to cut a long story short: I should like to marry an American of your state.

"He should be a mature man and not exactly the poorest of the country. I am 26 years of age, five feet, five inches tall and reddish-brown haired. I earned the academic title 'Bachelor of Commerce' at Vienna University.

"I should like to offer with Viennese charm a hot heart to a lonely feeling man who is ready to present me with a Chevrolet 56 for a wedding gift. I am dreaming of Texas, this most beautiful state of the U. S., of its everlasting sun and of its strong, husky men."

"I should be very grateful to you if you would publish this heart's desire of mine in your largely circulating newspaper. Should my desire realize owing to your help, I shall be very glad to serve you with original Viennese schnitzel at my wedding party."

Good Fellows Report

Letters Indicate Pressing Needs Of Many Families

Letters pouring into Good Fellows headquarters tell of great need existing among many of the families in the Twin Cities area during this holiday season.

One letter reveals that the husband of the family makes only a small sum and debts quickly swallow it all. Also, he has to make frequent trips to New Orleans for plastic surgery and skin grafting. His wife writes that he has to make the trips without a heavy coat which he sadly needs.

In the same family there are two other small children who need winter wraps, but do not have any way to purchase them. The mother says nothing about toys and things for Christmas as her thought is above all on the essentials of clothing to keep the family warm this winter.

More letters are coming to Good Fellows this year than ever before, which would indicate that the need is greater.

Two fine contributions are received and acknowledged today. One is from C. M. Strauss for $25, and another is anonymous and in the sum of $25.

Perhaps many have forgotten or overlooked that the money they give through Good Fellows can be deducted when one makes out his income tax for 1955. This will in many cases cause some persons to feel like making donations which they would other wise not be inclined to make.

Let's have a big sum to report when we list our next report of finances. There is such a need that those who have should share with those who have not.

Remember the Scriptural: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my children, ye have done it unto Me."

Shanghai Bishop Arrested As Spy By Red Chinese

LONDON, Dec. 10 —UP—Radio Moscow reported Saturday that Kung Pin-Mei, Catholic bishop of Communist-held Shanghai, and his "principal accomplices" were arrested two months ago as spies and subversive plotters.

The broadcast, quoting press reports from Red Peiping, said secret police who arrested the bishop and his aides captured radio equipment and papers proving they were working for free China and "certain foreign powers."

It charged also that they were "plotting a counter-revolutionary uprising."

The radio report did not say how many persons were arrested, where they were being held, or when they will be tried. It was assumed here that the "accomplices" it mentioned were Chinese churchmen.

Informed sources here said the bishop's arrest may mark the beginning of a Communist crackdown on native priests in conquered China, who have been generally exempt from the persecution suffered by foreign missionaries.

The Moscow broadcast said the Red secret police "uncovered another spy ring" in Communist China in September.

"When arrested, the head of this organization, Bishop Kung Pin-Mei, and his principal accomplices were found to possess documents testifying to their criminal intention of setting up a widely-ramified espionage network and preparing a counter-revolutionary uprising," the broadcast said.

Fatigue Cited As Reason For Reducing Work

No Announcement On Election Plans Seen Before Feb.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10— UP—President Eisenhower is showing some signs of fatigue and will have to reduce his work load, his doctors announced Saturday night after the chief executive underwent an extensive physical checkup at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, White House physician, said it now appeared that it might be mid - February or possibly later before Mr. Eisenhower will be able to make a decision on whether his health would permit him to run for re-election.

The physician, who has treated Mr. Eisenhower since 1945 pictured the President as going through a "normal" convalescence from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

But Snyder said there were some signs of fatigue, and he felt that the President should reduce his work load during the remaining weeks of his recuperation.

Trio Held After $3,214 Taken From Store Recovered

The Monroe police department yesterday announced the arrest of three Monroe youths from whom they recovered $3,214.42 taken in the Thursday night burglary of a south Monroe super market.

A spokesman for the B. A. Gentry super market, the burglarized store, told police the recovered amount was "pretty close to the amount taken."

Police said $2,500 of the money was recovered from a door facing inside the home of one of the admitted burglars. The rest was recovered from the three suspects, all identified as Negroes.

Held in the Ouachita parish jail are:

Bennie Miller, 24, 608 Adams, now a parole from Angola.

Det. Chief H. L. Tolbert said Williams netted $2,500 from the burglary that his accomplices didn't know about. Tolbert quoted Williams as saying he took the $2,500 from the store's safe "and slipped it in my shirt."

Williams said the safe was unlocked. However, a member of the super market staff said earlier he thought he had locked the safe.

Williams told police he stashed the $2,500 in the door facing at his home to "let it cool off—I knew it would be pretty hot for awhile."

Tolbert said the trio was arrested on a tip from an informer who overheard one of the men "talking about the robbery." After their arrest, Tolbert said, all three admitted participation.

Bond had not been set yesterday on Whitfield and Miller. Tolbert pointed out that Miller would be ineligible for bond due to his parole status.

Tolbert said none of the youths were employed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —UP— The government is preparing to release thousands of tons of surplus grain to church agencies for overseas relief, officials disclosed Saturday.

Barring an unforeseen obstacle, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson probably will announce the action during the coming week.

Agriculture Department officials said Benson is taking a keen personal interest in the project as a result of urgent appeals from religious leaders to "share our surplus" with less fortunate people abroad.

Benson has discretionary authority, under Public Law 480 which Congress passed last year, to release all types of government-owned farm surpluses to voluntary relief agencies for free distribution to the needy overseas. So far, however, the Agriculture Department has released only commodities which were in danger of spoiling in storage, mainly dairy products and cottonseed oil.

A delegation representing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish relief agencies urged Benson at a meeting here last month to release 250,000 tons of wheat, 100,000 tons of corn products, and 80,000 tons of rice to fight the threat of "actual starvation" in many countries.

Agriculture Department officials had said previously that Benson was "sympathetic" to the request, but was not sure it could be granted under department policies forbidding any use of surplus commodities that would tend to displace normal commercial sales.

Officials said Saturday it now appears that all problems in connection with the project can be worked out, and that a favorable decision can be announced within a few days.

Church and congressional pressure for early action has been building up steadily.

Two American Soldiers Freed By Russians After Note Voices U.S. Demand

BERLIN, Dec. 10 —UP— The Soviets Saturday night released two American soldiers whose case had become a major issue in a mounting controversy over Communist East German claims to sovereignty.

East German propagandists, claiming that recent announced agreements with Russia superceded four-power control over the divided city of Berlin, had demanded that the two Americans be tried in an East Berlin court to prove the sovereignty of East Germany.

The Communist announced their arrest last Wednesday on charges of attacking a cabaret actor in East Berlin.

The Soviets released the Americans Saturday afternoon after U.S. authorities handed the Communists a written demand for their immediate release.

Col. O. M. Barsanti, Army chief of staff in Berlin, followed up the written demand with a visit to Soviet headquarters to see Col. Ivan A. Kotsiuba, Berlin's deputy Soviet commandant. Shortly thereafter, the American soldiers were handed over to Lt. Col. Vernon Hammonde, Army provost marshal here.

"The men appeared to be in good physical condition, but they were admitted to the U.S. Army hospital for a routine physical examination," an Army announcement said.

"U. S. Army authorities will make a thorough investigation of the circumstances in which they were detained," the announcement added.

American officials sent the written note after the Reds hinted they might try the soldier in an East Germany court. Such a trial would be a violation of four-power agreements in Berlin.

The American authorities put the demand in writing after three previous demands, all made by phone, were ignored by the Soviets. The letter asked for information about the alleged incident involving the

Gov. White Orders Release Of Rose Shears Murderer

Gov. Hugh White, who believes she should have been convicted of manslaughter instead of murder, granted the suspension yesterday "after a study of the facts, the character and behavior of the person convicted and the public responsibility. . . .

"Full opportunity has been repeatedly given for filing of protests and a public hearing was held in the municipality (Leland) where the alleged crime was committed."

Supt. Marvin Wiggins said Mrs. Dickins "seemed happy, in good health and good spirits" when she left the penal farm this morning.

The 49-year-old woman was convicted in 1949 of the rose shears murder of Mrs. Idella Long Thompson. The state claimed the killing was a result of an argument over money. Mrs. Dickins contended a Negro man was the killer.

The jury disagreed on punishment, making a life sentence mandatory. Mrs. Dickins served about six years.

Good Fellows Report

Letters Indicate Pressing Needs Of Many Families

Letters pouring into Good Fellows headquarters tell of great need existing among many of the families in the Twin Cities area during this holiday season.

One letter reveals that the husband of the family makes only a small sum and debts quickly swallow it all. Also, he has to make frequent trips to New Orleans for plastic surgery and skin grafting. His wife writes that he has to make the trips without a heavy coat which he sadly needs.

In the same family there are two other small children who need winter wraps, but do not have any way to purchase them. The mother says nothing about toys and things for Christmas as her thought is above all on the essentials of clothing to keep the family warm this winter.

More letters are coming to Good Fellows this year than ever before, which would indicate that the need is greater.

Two fine contributions are received and acknowledged today. One is from C. M. Strauss for $25, and another is anonymous and in the sum of $25.

Perhaps many have forgotten or overlooked that the money they give through Good Fellows can be deducted when one makes out his income tax for 1955. This will in many cases cause some persons to feel like making donations which they would other wise not be inclined to make.

Let's have a big sum to report when we list our next report of finances. There is such a need that those who have should share with those who have not.

Remember the Scriptural: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my children, ye have done it unto Me."

Shanghai Bishop Arrested As Spy By Red Chinese

LONDON, Dec. 10 —UP—Radio Moscow reported Saturday that Kung Pin-Mei, Catholic bishop of Communist-held Shanghai, and his "principal accomplices" were arrested two months ago as spies and subversive plotters.

The broadcast, quoting press reports from Red Peiping, said secret police who arrested the bishop and his aides captured radio equipment and papers proving they were working for free China and "certain foreign powers."

It charged also that they were "plotting a counter-revolutionary uprising."

The radio report did not say how many persons were arrested, where they were being held, or when they will be tried. It was assumed here that the "accomplices" it mentioned were Chinese churchmen.

Informed sources here said the bishop's arrest may mark the beginning of a Communist crackdown on native priests in conquered China, who have been generally exempt from the persecution suffered by foreign missionaries.

The Moscow broadcast said the Red secret police "uncovered another spy ring" in Communist China in September.

"When arrested, the head of this organization, Bishop Kung Pin-Mei, and his principal accomplices were found to possess documents testifying to their criminal intention of setting up a widely-ramified espionage network and preparing a counter-revolutionary uprising," the broadcast said.

Fatigue Cited As Reason For Reducing Work

No Announcement On Election Plans Seen Before Feb.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—President Eisenhower is showing some signs of fatigue and will have to reduce his work load, his doctors announced Saturday night after the chief executive underwent an extensive physical checkup at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, White House physician, said it now appeared that it might be mid - February or possibly later before Mr. Eisenhower will be able to make a decision on whether his health would permit him to run for re-election.

The physician, who has treated Mr. Eisenhower since 1945 pictured the President as going through a "normal" convalescence from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

But Snyder said there were some signs of fatigue, and he felt that the President should reduce his work load during the remaining weeks of his recuperation.

Trio Held After $3,214 Taken From Store Recovered

The Monroe police department yesterday announced the arrest of three Monroe youths from whom they recovered $3,214.42 taken in the Thursday night burglary of a south Monroe super market.

A spokesman for the B. A. Gentry super market, the burglarized store, told police the recovered amount was "pretty close to the amount taken."

Police said $2,500 of the money was recovered from a door facing inside the home of one of the admitted burglars. The rest was recovered from the three suspects, all identified as Negroes.

Held in the Ouachita parish jail are:

Bennie Miller, 24, 608 Adams, now a parole from Angola.

Det. Chief H. L. Tolbert said Williams netted $2,500 from the burglary that his accomplices didn't know about. Tolbert quoted Williams as saying he took the $2,500 from the store's safe "and slipped it in my shirt."

Williams said the safe was unlocked. However, a member of the super market staff said earlier he thought he had locked the safe.

Williams told police he stashed the $2,500 in the door facing at his home to "let it cool off—I knew it would be pretty hot for awhile."

Tolbert said the trio was arrested on a tip from an informer who overheard one of the men "talking about the robbery." After their arrest, Tolbert said, all three admitted participation.

Bond had not been set yesterday on Whitfield and Miller. Tolbert pointed out that Miller would be ineligible for bond due to his parole status.

Tolbert said none of the youths were employed.

Wanted: One Millionaire, Texas Style

Austrian Girl Hunts Husband In U.S.

DALLAS, Dec. 10 —UP— Anna Maria Springer of Vienna, Austria, whose picture indicates she has plenty of Old World charm, asked a Dallas editor Saturday to find her a rich and lonely Texan to whom she can offer "a hot heart."

Miss Springer wrote Editor Bill Ruggles of the Dallas Morning News that she wants a husband from Texas who can afford to buy her a 1956 Chevrolet for a wedding present. She promised Ruggles a mess of Viennese schnitzel if he delivers.

Her letter said:

"American newspaper people are said to have a right understanding of extraordinary or original conceptions. At least, this is rumored here in Vienna.

"Well, I suppose I have a somewhat unusual idea and therefore I apply to you. I do not intend to immoderately occupy your precious time. Therefore, to cut a long story short: I should like to marry an American of your state.

"He should be a mature man and not exactly the poorest of the country. I am 26 years of age, five feet, five inches tall and reddish-brown haired. I earned the academic title 'Bachelor of Commerce' at Vienna University.

"I should like to offer with Viennese charm a hot heart to a lonely feeling man who is ready to present me with a Chevrolet 56 for a wedding gift. I am dreaming of Texas, this most beautiful state of the U. S., of its everlasting sun and of its strong, husky men."

"I should be very grateful to you if you would publish this heart's desire of mine in your largely circulating newspaper. Should my desire realize owing to your help, I shall be very glad to serve you with original Viennese schnitzel at my wedding party."

(P. S.—Texas millionaires: Miss Springer's address is, Vienna 17, Haslingergrasse 2-2-22, Austria, Europe.)

LSU Researchers Plan Swamp Wildlife Study

BATON ROUGE, Dec. 10 (AP) — Louisiana State University researchers have moved from the laboratory to the swamps to study declining wildlife and take a look at nutria, an abundant invader from South America.

The long range marsh research program was continued this fall under a $16,700 grant from the fur and refuge division of the State Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

Researchers will catch and tag hundreds of marsh animals and birds in the most extensive project of its kind in North America.

Leslie L. Glascow, assistant professor of forestry and a noted wildlife expert, heads the project. He and his staff will seek the answer to two questions:

1. Why fewer migratory waterfowl are coming to Louisiana marshes? Glascow said many waterfowl now winter in managed areas in northern states.

2. Why the muskrat population has been drastically reduced in recent years? The muskrat was once the major target of Louisiana trappers.

And they will study the controversial nutria, a husky beaver-like newcomer from South America which has become abundant in the marshes and spread all along the Gulf of Mexico coast.

The nutria has provided a large income for trappers, but raised protest for its occasional raids on crops at farms north of the marshes.

"We haven't figured out whether the nutria is a friend or an enemy, Glascow said.

The researchers also will investigate oil exploration and development, cattle grazing, controlling water levels and burning of vegetation in the marshes.

Fire Destroys Home Of Hintons

A six room home about seven miles north of West Monroe on the White's Ferry Road was totally destroyed by fire shortly before noon Friday, according to Monroe firemen. It was the home of D. E. Hinton and his family, none of whom were home at the time.

Fire companies 107 and 111 answered the fire alarm, but the fire had gotten too much start and could not be stopped after the trucks arrived.

Firemen said there was hardly any way to determine the cause since it was such a complete loss. They said neighbors discovered the fire and entered the alarm. The house was estimated by firemen to be about 10 years old.

Stocks Try Vainly During Week For Decisive Climbs

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—The stock market tried vainly all week to make a decisive break into record high ground, but failed.

The Associated Press average ended the week at $181.30. That is a gain of 80 cents, but it was short of getting through the old record high of $181.50. That mark was established Sept. 23, the day before President Eisenhower suffered his heart attack. Then came the market's "cardiac crash." Last Monday the market marked its complete recovery when the average again got back to $181.50. Although it reached that figure, it never was able to go through it on a closing basis.

Acute weakness didn't spread through the market despite a number of opportunities. When Santa Fe directors took no action to split the company's stock, it fell 5½, but other rails were not hurt. It was the same when J. C. Penney directors didn't mention a split. The stock was off 4¾, but others weren't drawn into the decline.

Superior Oil of California advanced to a high of 1,080 and became the king of the high-priced stocks. The move eclipsed Coca-Cola International which held at 1,015 without trading all week. By Friday, Superior Oil was in second place again when it slipped back to 1,000.

The five most active issues this week were Benguet Mining up ¼, General Motors up ¼, Westinghouse up 1; Panhandle Oil off 1¼, and U.S. Steel up 1.

Intimate Visitor Quotes Pope: 'I Saw The Lord'

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 10 (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano today quoted an intimate visitor as saying Pope Pius XII exclaimed on Dec. 2, 1954: "This morning I saw the Lord."

The Vatican City newspaper, breaking its silence on the report of the pontiff's vision of Christ during his serious illness last winter, said the 79-year-old Pius was "displeased" that his experience had been revealed to the world.

"It is well to make clear that the Holy Father demonstrated himself to be displeased by the indiscretion, even though, doubtless, it was done with good intentions," said L'Osservatore.

The report of the Pope's vision was first published by the Milan weekly, Oggi, last month. The Vatican press office on Nov. 21 said the account was true. But the Vatican City newspaper had kept silent.

Today, the paper said that because of "uncertainities and inexact suppositions" it was printing "the precise exposition of the truth as we have received it from one of the very few devoted collaborators, who in that December, daily approached the pontiff."

L'Osservatore said this informant had written down an account of the pontiff's experience as he had first heard it from him, and then put it in a sealed envelope with the notation outside, "To be opened after my death."

But, said the newspaper, after the Oggi story was published he felt it was his duty to bring his account to the attention of the pontiff who "confirmed the veracity of the notes." L'Osservatore said its informant had recorded the event thus under the heading of "Audience of Dec. 2, 1954."

"Having entered the chamber of the Holy Father at about 9 o'clock, Dec. 2, the visitor had scarcely formulated, genuflecting, his morning greeting, when, as the only response he heard the Holy Father exclaim, 'This morning I saw the Lord.'

"The pontiff then added that on the preceding day he had heard a voice most clearly and distinctly announce: 'A vision will come.' That morning (of the vision) while he was repeating the invocation of 'Anima Christi' (Soul of Christ)—'In hora mortis meae voca me' (In the hour of my death call me), the Lord had come and had paused by him.

"In that moment His Holiness had immediately thought of the well-known passage of the Gospel of St. John: 'Magister adest et vocat te' (The teacher is present and calls thee) and, immediately, therefore, had added the following verse of the same 'Anima Christi' prayer: 'Et jube me venire ad te' (Order me to come to you)."

The newspaper said its informant stated the Pope gave the account "with admirable presence and freshness of spirit." No one was present at the time of the reported vision, he said, though a few persons were in an adjoining room.

It was on that night that the Pope suffered the climax of his illness and many despaired of his life. However, he rapidly recovered thereafter.

'Osservatore said the vision, as reported by its informant, "did not so much intend to signify the complete disappearance of the illness as the invincible force needed to overcome the most anguished difficulty, which had not yet occurred."

Underground Oil Storage Studied By Government

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The government is showing increasing interest in underground oil storage. The National Petroleum Council has set up a committee to study the industry's experience.

The government is interested from three viewpoints: Defense, economic and safety.

The request to the council was made by Hugh Stewart, director of the oil and gas division of the Interior Department. The council is an industry group which advises the department.

Walker Hallanan, council president, named H. S. Burns, president of the Shell Oil Co., chairman of the study committee.

A council committee concluded in 1952 that underground storage of such products as liquified petroleum gas was feasible. Since then, there has been a substantial increase in underground storage and in the methods used for providing such storage.

"The industry has become underground storage minded," an official of the council said,

Under ground storage now is being used for other oil products and for natural gas. The Defense Department expects to use underground caverns and old salt mines for storage of such military products as jet fuel and aviation gasolines.

The Federal Power Commission disposed of 39 rate increase applications from interstate pipeline companies amounting to $88,600,000 during the fiscal year ended last June 30, leaving pending 31 applications for increases totaling $134,700,000.

Rate increases totaling $54,400,000 were either disallowed or withdrawn.

Intimate Visitor Quotes Pope: 'I Saw The Lord'

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 10 (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano today quoted an intimate visitor as saying Pope Pius XII exclaimed on Dec. 2, 1954: "This morning I saw the Lord."

The Vatican City newspaper, breaking its silence on the report of the pontiff's vision of Christ during his serious illness last winter, said the 79-year-old Pius was "displeased" that his experience had been revealed to the world.

"It is well to make clear that the Holy Father demonstrated himself to be displeased by the indiscretion, even though, doubtless, it was done with good intentions," said L'Osservatore.

The report of the Pope's vision was first published by the Milan weekly, Oggi, last month. The Vatican press office on Nov. 21 said the account was true. But the Vatican City newspaper had kept silent.

Today, the paper said that because of "uncertainities and inexact suppositions" it was printing "the precise exposition of the truth as we have received it from one of the very few devoted collaborators, who in that December, daily approached the pontiff."

L'Osservatore said this informant had written down an account of the pontiff's experience as he had first heard it from him, and then put it in a sealed envelope with the notation outside, "To be opened after my death."

But, said the newspaper, after the Oggi story was published he felt it was his duty to bring his account to the attention of the pontiff who "confirmed the veracity of the notes." L'Osservatore said its informant had recorded the event thus under the heading of "Audience of Dec. 2, 1954."

"Having entered the chamber of the Holy Father at about 9 o'clock, Dec. 2, the visitor had scarcely formulated, genuflecting, his morning greeting, when, as the only response he heard the Holy Father exclaim, 'This morning I saw the Lord.'

"The pontiff then added that on the preceding day he had heard a voice most clearly and distinctly announce: 'A vision will come.' That morning (of the vision) while he was repeating the invocation of 'Anima Christi' (Soul of Christ)—'In hora mortis meae voca me' (In the hour of my death call me), the Lord had come and had paused by him.

"In that moment His Holiness had immediately thought of the well-known passage of the Gospel of St. John: 'Magister adest et vocat te' (The teacher is present and calls thee) and, immediately, therefore, had added the following verse of the same 'Anima Christi' prayer: 'Et jube me venire ad te' (Order me to come to you)."

The newspaper said its informant stated the Pope gave the account "with admirable presence and freshness of spirit." No one was present at the time of the reported vision, he said, though a few persons were in an adjoining room.

It was on that night that the Pope suffered the climax of his illness and many despaired of his life. However, he rapidly recovered thereafter.

'Osservatore said the vision, as reported by its informant, "did not so much intend to signify the complete disappearance of the illness as the invincible force needed to overcome the most anguished difficulty, which had not yet occurred."

Underground Oil Storage Studied By Government

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The government is showing increasing interest in underground oil storage. The National Petroleum Council has set up a committee to study the industry's experience.

The government is interested from three viewpoints: Defense, economic and safety.

The request to the council was made by Hugh Stewart, director of the oil and gas division of the Interior Department. The council is an industry group which advises the department.

Walter Hallanan, council president, named H. S. Burns, president of the Shell Oil Co., chairman of the study committee.

A council committee concluded in 1952 that underground storage of such products as liquified petroleum gas was feasible. Since then, there has been a substantial increase in underground storage and in the methods used for providing such storage.

"The industry has become underground storage minded," an official of the council said,

Under ground storage now is being used for other oil products and for natural gas. The Defense Department expects to use underground caverns and old salt mines for storage of such military products as jet fuel and aviation gasolines.

The Federal Power Commission disposed of 39 rate increase applications from interstate pipeline companies amounting to $88,600,000 during the fiscal year ended last June 30, leaving pending 31 applications for increases totaling $134,700,000.

Rate increases totaling $54,400,000 were either disallowed or withdrawn.

Morrison Cites His Own Record On Enforcement

DENHAM SPRINGS, Dec. 10 (Special)—Strict law enforcement was instituted by his administration in Orleans Parish more quickly and more effectively than such action was taken by other agencies, Chep Morrison said here today.

He said that his drive against gambling, narcotics and vice was launched the hour he took office ten years ago and that his critics seem to have forgotten this in attempting to make personal attacks on him as a candidate for governor.

Morrison and his running mate, Lt. Gov. C. E. "Cap" Barham, candidate for re-election completed over two days of stumping in the sixth congressional district with their appearance here

"My opponents continue to conduct a campaign based on personalities and not on issues," Morrison declared. "This is because they have no record of performance and thus resort to old-style personal attacks. The people of Louisiana are ready for a constructive program to improve our great state and to achieve for us the growth and prosperity we have been denied because of either poor or ineffective leadership.

"The worst part of these personal attacks is that you folks hear only one side of the story and a very distorted one at that. My record on law enforcement has been praised nation-wide and has been recognized as one of the most courageous fights ever conducted in a major American city. Long before these critics did anything about enforcing the law and while they were living with constant violations I was fighting an uphill battle in my own parish.

"But in recent years everyone is joining the law enforcement bandwagon and trying to create a distorted picture of conditions in my own parish.

"The federal, state and city governments all make arrests in Orleans Parish for narcotics, gambling and vice. I have heard a lot of boasting. But far more important are the records themselves. During the past three years our city government has made 95 to 97 per cent of all the arrests in these categories.

"The state activity, considering day by day enforcement, has been the least of these three agencies although publicity-wise they have made the most noise.

"There is no monopoly on information. It goes to all three agencies and we are pleased to have the assistance of the federal and state agencies. Everyone arrest and conviction helps us in the fight we are making to keep our parish clean and law-abiding. Both the superintendent of police and myself have welcomed, publicity and otherwise, any additional raids. We say that competition is good in law enforcement."

Barham noted that the campaign has taken him to all parts of the state and he said "What I have seen and what people tell me proves beyond a doubt that the campaign is a two-man race between Chep Morrison and Earl Long. Morrison is very close to Long even in north Louisiana where I come from and it is a close race in the fourth and fifth districts. I know that country and I know what I am talking about.

"If the people who are going to vote against Earl Long would get behind Chep Morrison—because he is the only one in a contending position—we could decide this election in the first primary."

Morrison today issued the following statement:

"It has come to my attention that one of my opponents has been directing a particularly foul smear campaign against me in certain parts of our state.

"Although my campaign has been and will continue to be based on a positive and constructive level, the nature of this attack calls for a reply".

"I would like to point out that I was the first candidate in the election to take a firm stand with regards to maintaining segregation in our state. My platform, the first pltaform made public, specifically and by name stands on the segregation amendment of 1954, drawn by the Rainach special segregation committee of the legislature and approved overwhelmingly by both white and colored voters in a statewide referendum.

"It is unfortunate that this candidate, having copied my platform plank on segregation, now finds himself so far behind in the race that he is grabbing for votes by ments, malicious and false statements. It is a shabby demonsration to say the least.

Folsom Beaten On Amendment

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10 (AP) —Late returns from Jefferson, the only county directly concerned, today gave apparent victory to an amendment opposed by Alabama's Gov. James E. Folsom.

The measure, No. 20, was the only one of some 30 on last Tuesday's ballot to win approval by the voters. Folsom charged that it was a move by Birmingham lawyers to take away some of his powers.

A complete unofficial tabulation on the Jefferson amendment gave it 115,312 favorable votes, with 113,870 opposing.

Folsom said yesterday he had not really gone all out to defeat the Jefferson amendment, but that it would lose anyway. He said if he had wanted it beaten badly, he would have called some of his friends in the Legislature and it would have lost two to one.

The amendment provides that the chief justice of the Alabama Supreme Court may fill vacancies on the Jefferson Circuit Court provided the governor fails to make an appointment within 90 days.

Such a vacancy has existed for months. Under another local act, the governor is required to make such appointments from a list of three names approved by the Jefferson Judicial Commission. The three men whose names were approved opposed Folsom for governor in 1954.

'Cap' Barham Should Be Re-Elected

Lieutenant Governor C. E. "Cap" Barham, of Ruston, fully deserves reelection to his present post, which he is seeking as running mate of gubernatorial candidate deLesseps "Chep" Morrison of New Orleans. His record in the office he seeks to retain warrants support for him from every voter in the state.

The World already has stated, in endorsing Mr. Morrison, that Louisiana is indeed fortunate to have two such thoroughly experienced and provenly capable men available for election to the two top executive posts of its government. Together they form a team of unusual qualifications—Morrison the young, enthusiastic, proven administrator of the huge business of governing the largest city in the state; Barham, the more seasoned man at the level of state government, fully proven in the legislative field, and exceptionally qualified to perform the duties of acting governor which fall on the lieutenant governor when the chief executive is out of the state.

In the months of last summer and spring before formal announcement of candidates for various posts, the World felt that no governor-lieutenant governor candidate team could be found that would be more certain of defeating the Earl Long ticket than Mr. Morrison and Mr. Barham.

We felt also that no team could be found which would be as well qualified—as provenly qualified through actual experience in administration of government—for the high posts of governor and lieutenant-governor.

That judgment of the past has been strengthened by the clean, straight-forward manner in which these two men have been campaigning, neither of them dodging an issue or a question, neither of them engaging in mudslinging no matter how much mud is slung at them. We are confident that, in the offices which they seek, they will be a credit to all who help put them there.

"Cap" Barham deserves far more than mere team endorsement, however. He has a record in and out of public office of which he always can be proud.

He is a prominent layman of the First Baptist Church in Ruston, a leader in both civic and political affairs for the area in which he resides.

In 1948, when he first announced as a candidate for the State Senate, no one else entered the race against him. The people who knew Mr. Barham best—his friends and neighbors in the senatorial district parishes of Lincoln, Union, Morehouse and West Carroll—obviously felt that no better choice could be made.

In the Senate, "Cap" Barham distinguished himself for his independence. He did not hesitate to vote with the forces of Governor Earl Long when he thought that was the right way to vote. He did not hesitate to stand up and vigorously oppose the Long forces when he thought they were wrong.

He has served in the same way as lieutenant-governor in the Kennon administration. He strongly opposed the Kennon plan of big bond issues without letting the people vote on them. He spoke out against reckless appropriation which now would have the Kennon administration an estimated $80,000,000 in the hole for its final two years but for the temporary windfall revenue that came from tidelands leasing. At the same time he gave sincere support to the Kennon administration in its better administrative steps.

In 1948 "Cap" Barham was one of those pledging himself to uphold civil service. He supported the Madden bill for some restrictions on civil service, but when Governor Long personally broke his own pledge for civil service and the bill for repeal came up, "Cap" turned his full strength against it and kept his pledge.

The strong independent support given "Cap" Barham by the electorate in 1952 in his election as lieutenant governor undoubtedly came in large part from his record of courage, competence and independence while a Senator. In the first primary he was not on the winning Kennon ticket, but nevertheless beat the Kennon candidate for the spot in the second primary against the Long-Spaht ticket. He was elected overwhelmingly.

When the Kennon administration promptly hiked the salaries of all state office holders, including the governor and the legislators, "Cap" Barham refused to accept the increase offered for his post. He has kept on refusing it and works for the same salary paid his predecessor. He was the only public office holder in the entire state to refuse a salary increase.

At the end of the past fiscal year, Mr. Barham returned to the state treasury $26,000 in unexpended funds which had been appropriated for his post, being one of the very few public officials to operate his office well below the budget estimates.

The New Orleans Times Picayune, after endorsing "Chep" Morrison for governor, devoted a separate editorial to endorsement of "Cap" Barham, doing this despite the fact that it always has held in high regard the New Orleans Kennon ticket candidate for Lieutenant governor. The Times Picayune said in part:

"In eight years' service as an elected officer in the state government, four years as a senator and four years as lieutenant-governor, Mr. Barham has built a record which reflects courage and competence.

"Prominent among his characteristics, as shown by this record, is his determination to make his own decisions—regardless of whose administration may be in power. . . . Mr. Barham's record as a senator and as lieutenant-governor is open to all citizens of the state. This record, in our opinion, reflects credit on him.

"It seems to us that the welfare and progress of the whole state will be advanced by reelecting Lt.-Gov. Barham."

Over in Ruston, "Cap's" home town, the Daily Leader had this to say of its local citizen when, a few days ago, it endorsed both Mr. Morrison and Mr. Barham:

"We all know Cap Barham. He has been a citizen of this parish all his life and a leader in our community since coming here to practice law. His term as lieutenant-governor has proven his desire to serve the people with an honest, working, common-sense program. He at all times has felt that he represented the ordinary citizen of the state, and never any special interest.

"The Leader has followed Cap's work in the capitol and reported his views on many things, many times, and on none of them have we found him taking an arbitrary stand. We know he has worked hard every day of the past four years, neglecting his business and his family to attend to duties of state whenever he was called or could help. On many occasions he has opposed special selfish groups when it was hard for him to do so. But the general good of all the people has been his purpose, and we think without consideration for himself he has done this."

Supreme Court —Griffin

Oak Grove, La.

Editor, Morning World:

With disgust and deep regret, I read of the inconsiderate action of a southern governor.

It is only the Supreme Court and actions like this that gives us anything to worry about regarding relations of white and colored.

And such action as this is not sanctioned by any great number of southern white men. Most southern white men are respectful and considerate of the rights and feelings of all men.

Right To Work Laws

Louisville, Ky.

Editor, Morning World:

I was surprised and alarmed, as well as indignant, to see a recent issue of the "Democratic Digest," official publication of the National Democratic Committee, attacking the Republican party for its failure to advocate repeal of the Right To Work laws in various states.

As a lifelong registered Democrat, and a union member of some twenty years standing, this is a most startling development to me. I personally know the evils of compulsory unionism, having had to fight through the courts of the land my own defense against explusion from my union, of which I was a district chairman for seven years, until I dared to publicly express, and to the Congress, my opposition to an amendment to the Railway Labor Act which permitted compulsory unionism or the union shop on the railroads. I was immediately attacked by the powerful hierarchy of the railway clerks union and expelled on the grounds that no member is entitled to express his opinion to the public or to Congress if it doesn't exactly coincide with that of "his bosses", that is, the entrenched leadership of the union.

To see my own Democratic party, which has prided itself over the years as representing true liberalism and defending the rights of the common man, come out in criticism of anyone, or any organization, for failure to advocate repeal of the state laws which protect these rights is indeed hard to take and beyond my understanding.

I thank God, that, at last, there are indications that the great American people are awakening to the very grave threat to individual liberty that this completely unacceptable principle of forced unionism is bringing to America. I am a member of the Board of Directors of the National Right to Work committee, an organization formed of both businessmen and workers, to bring to public attention the evils of union compulsion. It is encouraging to see the enthusiastic response our campaign is generating among small businessmen, industrialists, workers, professional people and others throughout the country. It is significant too, that a majority of such workers are union members.

I do not, for one moment, believe that compulsory unionism is supported by the Democratic party and I am convinced that once they recognize the dangerous and radical position in which a few members of their professional leadership is attempting to place them — that is, behind the power-hungry demands of a few union leaders for such dictatorial economic control over all American workers — they will repudiate it wholeheartedly.

I believe that every American citizen should have the right to join or not join any organization which is not subversive and which he thinks is to his own advantage to be a member. But I most emphatically do not agree that it is the right of a few paid professional staff members of My Democratic party to suddenly adopt a program which has the sponsorship of a few union leaders, and I am convinced is despised by the great mass of Americans, which has never been approved or made a part of the platform of either the Democratic or Republican party, and attempt to tell me that, as a Democrat, I should be in favor of compulsory unionism.

Security Matters

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

My idea of newspaper publications are that matters most essential for discussion are matters that most deeply threaten the security of our country; matters that have been actively operating under cover and partly in the open in a disguised way should have first place in all the columns of the papers.

About three weeks ago I wrote you a forum letter designed to show that the NAACP is not an all Negro institution. In that letter I named William Z. Foster as being a leader in the Communist association in the U. S. As this letter has not appeared in the paper I wonder if this is the reason why the letter has not been published. If so, I will say that nothing published relative to Foster's connection with the Communist party can be libelous; because this has been a matter of history for more than thirty years. In 1924-1928, and 1932, William Z. Foster was nominated by the Communist party for president of the U. S. The last time he was nominated an Alabama Negro, James W. Ford, was nominated as Foster's running mate for vice president. And on the 29 of July 1945, W. Z. Foster was chosen to replace Earl Browder as head of the Communist party in the U. S. The foregoing is positive American history, and is not libelous against William Z. Foster. On July 25, 1945, the Communists voted to institute the Communist political party in the U. S., which is absolutely constitutional and cannot be outlawed. It's time for folks to wake up and look around.

More About The Poker Game

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

More about the poker game hold up for which two men, namely Charles Russell and Lannie Dortch were convicted of armed robbery. I can recall that someone close to falsely accused Russell of having been in the reform school here and also for serving time at Angola. Now then, should his mother not know of such happenings? His records were such as a fine pupil would have and he was very obedient at all times. No boy goes to reform school for being studious and well mannered!! As for the Angola incident, there are no records at Angola or here in the sheriff's office to verify such a statement. But I will say that though he was very young he did enlist in the Army and went overseas to fight for his country for six long years, and came out afterwards with an honorable discharge with citations for bravery and a letter of congratulations from the Commander in Chief, who is presently our president.

Such statements may have had some bearing on the 12 good men that rendered his verdict. He has never made his living by gambling with cards or anything else. His record as a working man is beyond reproach and can be checked. For instance, during his stay in California, he worked in the oil fields as well as here, drew good pay, and had a check from his income tax of this year of more than four hundred dollars. Not one of the state's witnesses could produce such records.

On the contrary, some witnesses could hardly produce an honorable discharge from the 2nd war. I do mean some of the state witnesses who so strongly claimed that they recognized Russell as one of the bandits. Has it ever occurred to you that the people manufacturing don't stop off at just one pair of shoes! Some refer to the Dortch revolvers. Those two were not the only revolvers of their kind from the makers of fire arms. Too, Billy Deal was brought here to testify against those two men, after boasting that he was coming to make sure they would get more time in Angola than he. He also testified that his brother took him out of state to evade the law. Now then, was his brother molested by the law for doing this? No, for it seemed he knew he would have been branded as an accomplice in the robbery!

Too, may I say to you who were present at the time or read of it in the papers, from Billy Deal's testimony that his brother drove him out of state, would one not think that perhaps his brother could have been at very close range to act so quickly in getting out of the state? Now, was this brother ever called upon the witness stand. . . No, surely not. That would have then, perhaps implicated him in the robbery. But just helping his brother out in the robbery seemed to be no crime in this state. The two men that were connected with the poker game and fined, had their money in their pockets. All others participating in the game also claimed they were robbed from their pockets. I must say that was a very late model poker game, no chips, all money concealed in their pockets. The bandits were masked and still saw that money in their pockets.

Dear Readers, such evidence as that of a convict and the thin statements of those gamblers surely should be exposed to the public. Seems the poor people who testified as to the whereabouts of Russell and Dortch at the time of the robbery had absolutely no bearing whatsoever in this case. But a Billy Deal who was convicted for his part in the robbery, was out on bond, then robbed a preacher and beat him unmercifully with his revolver. That really had a tremendous amount of weight on the 12 jury men.

So, let's hope the judge in this case will consider and justly have in mind that evidence before sentencing them to serve time at Angola. May I say in closing as one will know, they are now at the mercy of the trial judge, well known as a capable and just man.

Thanks, and may God be their future Judge.

The Only Path To Follow

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The other day while I sat at my window, watching the flashes of lightning and listening to the roar of thunder, that seemed to shake the whole town, and put terror in the hearts of people, I wondered how frail is the earth. How weak are mankind in the hands of this mighty king, who created this earth, yet can shake or destroy it in a minute's notice? "He who has the power to change day into night; summer into winter; life into death."

After seeing the work done by this powerful God, in the destructions caused by some of the recent hurricanes and the ravages of the floods that followed in some of our eastern states and Mexico; the earthquake in San Francisco; the deaths and injuries in the latest plane crashes, and in the traffic accidents on the highways; the sudden deaths of some of our leading citizens in the past few months brings up the question: Who or what next, and when?

It seems to me the only goal to work for in life, the only path to follow, is the road that leads to heaven.

Wants Law Of Supply And Demand In Cotton Business

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Vote against government farm controls and cotton acreage allotments, otherwise we will lose our cotton business in this country due to foreign nations doubling their cotton acreage having no restriction they can undersell us. We have just about lost our foreign trade or markets for cotton, with rayon, nylon and other different kinds of fabrications that are moving in rapidly. With this government in the cotton business, buying and lending money on cotton that is being held, and not sold—millions of bales, then hallooing "surplus," naturally if you hold it away from the consumers who buy it up and wear it out, and create a demand for the next crop. The law of supply and demand must govern. Anything that goes up will come down, and anything that goes down will come back up, always has and always will. Weather conditions govern crop production totally.

A farmer calls it a season, a good season, a good crop, a poor season a short crop, and no one has ever seen two seasons following each other just alike. Always different, so you farm differently each and every year. Don't forget that cotton clothes were the first things you used when you came into this world, and are the only things you take with you when you leave here — that black cotton suit, the only thing left off is the pockets. This applies to all living human beings. Why shouldn't it be called King Cotton. Now with this government control stuff, all concocked as a vote getter, will in the course of time put the cotton industry out of business. Then think of the millions of people that would be out of jobs. Everybody must have some kind of employment to have a prosperous nation. This cotton business gives more employment than any other industry in this nation, from the cotton picker through to the spinners. We have the pickers, thousands of them, cotton haulers, thousands of cotton gins who employ 10 to 20 men each, all of the cotton compresses, all of the oil mills in the cotton belt using hundreds of men each. Railroads have millions of bales of cotton, truck haulers, thousands of them.

If we were to lose this cotton business in this country it would be the worst calamity that ever happened to this nation. Many small farmers are taking out now.

Candidate Tells NAACP To Go 'Where It Never Snows

Ruston, La.

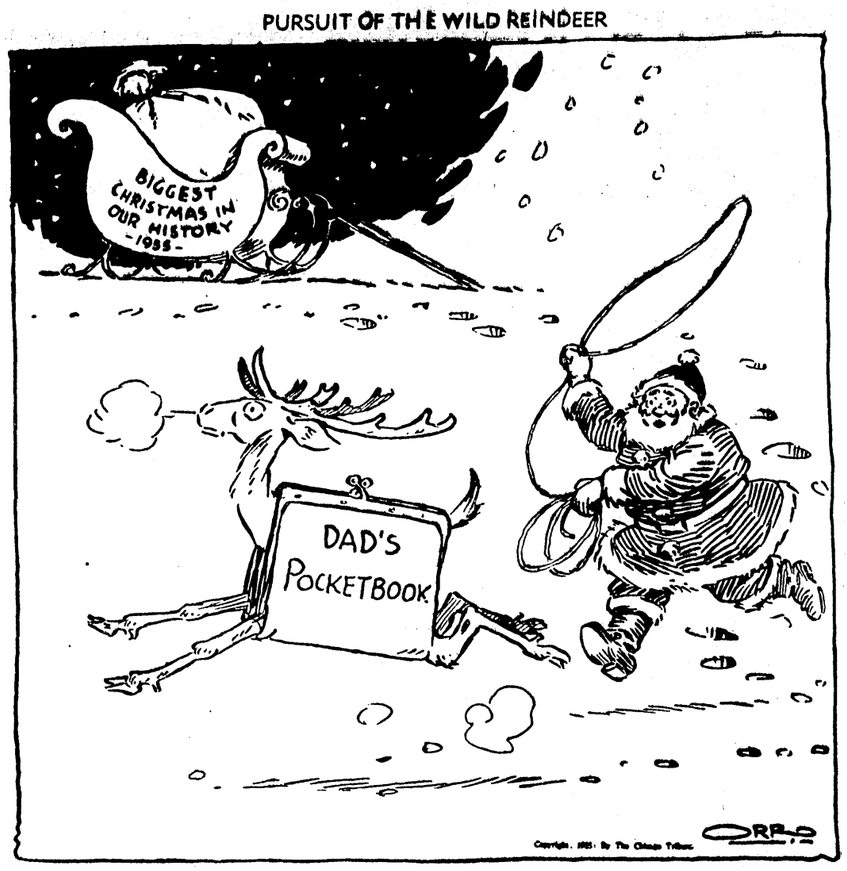

Editor, Morning World:

The righteous peace - loving people of this state can be thankful that we have one man in this gubernatorial race who has the "guts" to tell the troublesome NAACP to go where it never snows. He has tacitly advised them he doesn't want their spurious votes, advises them to get out of Louisiana.

Lots of our colored people I believe will vote for Mr. Fred Preaus if he will expose this NAACP, tell the colored people how it was organized by white people, all Leftists, and is now infested with white people who are drawing big fat salaries. The president is a white man. Standing behind all this are the Communists who want nothing from the colored people but trouble between the races.

There are 308 subversive organizations in the US. Both Mr. Truman and Mr. Eisenhower know whether the NAACP is subversive but dare not brand it so for fear of losing the minority vote. Ostensibly, their proclivities for votes exceed their cleanliness in spirit. The state of Georgia is calling for legislation to outlaw the NAACP. At present the NAACP is operating illegally in Georgia as it has not registered as a domestic or foreign corporation. Apparently education isn't the foremost aim of the NAACP in its demand for desegregation in our schools. It's mongrelization. Political sharks and the Communists may ultimately cause the Negroes to lose everything they have ever gained here in America.

IN WASHINGTON

Tax Evaders

Regardless of its outcome, there is a sad and sorry note in the criminal indictment of Matthew J. Connolly, former appointments secretary to President Truman, and Theron Lamar Caudle, former Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

It is the revelation — never a secret in Washington — that high political figures and important government officials will give consideration to confessed big income tax evaders, when they would not allow alleged perpetrators of other crimes to cross their thresholds.

Unfortunately that has been the case almost since the income tax law became effective, according to reliable report. It certainly was true in the Harding administration when not only income taxes but other federal tax "fixes" were common gossip in the capital.

That is not to imply any guilt on the part of Messrs. Connolly and Caudle, but the background of the indictment, as known here, supports the general impression that such high officials do try to help persons charged with criminal evasion of income tax, so long as they have the right political connection.

Irving Sachs, the key figure in the indictments was president of a St. Louis shoe company. He was fined $40,000 in 1951 for intentional evasion of income tax, and escaped a prison sentence only on a physician's certificate that a jail term might cause his death. He is still living.

Sachs made every possible effort to have the case "fixed" through political channels. That has been attested in detail by a former official of the Democratic national committee, who served during the regime of Chairman William Boyle of Kansas City, close friend of President Truman, who headed the committee during a large portion of Truman's elective term.

The story is that Sachs first approached Boyle through intermediaries on the representation that he had been a heavy Democratic campaign contributor and was being unfairly treated by the bureau of internal revenue. Boyle was warned that the bureau was ready to indict Sachs and believed that it had an airtight case against him.

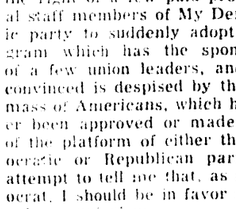

However, the pressure on Boyle was renewed several times from various sources, not all of them identified. The government's charge is that Sachs went to Connolly, presumably after failing to see Boyle, and was then referred to Assistant Attorney General Caudle. A number of charges in the indictment flow out of those meetings and subsequent developments but their truth or falsity will be determined by a trial jury.

Reports from within the department of justice predict that grand grand jury indictments will be brought against several other individuals, including some former government officials. Such developments, of course, are the result of diligent work by the department since it came under Republican control, and the indictments already returned have been attacked as political. Political considerations have undoubtedly spurred the investigators on during the two years they have been at work.

However, income tax scandals reached their peak during the Truman administration, with the general counsel of the internal revenue bureau, Charles Oliphant resigning under charges that he had been too friendly with certain tax lawyers; the conviction and sentencing of Dan Bolich, assistant commissioner of internal revenue on tax evasion charges, and Joseph D. Nunn, former U. S. commissioner of internal revenue (1944-47) on similar charges. Lesser officials at New York, Brooklyn and St. Louis were also indicted.

The atmosphere in which these indictments came about, regardless of whether they were sustained or not, is not beneficial to the welfare of the United States. It further demonstrated that income tax violations are not regarded as of the same gravity as other crimes. Those charged with tax offenses, for instance would probably have nothing to do with a case involving narcotics, white slavery, or kidnapping, all federal offenses.

Britain Is Tweeked Awake

Viscount William Waldorf Astor has addressed the House of Lords with these words:

"Britain has a dedicated fifth column with no standards of honor, no patriotism and no possibility of compromise."

Well, what do you know!

For a decade the British have chided our security efforts. They said we were looking for spooks when Messrs. McCarran and Walter sought to fingerprint visitors from behind the iron curtain.

Suddenly the skeletons of spies Burgess and McLean begin rattling around in the Downing Street closet and now. . .

"For the first time since the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, we have a fifth column in this country that has penetrated the highest ranks of the civil service, apparently the scientists and even the church."

Astor urged the strictest security measures.

And the same day, the London Daily Express launched a scathing attack on the United Nations, calling it "an agency for stirring up hostility" and calling upon Britain to renounce it.

The Express told its four million circulation that the UN harbors spies and provides a sanctuary for subversives with protected pipelines for their propaganda.

At long last Britain has been tweeked awake by the ghastly realization that spies in her own foreign office must be blamed for the tragic pileup of dead bodies along Korea's 38th parallel.

However, temporary this awareness, Britain is blushing in public.

The Burgess - McLean fiasco was not a total loss if it taught the stuffy critics of security measures how such damage can be wrought by the hands of a subversive few.

It is still being said in our own country that we must be careful not to jeopardize the freedom of the many in order to corral a handful of rascals.

Poland and Czechoslovakia and Hungary and Romania would know by now that "a few" is all it takes.

The head Red in the whole party, Nikita Khrushchev, last month in New Delhi boasted, "Soviet Communist party members now total eight million. The nation and the party are inseparable."

Probably he lied. Probably he multiplied the truth, at least by two.

But since we cannot prove him wrong, let's take Mr. Khrushchev's own figures.

Eight million. . .out of a nation of two hundred and twenty million. . .are running the show!

Four per cent of the people are "wagging the dog."

Authority administered by three men, in the hands of a disciplined four per cent, can put all the rest in chains!

Until, as the man says, "The nation and the party are inseparable."

John Edgar Hoover said it: "In our much-vaunted tolerance for all peoples, the Communist has found our Achilles heel."

Congressional Quarterly

Q — There's been a lot of attention paid to "WOC's" recently. Is a WOC: a woman soldier; a new kind of supersonic aircraft; a government consultant who isn't paid; or something that goes to make an alcoholic drink?

A — It's a term applied to unpaid (With Out Compensation) government advisers — mostly businessmen.

Q — Quite a few members of Congress aspire to the presidency. But only one man in the nation's history has served in all of these offices: U. S. Representative, U. S. Senator, state governor, and president. Is he: George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Andrew Johnson or Warren G. Harding?

A — Andrew Johnson of Tennessee — who is, oddly, the only president to have suffered impeachment proceedings against him by Congress. But score yourself correct if you answered Andrew Jackson instead. Jackson represented Tennessee while he served in the House and Senate, and "Old Hickory" also was governor of Florida — but before it became a state.

'Cap' Barham Should Be Re-Elected

Lieutenant Governor C. E. "Cap" Barham, of Ruston, fully deserves reelection to his present post, which he is seeking as running mate of gubernatorial candidate deLesseps "Chep" Morrison of New Orleans. His record in the office he seeks to retain warrants support for him from every voter in the state.

The World already has stated, in endorsing Mr. Morrison, that Louisiana is indeed fortunate to have two such thoroughly experienced and provenly capable men available for election to the two top executive posts of its government. Together they form a team of unusual qualifications—Morrison the young, enthusiastic, proven administrator of the huge business of governing the largest city in the state; Barham, the more seasoned man at the level of state government, fully proven in the legislative field, and exceptionally qualified to perform the duties of acting governor which fall on the lieutenant governor when the chief executive is out of the state.

In the months of last summer and spring before formal announcement of candidates for various posts, the World felt that no governor-lieutenant governor candidate team could be found that would be more certain of defeating the Earl Long ticket than Mr. Morrison and Mr. Barham.

We felt also that no team could be found which would be as well qualified—as provenly qualified through actual experience in administration of government—for the high posts of governor and lieutenant-governor.

That judgment of the past has been strengthened by the clean, straight-forward manner in which these two men have been campaigning, neither of them dodging an issue or a question, neither of them engaging in mudslinging no matter how much mud is slung at them. We are confident that, in the offices which they seek, they will be a credit to all who help put them there.

"Cap" Barham deserves far more than mere team endorsement, however. He has a record in and out of public office of which he always can be proud.

He is a prominent layman of the First Baptist Church in Ruston, a leader in both civic and political affairs for the area in which he resides.

In 1948, when he first announced as a candidate for the State Senate, no one else entered the race against him. The people who knew Mr. Barham best—his friends and neighbors in the senatorial district parishes of Lincoln, Union, Morehouse and West Carroll—obviously felt that no better choice could be made.

In the Senate, "Cap" Barham distinguished himself for his independence. He did not hesitate to vote with the forces of Governor Earl Long when he thought that was the right way to vote. He did not hesitate to stand up and vigorously oppose the Long forces when he thought they were wrong.

He has served in the same way as lieutenant-governor in the Kennon administration. He strongly opposed the Kennon plan of big bond issues without letting the people vote on them. He spoke out against reckless appropriation which now would have the Kennon administration an estimated $80,000,000 in the hole for its final two years but for the temporary windfall revenue that came from tidelands leasing. At the same time he gave sincere support to the Kennon administration in its better administrative steps.

In 1948 "Cap" Barham was one of those pledging himself to uphold civil service. He supported the Madden bill for some restrictions on civil service, but when Governor Long personally broke his own pledge for civil service and the bill for repeal came up, "Cap" turned his full strength against it and kept his pledge.

The strong independent support given "Cap" Barham by the electorate in 1952 in his election as lieutenant governor undoubtedly came in large part from his record of courage, competence and independence while a Senator. In the first primary he was not on the winning Kennon ticket, but nevertheless beat the Kennon candidate for the spot in the second primary against the Long-Spaht ticket. He was elected overwhelmingly.

When the Kennon administration promptly hiked the salaries of all state office holders, including the governor and the legislators, "Cap" Barham refused to accept the increase offered for his post. He has kept on refusing it and works for the same salary paid his predecessor. He was the only public office holder in the entire state to refuse a salary increase.

At the end of the past fiscal year, Mr. Barham returned to the state treasury $26,000 in unexpended funds which had been appropriated for his post, being one of the very few public officials to operate his office well below the budget estimates.

The New Orleans Times Picayune, after endorsing "Chep" Morrison for governor, devoted a separate editorial to endorsement of "Cap" Barham, doing this despite the fact that it always has held in high regard the New Orleans Kennon ticket candidate for Lieutenant governor. The Times Picayune said in part:

"In eight years' service as an elected officer in the state government, four years as a senator and four years as lieutenant-governor, Mr. Barham has built a record which reflects courage and competence.

"Prominent among his characteristics, as shown by this record, is his determination to make his own decisions —regardless of whose administration may be in power. . . . Mr. Barham's record as a senator and as lieutenant-governor is open to all citizens of the state. This record, in our opinion, reflects credit on him.

"It seems to us that the welfare and progress of the whole state will be advanced by reelecting Lt.-Gov. Barham."

Over in Ruston, "Cap's" home town, the Daily Leader had this to say of its local citizen when, a few days ago, it endorsed both Mr. Morrison and Mr. Barham:

"We all know Cap Barham. He has been a citizen of this parish all his life and a leader in our community since coming here to practice law. His term as lieutenant-governor has proven his desire to serve the people with an honest, working, common-sense program. He at all times has felt that he represented the ordinary citizen of the state, and never any special interest.

"The Leader has followed Cap's work in the capitol and reported his views on many things, many times, and on none of them have we found him taking an arbitrary stand. We know he has worked hard every day of the past four years, neglecting his business and his family to attend to duties of state whenever he was called or could help. On many occasions he has opposed special selfish groups when it was hard for him to do so. But the general good of all the people has been his purpose, and we think without consideration for himself he has done this."

As for the Angola incident, there are no records at Angola or here in the sheriff's office to verify such a statement. But I will say that though he was very young he did enlist in the Army and went overseas to fight for his country for six long years, and came out afterwards with an honorable discharge with citations for bravery and a letter of congratulations from the Commander in Chief, who is presently our president.

Such statements may have had some bearing on the 12 good men that rendered his verdict. He has never made his living by gambling with cards or anything else. His record as a working man is beyond reproach and can be checked. For instance, during his stay in California, he worked in the oil fields as well as here, drew good pay, and had a check from his income tax of this year of more than four hundred dollars. Not one of the state's witnesses could produce such records.

On the contrary, some witnesses could hardly produce an honorable discharge from the 2nd war. I do mean some of the state witnesses who so strongly claimed that they recognized Russell as one of the bandits. Has it ever occurred to you that the people manufacturing don't stop off at just one pair of shoes! Some refer to the Dortch revolvers. Those two were not the only revolvers of their kind from the makers of fire arms. Too, Billy Deal was brought here to testify against those two men, after boasting that he was coming to make sure they would get more time in Angola than he. He also testified that his brother took him out of state to evade the law. Now then, was his brother molested by the law for doing this? No, for it seemed he knew he would have been branded as an accomplice in the robbery!

Too, may I say to you who were present at the time or read of it in the papers, from Billy Deal's testimony that his brother drove him out of state, would one not think that perhaps his brother could have been at very close range to act so quickly in getting out of the state? Now, was this brother ever called upon the witness stand. . . No, surely not. That would have then, perhaps implicated him in the robbery. But just helping his brother out in the robbery seemed to be no crime in this state. The two men that were connected with the poker game and fined, had their money in their pockets. All others participating in the game also claimed they were robbed from their pockets. I must say that was a very late model poker game, no chips, all money concealed in their pockets. The bandits were masked and still saw that money in their pockets.

Dear Readers, such evidence as that of a convict and the thin statements of those gamblers surely should be exposed to the public. Seems the poor people who testified as to the whereabouts of Russell and Dortch at the time of the robbery had absolutely no bearing whatsoever in this case. But a Billy Deal who was convicted for his part in the robbery, was out on bond, then robbed a preacher and beat him unmercifully with his revolver. That really had a tremendous amount of weight on the 12 jury men.

So, let's hope the judge in this case will consider and justly have in mind that evidence before sentencing them to serve time at Angola. May I say in closing as one will know, they are now at the mercy of the trial judge, well known as a capable and just man.

Thanks, and may God be their future Judge.

Timely Editorial

Washington, D. C.

Editor, Morning World:

Permit me to express our gratitude for the timely editorial support that your newspaper has given The American Legion's policy on UNESCO.

Needless to say, our UNESCO action evoked loud and bitter booing from a large segment of the American press, and the Life magazine treatment was echoed in many newspapers.

We are grateful to you and to others around the country for your accurate interpretation of the National Convention resolution.

The Only Path To Follow

Lafayette, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The other day while I sat at my window, watching the flashes of lightning and listening to the roar of thunder, that seemed to shake the whole town, and put terror in the hearts of people, I wondered how frail is the earth. How weak are mankind in the hands of this mighty king, who created this earth, yet can shake or destroy it in a minute's notice? "He who has the power to change day into night; summer into winter; life into death."

After seeing the work done by this powerful God, in the destructions caused by some of the recent hurricanes and the ravages of the floods that followed in some of our eastern states and Mexico; the earthquake in San Francisco; the deaths and injuries in the latest plane crashes, and in the traffic accidents on the highways; the sudden deaths of some of our leading citizens in the past few months brings up the question: Who or what next, and when?

It seems to me the only goal to work for in life, the only path to follow, is the road that leads to heaven.

Wants Law Of Supply And Demand In Cotton Business

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Vote against government farm controls and cotton acreage allotments, otherwise we will lose our cotton business in this country due to foreign nations doubling their cotton acreage having no restriction they can undersell us. We have just about lost our foreign trade or markets for cotton, with rayon, nylon and other different kinds of fabrications that are moving in rapidly. With this government in the cotton business, buying and lending money on cotton that is being held, and not sold—millions of bales, then hallooing "surplus," naturally if you hold it away from the consumers who buy it up and wear it out, and create a demand for the next crop. The law of supply and demand must govern. Anything that goes up will come down, and anything that goes down will come back up, always has and always will. Weather conditions govern crop production totally.

A farmer calls it a season, a good season, a good crop, a poor season a short crop, and no one has ever seen two seasons following each other just alike. Always different, so you farm differently each and every year. Don't forget that cotton clothes were the first things you used when you came into this world, and are the only things you take with you when you leave here — that black cotton suit, the only thing left off is the pockets. This applies to all living human beings. Why shouldn't it be called King Cotton. Now with this government control stuff, all concocked as a vote getter, will in the course of time put the cotton industry out of business. Then think of the millions of people that would be out of jobs. Everybody must have some kind of employment to have a prosperous nation. This cotton business gives more employment than any other industry in this nation, from the cotton picker through to the spinners. We have the pickers, thousands of them, cotton haulers, thousands of cotton gins who employ 10 to 20 men each, all of the cotton compresses, all of the oil mills in the cotton belt using hundreds of men each. Railroads have millions of bales of cotton, truck haulers, thousands of them.

If we were to lose this cotton business in this country it would be the worst calamity that ever happened to this nation. Many small farmers are taking out now.

Candidate Tells NAACP To Go Where It Never Snows

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The righteous peace - loving people of this state can be thankful that we have one man in this gubernatorial race who has the "guts" to tell the troublesome NAACP to go where it never snows. He has tacitly advised them he doesn't want their spurious votes, advises them to get out of Louisiana.

Lots of our colored people I believe will vote for Mr. Fred Preaus if he will expose this NAACP, tell the colored people how it was organized by white people, all Leftists, and is now infested with white people who are drawing big fat salaries. The president is a white man. Standing behind all this are the Communists who want nothing from the colored people but trouble between the races.

There are 308 subversive organizations in the US. Both Mr. Truman and Mr. Eisenhower know whether the NAACP is subversive but dare not brand it so for fear of losing the minority vote. Ostensibly, their proclivities for votes exceed their cleanliness in spirit. The state of Georgia is calling for legislation to outlaw the NAACP. At present the NAACP is operating illegally in Georgia as it has not registered as a domestic or foreign corporation. Apparently education isn't the foremost aim of the NAACP in its demand for desegregation in our schools. It's mongrelization. Political sharks and the Communists may ultimately cause the Negroes to lose everything they have ever gained here in America.

IN WASHINGTON

Tax Evaders

Regardless of its outcome, there is a sad and sorry note in the criminal indictment of Matthew J. Connolly, former appointments secretary to President Truman, and Theron Lamar Caudle, former Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

It is the revelation — never a secret in Washington — that high political figures and important government officials will give consideration to confessed big income tax evaders, when they would not allow alleged perpetrators of other crimes to cross their thresholds.

Unfortunately that has been the case almost since the income tax law became effective, according to reliable report. It certainly was true in the Harding administration when not only income taxes but other federal tax "fixes" were common gossip in the capital.

That is not to imply any guilt on the part of Messrs. Connolly and Caudle, but the background of the indictment, as known here, supports the general impression that such high officials do try to help persons charged with criminal evasion of income tax, so long as they have the right political connection.

Irving Sachs, the key figure in the indictments was president of a St. Louis shoe company. He was fined $40,000 in 1951 for intentional evasion of income tax, and escaped a prison sentence only on a physician's certificate that a jail term might cause his death. He is still living.

Sachs made every possible effort to have the case "fixed" through political channels. That has been attested in detail by a former official of the Democratic national committee, who served during the regime of Chairman William Boyle of Kansas City, close friend of President Truman, who headed the committee during a large portion of Truman's elective term.

The story is that Sachs first approached Boyle through intermediaries on the representation that he had been a heavy Democratic campaign contributor and was being unfairly treated by the bureau of internal revenue. Boyle was warned that the bureau was ready to indict Sachs and believed that it had an airtight case against him.

However, the pressure on Boyle was renewed several times from various sources, not all of them identified. The government's charge is that Sachs went to Connolly, presumably after failing to see Boyle, and was then referred to Assistant Attorney General Caudle. A number of charges in the indictment flow out of those meetings and subsequent developments but their truth or falsity will be determined by a trial jury.

Reports from within the department of justice predict that grand grand jury indictments will be brought against several other individuals, including some former government officials. Such developments, of course, are the result of diligent work by the department since it came under Republican control, and the indictments already returned have been attacked as political. Political considerations have undoubtedly spurred the investigators on during the two years they have been at work.

However, income tax scandals reached their peak during the Truman administration, with the general counsel of the internal revenue bureau, Charles Oliphant resigning under charges that he had been too friendly with certain tax lawyers; the conviction and sentencing of Dan Bolich, assistant commissioner of internal revenue on tax evasion charges, and Joseph D. Nunn, former U. S. commissioner of internal revenue (1944-47) on similar charges. Lesser officials at New York, Brooklyn and St. Louis were also indicted.

The atmosphere in which these indictments came about, regardless of whether they were sustained or not, is not beneficial to the welfare of the United States. It further demonstrated that income tax violations are not regarded as of the same gravity as other crimes. Those charged with tax offenses, for instance would probably have nothing to do with a case involving narcotics, white slavery, or kidnapping, all federal offenses.

Britain Is Tweeked Awake

Viscount William Waldorf Astor has addressed the House of Lords with these words:

"Britain has a dedicated fifth column with no standards of honor, no patriotism and no possibility of compromise."

Well, what do you know!

For a decade the British have chided our security efforts. They said we were looking for spooks when Messrs. McCarran and Walter sought to fingerprint visitors from behind the iron curtain.

Suddenly the skeletons of spies Burgess and McLean begin rattling around in the Downing Street closet and now. . .

"For the first time since the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, we have a fifth column in this country that has penetrated the highest ranks of the civil service, apparently the scientists and even the church."

Astor urged the strictest security measures.

And the same day, the London Daily Express launched a scathing attack on the United Nations, calling it "an agency for stirring up hostility" and calling upon Britain to renounce it.

The Express told its four million circulation that the UN harbors spies and provides a sanctuary for subversives with protected pipelines for their propaganda.

At long last Britain has been tweeked awake by the ghastly realization that spies in her own foreign office must be blamed for the tragic pileup of dead bodies along Korea's 38th parallel.

However, temporary this awareness, Britain is blushing in public.

The Burgess - McLean fiasco was not a total loss if it taught the stuffy critics of security measures how such damage can be wrought by the hands of a subversive few.

It is still being said in our own country that we must be careful not to jeopardize the freedom of the many in order to corral a handful of rascals.

Poland and Czechoslovakia and Hungary and Romania would know by now that "a few" is all it takes.

The head Red in the whole party, Nikita Khrushchev, last month in New Delhi boasted, "Soviet Communist party members now total eight million. The nation and the party are inseparable."

Probably he lied. Probably he multiplied the truth, at least by two.

But since we cannot prove him wrong, let's take Mr. Khrushchev's own figures.

Eight million. . .out of a nation of two hundred and twenty million. . .are running the show!

Four per cent of the people are "wagging the dog."

Authority administered by three men, in the hands of a disciplined four per cent, can put all the rest in chains!

Until, as the man says, "The nation and the party are inseparable."

John Edgar Hoover said it: "In our much-vaunted tolerance for all peoples, the Communist has found our Achilles heel."

Congressional Quarterly

Q — There's been a lot of attention paid to "WOC's" recently. Is a WOC: a woman soldier; a new kind of supersonic aircraft; a government consultant who isn't paid; or something that goes to make an alcoholic drink?

A — It's a term applied to unpaid (With Out Compensation) government advisers — mostly businessmen.

Q — Quite a few members of Congress aspire to the presidency. But only one man in the nation's history has served in all of these offices: U. S. Representative, U. S. Senator, state governor, and president. Is he: George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Andrew Johnson or Warren G. Harding?

A — Andrew Johnson of Tennessee — who is, oddly, the only president to have suffered impeachment proceedings against him by Congress. But score yourself correct if you answered Andrew Jackson instead. Jackson represented Tennessee while he served in the House and Senate, and "Old Hickory" also was governor of Florida — but before it became a state.

on an increasingly heavy burden of official duties since he left Fitzsimons Army hospital at Denver Nov. 11, and took up residence at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa. He has been meeting regularly with his Cabinet and National Security Council, and in general resuming active direction of the government.

Mr. Eisenhower drove here from Gettysburg Saturday and underwent a 90-minute examination, including X-rays and fluoroscopic tests, to determine whether increased activity had enlarged his heart. It was the first time he has been X-rayed since leaving Denver.

After the tests, Snyder went to the White House with Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of cardiology at Walter Reed, and Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commanding officer of the hospital. They held a joint news conference in the office of White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Snyder read to a gathering of reporters a joint medical bulletin which said:

"The news continues to be good. The President has completed his 11th week of convalescence, and the fourth since he left Colorado.

"Then, too the weather (at his farm in Gettysburg) has not always been the best. Participation in office and farm activities has been carefully supervised so that no harm has resulted.

"The President's condition when examined today was good. He has felt well and looked well in all these later (post-Denver) weeks. He sleeps well, rests well and relaxes easily during the day.

"He has used sedation, and that only very mild, once since he left the hospital.

"The President's temperature has been normal. His pulse has been regular, never rapid, usually in the 60s or lower 70s. His blood pressure has been stable, rarely over 120 systolic, or above 80 diastolic, and never at an unsatisfactorily high or low level.

"His general circulation is excellent including the circulation in his legs and feet. Although there was an area of soreness of the President's chest in the first 48 hours of his illness, his breathing has been entirely comfortable during his entire illness.

"The blood clotting time has remained at a controlled level. The blood sedimentation rate has steadily declined and is now in the upper normal range for this altitude.

"The white blood count has remained at a normal figure since the early days following the acute attack. The serum cholesterol varies slightly, but continues within the normal range.

"Since the early period of hospitalization, the President's weight has remained below 172 pounds on a diet that rarely exceeds 1,800 calories a day and is usually within the limits of 1,600 to 1,800 calories."

Monroe Boy, 11, Bags First Duck

An 11-year-old Monroe youth bagged his first duck Saturday when he went hunting with a friend.

Curtis Nichols, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Nichols, Sr., of 713 D Stuart, lowered the boom on a mallard drake, tag number 577-77-0-9, while duck hunting near Black Bayou Saturday afternoon, and brought it home to prove that his story was not like "the big fish that got away."

BOOKMAKER JAILED

GRETNA, La., Dec. 10 (UP)—A taxi cab company owner took his last ride for awhile and was being held in the Jefferson parish jail today after state police said they confiscated horse racing handbooks in a raid on a Westwego cab stand.

Raiding troopers swooped down on the Westo Cab Co. yesterday afternoon and arrested Carl Joseph Jambo, 38, identified as the proprietor of the cab company.

State police said they seized handbook gear and nabbed Jambo in the act of taking bets by telephone from a tavern in the vicinity.

Too bad they can't all be elected but they will have to be satisfied with the results of the election. Next to the police jury, seems that the election to the House of Representatives is also being sought for by a number. Five are candidates and only two can be elected.

At long last, the former Brown paper mill has a new and permanent name. It is rather lengthy but just the same is expressive. It is "Olin Mathieson — Frostkraft." The name Frost has long been associated with the timber interests of north Louisiana and kraft is of course closely associated with the varied lines that are represented in this great industrial plant.

Under the new setup, greater things than ever are to be expected for expanding north Louisiana manufacture.

Our sincere regards and deep sympathy for Pat Meehan in the death of his mother whose funeral will be held in Mulhearn Funeral Chapel at 3 p.m. today. She was the constant attendant of her son, Pat who has been paralyzed and bedfast for many, many years. His mother devoted her life to this son and her passing will be the greatest blow that has befallen him yet.

There has never been a more unusual bedfast patient anywhere than Pat Meehan. Despite his enfeebled condition he listened to the radio, witnessed TV and kept close check on all that concerned Monroe. At no time did he allow his condition to darken his life.

He was an avid follower of sporting events, both baseball and football, and he kept close check, especially on Neville, where he had attended.

A local funeral home carried him on stretcher to many games and an attendant gladly gave him details of each and every play.

Also when any important lecturer came to Monroe, Pat was there on his stretcher, thanks to the same kindly undertaker.

Pat was always delighted to receive callers and each day many called on him, and when his mother was taken to the hospital, he sent out request that his friends come to see him more now than ever before.

Quite in keeping with Pat's wishes, the pallbearers for his mother's rites this afternoon will be members of the Neville football team.

Monroe has only one Pat Meehan and will never have another possessed of those fine qualities that he possesses.

Santa Claus was out in all glory and thousands of people attended the annual parade that caused great joy among the youngsters of the Northeast Louisiana area Saturday afternoon. The churches this time, and by right, entered floats that had a religious theme in an effort to put Christ back in Christmas.

It was well suited to the occasion. We only wonder why this was not done a long time ago, for remove Christ from Christmas, and there is a great empty void.

A principal of one of the elementary schools is appealing to the public through "Jes Ramblin'" column.

She states that in her school, there are two little boys, small for their age, and in the second grade who have the necessities of life as to clothing, but they have few toys and none of the things that make a little boy happy and there is no way of getting them unless some generous person supplies them.

They are continually being punished for riding other children's bicycles. This principal thinks that somewhere they might be a family whose children have outgrown their bicycles and would be willing to give them to these two boys, who need something of this sort so badly.

Wants Ike's Plans Announced

CONCORD, N.H. —UP— Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) said Friday night that President Eisenhower should announce next month whether he will be a candidate for re-election. Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, urged an early decision because of the filing deadline for New Hampshire Jan. 13 to Feb. 1, inclusive.

Forum Chairman Quits In Dispute Over Segregation

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 —UP— A furor kicked up when a local businessmen's club staged a scheduled forum on the problems of segregation in schools with the Communist label today caused the resignation of the chairman of the forum.

Dr. Thomas B. Crumpler resigned Saturday as chairman of the forum because the educational meeting has come "burdened" with "important but extraneous controversial issues."

In a letter to Rev. John Telfer, head of the coordinating committee for the forum, Dr. Crumpler said "I have concluded that the proposed public forum...is unlikely to serve a constructive purpose under the prevailing circumstances."

The Young Men's Business Club of New Orleans earlier asked the public to boycott the scheduled Monday forum because of alleged connections with the Southern Educational Conference Fund, Inc. The SECF was investigated here several years ago for possible Communist activities.

Orleans parish school board officials had denied the forum leaders the use of a school auditorium.

Luffey Is Named 1956 Director Of March Of Dimes

JOHN L. LUFFEY

John L. Luffey, assistant professor at Northeast Louisiana State College, will direct the 1956 March of Dimes campaign in Ouachita Parish, it was announced today by Sam Rubin, Jr., chairman of the Ouachita Parish chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Other campaign appointments will be announced in the near future by the new director, Rubin said.

Rubin reported that there have been 34 cases of polio in Ouachita Parish this year, 19 of which were paralytic, thus far. The chapter has received $7,775.00 in emergency aid from the national organization, and will require another $8,500.00 or more, for patient care through December, 1955, in addition to March of Dimes funds which were exhausted before August of this year.

"The year 1955 ushered in actual polio prevention with the use of vaccine and opened up what may be, in future years, the final assault on this crippling disease," Luffey pointed out, in accepting the appointment. "But 1955 was only the year of the entering wedge, not the year of final victory. The vaccine came too late for an estimated 30,000 polio victims this year, and it will be too late for thousands more in 1956. Also, approximately 88,000 polio patients from previous years will still be looking to the March of Dimes for assistance at the beginning of 1956.

"So polio isn't licked yet, and if we're going to bring the disease under control, we'll need the help of every man, woman and teenager in Ouachita Parish between now and the end of January," the 1956 director said.

Mr. Luffey is a lifelong resident of Monroe, and has taught at Northeast State for the past six years. He was educated in the Monroe public schools, and received his college education at Northeast State, Centenary College and University of Texas. He is Second Vice President of the North Monroe Lions Club.

"Mr. Luffey did an outstanding job in the 1955 March of Dimes, as chairman of the school division, and the Ouachita Parish chapter feels very fortunate in obtaining his services in leading the 1956 March of Dimes," Rubin said.

The parish's annual polio-fighting appeal opens January 3 and will run until the end of the month. Campaign headquarters will be at 414 Louisville Avenue, and the telephone number is 2-6027.

Man Posing As Sheriff Attacks Injured Woman

ONEIDA, N. Y., Dec. 10 —UP— A man who posed as a sheriff to halt an automobile was charged Saturday with raping a nurse after she broke her leg in a desperate attempt to escape.

Walter Marshall, 32, Canastota, N.Y., was arrested in East Syracuse, N.Y., and was identified by his alleged victim, 24-year-old Miss Rosemary Sorrentino, police said.

Police said Miss Sorrentino told them she was returning from night school classes at Syracuse University Thursday when Marshall halted her car. She said he represented himself as a deputy sheriff and told her the car she was driving had been reported stolen.

Marshall ordered her to go with him, she said, and they drove toward Canastota in his car. She became suspicious while they crossed a bridge, she said, and leaped from the moving car.

Miss Sorrentino said that despite her leg injury, Marshall carried her to his car and assaulted her.

on an increasingly heavy burden of official duties since he left Fitzsimons Army hospital at Denver Nov. 11, and took up residence at his farm at Gettysburg, Pa. He has been meeting regularly with his Cabinet and National Security Council, and in general resuming active direction of the government.

Mr. Eisenhower drove here from Gettysburg Saturday and underwent a 90-minute examination, including X-rays and fluoroscopic tests, to determine whether increased activity had enlarged his heart. It was the first time he has been X-rayed since leaving Denver.

After the tests, Snyder went to the White House with Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief of cardiology at Walter Reed, and Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commanding officer of the hospital. They held a joint news conference in the office of White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Snyder read to a gathering of reporters a joint medical bulletin which said:

"The news continues to be good. The President has completed his 11th week of convalescence, and the fourth since he left Colorado.

"Then, too the weather (at his farm in Gettysburg) has not always been the best. Participation in office and farm activities has been carefully supervised so that no harm has resulted.

"The President's condition when examined today was good. He has felt well and looked well in all these later (post-Denver) weeks. He sleeps well, rests well and relaxes easily during the day.

"He has used sedation, and that only very mild, once since he left the hospital.

"The President's temperature has been normal. His pulse has been regular, never rapid, usually in the 60s or lower 70s. His blood pressure has been stable, rarely over 120 systolic, or above 80 diastolic, and never at an unsatisfactorily high or low level.

"His general circulation is excellent including the circulation in his legs and feet. Although there was an area of soreness of the President's chest in the first 48 hours of his illness, his breathing has been entirely comfortable during his entire illness.

"The blood clotting time has remained at a controlled level. The blood sedimentation rate has steadily declined and is now in the upper normal range for this altitude.

"The white blood count has remained at a normal figure since the early days following the acute attack. The serum cholesterol varies slightly, but continues within the normal range.

"Since the early period of hospitalization, the President's weight has remained below 172 pounds on a diet that rarely exceeds 1,800 calories a day and is usually within the limits of 1,600 to 1,800 calories."

Monroe Boy, 11, Bags First Duck

An 11-year-old Monroe youth bagged his first duck Saturday when he went hunting with a friend.

Curtis Nichols, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Nichols, Sr., of 7129 DeSiard, lowered the boom on a mallard drake, tag number 577-77-059, while duck hunting near Black Bayou Saturday afternoon, and brought it home to prove that his story was not like "the big fish that got away."

The youth was duck hunting with his friend, John Elmendorf.

GRETNA, La. Dec. 10—UP—A taxi cab company owner took his last ride for awhile and was being held in the Jefferson parish jail today after state police said they confiscated horse racing handbooks in a raid on a Westwego cab stand.

Raiding troopers swooped down on the Wego Cab Co. yesterday afternoon and arrested Carl Joseph Jambo, 38, identified as the proprietor of the cab company.

State police said they seized handbook gear and nabbed Jambo in the act of taking bets by telephone from a tavern in the vicinity.

Next to the police jury, seems that the election to the House of Representatives is also being sought for by a number. Five are candidates and only two can be elected.

At long last, the former Brown paper mill has a new and permanent name. It is rather lengthy but just the same is expressive. It is "Olin Mathieson — Frostkraft." The name Frost has long been associated with the timber interests of north Louisiana and kraft is of course closely associated with the varied lines that are represented in this great industrial plant.

Under the new setup, greater things than ever are to be expected for expanding north Louisiana manufacture.

Our sincere regards and deep sympathy for Pat Meehan in the death of his mother whose funeral will be held in Mulhearn Funeral Chapel at 3 p.m. today. She was the constant attendant of her son, Pat who has been paralyzed and bedfast for many, many years. His mother devoted her life to this son and her passing will be the greatest blow that has befallen him yet.

There has never been a more unusual bedfast patient anywhere than Pat Meehan. Despite his enfeebled condition he listened to the radio, witnessed TV and kept close check on all that concerned Monroe. At no time did he allow his condition to darken his life.

He was an avid follower of sporting events, both baseball and football, and he kept close check, especially on Neville, where he had attended.

A local funeral home carried him on stretcher to many games and an attendant gladly gave him details of each and every play.

Also when any important lecturer came to Monroe, Pat was there on his stretcher, thanks to the same kindly undertaker.

Pat was always delighted to receive callers and each day many called on him, and when his mother was taken to the hospital, he sent out request that his friends come to see him more now than ever before.

Quite in keeping with Pat's wishes, the pallbearers for his mother's rites this afternoon will be members of the Neville football team.

Monroe has only one Pat Meehan and will never have another possessed of those fine qualities that he possesses.

Santa Claus was out in all glory and thousands of people attended the annual parade that caused great joy among the youngsters of the Northeast Louisiana area Saturday afternoon. The churches this time, and by right, entered floats that had a religious theme in an effort to put Christ back in Christmas.

It was well suited to the occasion. We only wonder why this was not done a long time ago, for remove Christ from Christmas, and there is a great empty void.

A principal of one of the elementary schools is appealing to the public through "Jes Ramblin'" column.

She states that in her school, there are two little boys, small for their age, and in the second grade who have the necessities of life as to clothing, but they have few toys and none of the things that make a little boy happy and there is no way of getting them unless some generous person supplies them.

They are continually being punished for riding other children's bicycles. This principal thinks that somewhere they might be a family whose children have outgrown their bicycles and would be willing to give them to these two boys, who need something of this sort so badly.

Someone could make two little boys mighty happy.

Forum Chairman Quits In Dispute Over Segregation

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 —UP— A furor kicked up when a local businessmen's club staged a scheduled forum on the problems of segregation in schools with the Communist label today caused the resignation of the chairman of the forum.

Dr. Thomas B. Crumpler resigned Saturday as chairman of the forum because the educational meeting has come "burdened" with "important but extraneous controversial issues."

In a letter to Rev. John Telfer, head of the coordinating committee for the forum, Dr. Crumpler said "I have concluded that the proposed public forum. . .is unlikely to serve a constructive purpose under the prevailing circumstances."

The Young Men's Business Club of New Orleans earlier asked the public to boycott the scheduled Monday forum because of alleged connections with the Southern Educational Conference Fund, Inc. The SECF was investigated here several years ago for possible Communist activities.

Orleans parish school board officials had denied the forum leaders the use of a school auditorium.

Solon Advocates Death Penalty For Selling Narcotics

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—Rep. Victor L. Anfuso said Saturday narcotics peddlers "like murderers and kidnapers" should receive the death penalty.

The New York Democrat gave his views in a written statement submitted to a House Ways and Means subcommittee investigating the narcotics traffic. The subcommittee will resume hearings here Wednesday.

"Our laws are too lax in meting out punishment to those who peddle narcotics among teen-agers," Anfuso said. "Those who sell dope to youngsters, ruining their lives forever, are commiting a crime worse than murder."

Chairman Hale Boggs (D-La.) said recently the subcommittee's investigations already have made it clear Congress should eliminate the last loophole through which a federally-convicted narcotics peddler can escape a jail sentence.

Congress cracked down on federal judges in 1951 for being too lenient. A law was passed requiring mandatory jail sentences for narcotics peddlers, but it allowed judges to grant probation to first offensders.

Boggs said this last remaining discretionary authority should be removed.

Anfuso said he hopes the subcommittee will approve his bill to establish a U.S. customs port patrol and a U.S. customs border patrol to "track down narcotics smugglers in U.S. harbors, airports, along the coasts and borders."

Negro Girl Wins Sweetheart Title On Iowa Campus

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 10—UP—The University of Iowa male students chose a 17-year-old Negro girl, Dora Lee Martin, Houston, Tex., to be sweetheart of the campus, and she will be presented at the university's winter formal dance Saturday night, it was learned Saturday.

Dora Lee, a freshman in the college of liberal arts, was the only Negro among 29 candidates for the honor. It was the first time the university had selected a girl of her race for the post.

About 2,000 of the approximately 5,500 male students at the university participated in the balloting.

All of the 29 candidates were introduced at a pageant in memorial union last Saturday night. At that time, the Texas Negro sang "The Yellow Rose of Texas."

Candidates also were presented Friday night between the halves of the University of Iowa-Southern Methodist University basketball game.

The pretty, shapely, light-skinned girl, about five feet, six inches tall, was among seven girls entered in the balloting by the activities board at Currier Hall, a woman's dormitory.

"We were all very happily shocked," said one student representative.

Benson Orders U. S. Study Of Profit By Middlemen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —P — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said Saturday that President Eisenhower has agreed the administration must find out definitely if food middlemen are getting "improper" profits from the consumer's food dollar at the farmer's expense.

Benson ordered department economists to step up their continuing studies of marketing margins and farm production costs in an effort to pinpoint distribution of the food dollar.

The farmer's share of the dollar has shrunk from a high of 53 cents in 1946 to 40 cents now. Since the Korean war, the drop has been rapid. At the same time, retail prices have been rising and farm income has been falling, widening the price spread.

Economists have attributed the widening spread to marketing charges.

"I have discussed this vital problem with the President," Benson said in a statement. "We are agreed that we must definitely determine whether or not prices paid by consumers contain improper or excessive marketing charges and profits.

"Farmers are entitled to receive the very maximum for their products through efficient marketing service."

Benson has been the target of sharp criticism because of declining farm income. Some has come from members of his own party. The problems of huge surpluses, over-production, and declining incomes are certain to be major issues in next year's presidential campaign.

Saturday's order was regarded by some as an attempt to head off election year criticism.

"We know that some margins are too great and not justified," Benson said, "although we recognize that in some instances processors and distributors have increasing costs which they must pay."

"The failure of retail food prices as a whole to reflect the decline in farm food products during the past year is recognized by the department as a real obstacle to a solution of the farm surplus problem," Benson said.

Expanded Trade School Program Backed By Long

BUNKIE, Dec. 10 —(Special)— An expanded trade school program will help Louisiana provide the technical personnel new industrial growth will require, Earl K. Long said here Saturday.

Speaking to more than 2,000 persons, Long said he plans to set up more trade schools as part of the program he will put into effect when he becomes governor.

"More trade schools were established during my term of office from 1948 to 1952 than at any other time in the history of this state," Long said.

The former Louisiana governor said industry worth more than $1 billion moved into Louisiana during his tenure as chief executive. "We're going to see another big period of industrial growth during the next four years," he predicted.

Long and Lether E. Frazar, candidate for lieutenant governor, have outlined an industrial development program that they anticipate will spur the growth of the entire state, with particular emphasis on the smaller communities.

Long hit again at waste during the present state administration. "You never got more for your tax dollar in history than you did when I was your governor," he said.

He said the program he now proposes will require no increase in taxes and he pledged there would be no increase during his term of office. He promised there would be no bond issues unless they were submitted to the voters.

"You can depend on me to do what I say I'm going to do," said Long. "No man in history came closer to fulfilling his platform than I did when I was elected in 1948. I think it's worse for a man to misrepresent what he's going to do and say he's going to do things he knows he can't do than it would be to steal a loaf of bread, especially if you were hungry. I know I can do the things I tell you I'm going to do, and God being my helper I will."

Long and members of his ticket are slated to speak Sunday at Hessmer at 10 a.m., Plaucheville at 11:30 a.m., Cottonport at 1:30 p.m., Lafargue High School at 3 p.m., Bordelonville at 5 p.m., and New Roads at 7:30 p.m.

Candidates speaking in addition to Long and Frazar include Sidney McCrory for commissioner of agriculture, Jack P. F. Gremillion for attorney general, Bill Dodd for state auditor and Lucille May Grace for register of state lands.

Solon Advocates Death Penalty For Selling Narcotics

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—Rep. Victor L. Anfuso said Saturday narcotics peddlers "like murderers and kidnapers" should receive the death penalty.

The New York Democrat gave his views in a written statement submitted to a House Ways and Means subcommittee investigating the narcotics traffic. The subcommittee will resume hearings here Wednesday.

"Our laws are too lax in meting out punishment to those who peddle narcotics among teen-agers," Anfuso said. "Those who sell dope to youngsters, ruining their lives forever, are commiting a crime worse than murder."

Chairman Hale Boggs (D-La.) said recently the subcommittee's investigations already have made it clear Congress should eliminate the last loophole through which a federally-convicted narcotics peddler can escape a jail sentence.

Congress cracked down on federal judges in 1951 for being too lenient. A law was passed requiring mandatory jail sentences for narcotics peddlers, but it allowed judges to grant probation to first offensders.

Boggs said this last remaining discretionary authority should be removed.

Anfuso said he hopes the subcommittee will approve his bill to establish a U.S. customs port patrol and a U.S. customs border patrol to "track down narcotics smugglers in U.S. harbors, airports, along the coasts and borders."

Most German Alimony Banned

BERLIN —UP— The Communist East German government Friday banned the payment of alimony except in special hardship cases. A new law provided that alimony will not be paid to women who are able to work and support themselves regardless of the grounds for divorce.

Negro Girl Wins Sweetheart Title On Iowa Campus

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 10—UP—The University of Iowa male students chose a 17-year-old Negro girl, Dora Lee Martin, Houston, Tex., to be sweetheart of the campus, and she will be presented at the university's winter formal dance Saturday night, it was learned Saturday.

Dora Lee, a freshman in the college of liberal arts, was the only Negro among 29 candidates for the honor. It was the first time the university had selected a girl of her race for the post.

About 2,000 of the approximately 5,500 male students at the university participated in the balloting.

All of the 29 candidates were introduced at a pageant in memorial union last Saturday night. At that time, the Texas Negro sang "The Yellow Rose of Texas."

Candidates also were presented Friday night between the halves of the University of Iowa-Southern Methodist University basketball game.

The pretty, shapely, light-skinned girl, about five feet, six inches tall, was among seven girls entered in the balloting by the activities board at Currier Hall, a woman's dormitory.

"We were all very happily shocked," said one student representative.

Benson Orders U. S. Study Of Profit By Middlemen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —P — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said Saturday that President Eisenhower has agreed the administration must find out definitely if food middlemen are getting "improper" profits from the consumer's food dollar at the farmer's expense.

Benson ordered department economists to step up their continuing studies of marketing margins and farm production costs in an effort to pinpoint distribution of the food dollar.

The farmer's share of the dollar has shrunk from a high of 53 cents in 1946 to 40 cents now. Since the Korean war, the drop has been rapid. At the same time, retail prices have been rising and farm income has been falling, widening the price spread.

Economists have attributed the widening spread to marketing charges.

"I have discussed this vital problem with the President," Benson said in a statement. "We are agreed that we must definitely determine whether or not prices paid by consumers contain improper or excessive marketing charges and profits.

"Farmers are entitled to receive the very maximum for their products through efficient marketing service."

Benson has been the target of sharp criticism because of declining farm income. Some has come from members of his own party. The problems of huge surpluses, over-production, and declining incomes are certain to be major issues in next year's presidential campaign.

Saturday's order was regarded by some as an attempt to head off election year criticism.

"We know that some margins are too great and not justified," Benson said, "although we recognize that in some instances processors and distributors have increasing costs which they must pay."

"The failure of retail food prices as a whole to reflect the decline in farm food products during the past year is recognized by the department as a real obstacle to a solution of the farm surplus problem," Benson said.

Expanded Trade School Program Backed By Long

BUNKIE, Dec. 10 —(Special)— An expanded trade school program will help Louisiana provide the technical personnel new industrial growth will require, Earl K. Long said here Saturday.

Speaking to more than 2,000 persons, Long said he plans to set up more trade schools as part of the program he will put into effect when he becomes governor.

"More trade schools were established during my term of office from 1948 to 1952 than at any other time in the history of this state," Long said.

The former Louisiana governor said industry worth more than $1 billion moved into Louisiana during his tenure as chief executive. "We're going to see another big period of industrial growth during the next four years," he predicted.

Long and Lether E. Frazar, candidate for lieutenant governor, have outlined an industrial development program that they anticipate will spur the growth of the entire state, with particular emphasis on the smaller communities.

Long hit again at waste during the present state administration. "You never got more for your tax dollar in history than you did when I was your governor," he said.

He said the program he now proposes will require no increase in taxes and he pledged there would be no increase during his term of office. He promised there would be no bond issues unless they were submitted to the voters.

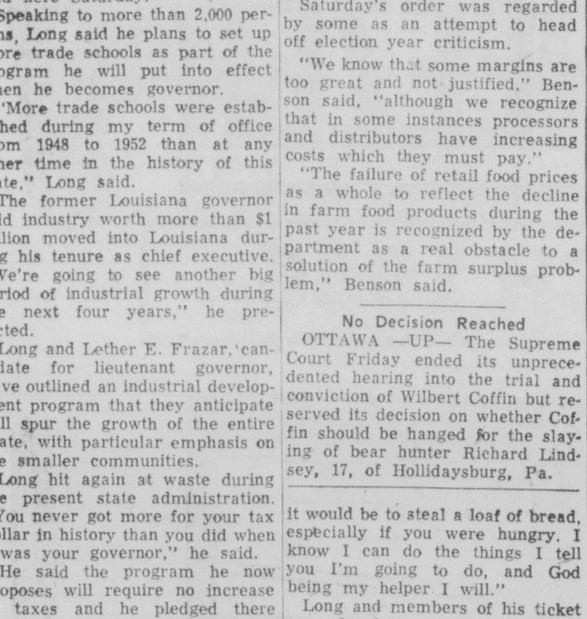

"You can depend on me to do what I say I'm going to do," said Long. "No man in history came closer to fulfilling his platform than I did when I was elected in 1948. I think it's worse for a man to misrepresent what he's going to do and say he's going to do things he knows he can't do than it would be to steal a loaf of bread, especially if you were hungry. I know I can do the things I tell you I'm going to do, and God being my helper I will."

Long and members of his ticket are slated to speak Sunday at Hessmer at 10 a.m., Plaucheville at 11:30 a.m., Cottonport at 1:30 p.m., Lafargue High School at 3 p.m., Bordelonville at 5 p.m., and New Roads at 7:30 p.m.

Candidates speaking in addition to Long and Frazar include Sidney McCrory for commissioner of agriculture, Jack P. F. Gremillion for attorney general, Bill Dodd for state auditor and Lucille May Grace for register of state lands.

No Decision Reached

Unprecedented Burst Of Christmas Spending Puts New Life In U. S. Business

By WALTER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—An unprecedented burst of Christmas spending put new life in the business boom this week.

Everybody, it seemed, was in the chips.

Personal income, at latest count, was at an annual rate of 309½ billion dollars. That's a gain of more than 21 billions in just one year.

Jobs were plentiful. Despite seasonal layoffs in farming and construction, nearly 65 million Americans had steady work. Many of them put in longer hours. And factory wage rates were at an all-time high.

Stockholders had cause for cheers. Cash dividends at latest report were running 9½ per cent ahead of last year. Dividends paid out by publicly reporting corporations in the first 10 months came to nearly 7¾ billion dollars.

Business was in a free-spending mood, too. Government experts said spending by business firms would show a thumping gain next year. In the first three months of 1956, said the U.S. Commerce Department, companies will be shelling out money for new plant and equipment at the rate of 31½ billions a year. This year's spending came to around 28½ billions.

Output of electric power touched a never-before-equalled peak of 11,359,000,000 kilowatt hours as booming American turned on the Christmas lights.

Most striking evidence of the pre-Christmas surge was at the retail level. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said record Christmas spending in department stores and speciality shops would boost the nation's 1955 retail trade to a new high of 15 billion dollars. A sharp rise in gift buying this week was reported by Dun & Bradstreet. The gain was so large that it more than offset a decline in sales of home appliances and television sets.

Toy sales, forecast the Toy Manufacturers Assn., would reach a record 1¼ billion dollars this year —a gain of 25 per cent over 1954. Behind the boom in dolls, electric trains and space ships lay three potent economic forces: Higher take-home pay, more city people moving out to the suburbs, and a bumper crop of kids.

Booming retail sales this week were accompanied by near-record industrial activity, with steel and auto factories pushed to the limit.

In steel, it was the same old story: Production—current scheduled at 98.8 per cent of capacity—falling behind demand, consumers scrambling for scarce supplies. At Chicago, the price of steel scrap jumped $3 a ton. The trade weekly Iron Age said price boosts on all major steel products are "just a matter of time."

Want to buy a new car They're starting to pile up in dealers' lots, say Detroit sources. The auto industry has just wound up the second biggest production week in its history. Sales reports indicate that cars are being manufactured faster than they're being sold. Best guess is that retailers will have an inventory of around 750,000 unsold new cars on their hands by New Year's.

Lagging sales of new cars were among the few dark spots this week on the brightly gleaming economic horizon; another was the prospect of a dip next year in "on-the-cuff" buying on consumer goods. Much of this year's boom has been financed by installment purchases. Some economists say installment buyers are carrying just about as much debt as they can stand.

This week, the head of the world's largest retailing organization, T. V. Houser of Sears, Roebuck & Co., took a look at the consumer credit situation.

"We may be approaching the point where consumer credit buying will decline," said Houser. "There are some indications at present that a correction should begin in 1956, and some time in the months ahead credit purchases will taper off."

On the whole, the latest business forecasts were tinged with optimism. Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, addressing the 60th annual convention of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, said plans of many business firms to increase their capital spending next year reflect "business confidence in the future. For the next six months at least I'm confident that we'll move to a higher plane."

Briefly over the business scene:

A 14 per cent gain in sales was reported by Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey). General Motors offered its 17,000 auto dealers a new kind of franchise that will run for five years. Present franchise agreements must be renewed every year. Cola G. Parker, a lawyer who became an industrialist at the age of 47, is the new president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers. Air conditioner sales next year will zoom to an all-time high of nearly 3¼ billion dollars, says chairman Cloud Wampler of Carrier Corp. Plans for a 280-million-dollar expansion program were announced by Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. Eastern Air Lines placed a 165-million-dollar order for 26 jet transport planes with Douglas Aircraft Co.

It has been definitely established that cockroaches can spread disease germs to pets.

Catholic Group Polls Candidates On Segregation

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 (AP) — A subcommittee on race relations of the Catholic Committee of the South today asked the five candidates for governor if they would uphold the U. S. Supreme Court decision on segregation if elected.

The group posed five questions that were almost the direct opposite of five questions posed by the Councils of Homer and Tensas Parish.

The segregation groups earlier in the week asked the candidates if they were willing to go all out for keeping the races separated, even to the extent of closing schools hit by congressional or court integration orders.

The new set of questions were mailed by the human rights commission of the Catholic Committee of the South, a regional organization operating in 11 southern states with the support of Catholic bishops in the South.

Mrs. Gladys P. Williams, executive secretary of the commission, said the questionnaire was sent because the questions posed by the two citizens councils were "obviously slanted in favor of continued segregation."

In rebuttal, the Catholic group, composed of both Negroes and whites, asked the candidates whether they would:

1. "Promote respect for the U.S. constitution" if further integration steps are taken by the U. S. Supreme Court and "save the taxpayers money by discouraging expensive and futile suits to prevent integration."

2. Work to repeal the segregation program adopted by the 1954 Legislature to sidestep the Supreme Court decision.

3. Set up a bi-racial committee "so that an orderly rather than a chaotic transition will take place in event that desegregation is specifically ordered in Louisiana."

4. Pledge equal protection of the law to all citizens, regardless of race, and "afford equality of opportunity for all citizens of voting, jury duty, state employment, election and appointment to public office."

5. Reveal all direct or indirect "white supremacy" groups or other "organizations which seek to subvert the constitution."

All five candidates have platform planks to uphold segregation. The candidates include former Gov. Earl Long, Fred Preaus, Mayor deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans, former state police Supt. Francis Grevemberg and Alexandria cattleman James McLemore. Catholics.

Bus Operations At Montgomery Being Curtailed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. Dec. 10 —UP—A city wide search was on today to find the person who fired a .22 caliber bullet into a Negro-boycotted city bus, narrowly missing its lone white passenger.

The incident, the seventh of its kind since Negroes boycotted city buses six days ago, came as the City Bus Co. planned to cancel two bus runs through heavily populated others.

The boycott, once 90 per cent effective but now only about 75 per cent si, began after a Negro seamstress was fined $10 for refusing to move to the rear of a bus.

Police Chief G. J. Rupenthal said last night a .22-caliber bullet was fired broadside into the bus, penetrating one window and lodging in the other side. He said it narrowly missed the bus' lone passenger, a white man, M. L. Beasley. But he added neither Beasley nor driver S. E. Mosely were injured.

The bus schedules were ordered changed yesterday after the city commission gave the bus company permission to alter its routes "because some buses are not being used."

Mayor W. A. Gayle said, "the buses will continue to operate according to state law and because some buses are not being used they will be dropped and the sched-ule revised."

Humphrey Blasts Labor Statements By GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —UP— Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Saturday some Republican leaders are trying to "chastise and discipline labor with insults."

The Minnesotan said the Democratic party welcomes the support of both labor and farmers and encourages them to play a role in party affairs.

Humphrey struck at recent statements by some GOP leaders that the newly-merged AFL-CIO, with 16 million membersl would be a powerful political factor which could control one party.

At the same time, he said he doubted that labor would have to form its own party to make its voice heard. This was suggested Friday night by AFL-CIO President George Meany who said labor would set up its own party if it is deprived of activity in the existing parties.

"I doubt that," Humphrey said in an interview. "I don't think that labor union members have to worry too much about what some Republicans think." He added that the Democratic party "doesn't believe in class distinctions."

Humphrey criticized Sen. Barry F. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and Presidential Assistant Harold E. Stassen who voiced GOP fears of labor's political power. Goldwater is chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

"We are not going to insult people and hope they are going to be chastised and disciplined—that's what Stassen and Goldwater and other Republican leaders are trying to do," Humphrey said.

AM&F Considering Underground Plant

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—American Machine and Foundry Co. said today it is considering building an underground industrial plant at Green Mountain, near Huntsville, Ala.

The company, a diversified manufacturing firm with plants throughout the country, did not say what it might produce inside the mountain.

The Chattanooga Times reported however, that there were indications the AMF facility might have some connection with the guided missile program of the Redstone arsenal at Huntsville.

Labor Boss Meany Says Negroes Must Be Given 'Civil Rights' In South

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—UP—George Meany, president of the new AFL-CIO, said Saturday unions still are confronted by foes with the "archaic" idea that management and labor exist in a "master-slave relationship."

The merger of the two big labor organizations into one 16 million member union this week still leaves much to be done, Meany said.

"We are still not over the hill by any means," he said.

"We are still up against people with archaic ideas — who think that management and labor exist in a master-servant relationship."

Meany spoke at a La Guardia Memorial Association lunch at which the annual award in the memory of the late Mayor Fiorello La Guardia was given posthumously to Albert L. Patterson, who was murdered in 1954 while fighting crime and corruption in Phenix City, Ala.

The award is given for outstanding achievement in municipal affairs.

Meany said the AFL-CIO merger had set up a "better instrumentality" by which labor can make it possible for the American people to "live better and to buy the things that labor produces."

Automation of industry will present a problem during the "transition period" he said, but labor is not afraid of it.

Meany said the U. S. will not be able to fight communism successfully until southern Negroes are assured their constitutional rights.

"No one can call himself a Christian or a member of any other religion of any standing and deny civil rights to people because of the color of their skin, as is being done in the South," he said.

"We can't carry on our fight against communism successfully if we in the United States are complacent in the face of the stark naked fact that hundreds of thousands of persons are denied basic constitutional rights because they are Negroes.

"This is a same everyone in this country bears, and part of our defense against communism is to see that this shame is wiped out."

TO SCHOOL BY TAXI

The board of education decided that taxis would be cheaper than extending the present bus service.

To help insure raising healthy calves, some dairymen keep them in individual pens with about 25 to 30 square feet of floor space until they are three or four months old.

Foreign Policy Support By Both Parties Sought

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 —UP— The Eisenhower administration is drafting an urgent new appeal for bipartisan support on foreign policy and national security issues, it was learned Saturday.

The appeal is designed to head off "partisan excesses" in discussion of foreign affairs and defense matters during the 1956 election campaign which may come at a critical time in East-West relations.

High administration officials said the appeal will be made by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at next Tuesday's White House meeting with Republican and Democratic congressional leaders. This will be the first such bipartisan meeting attended by the President in many months.

The administration also willoutline "in a broad way" its new $3.5 billion defense budget and a parallel request for $2,670,000,000 in new economic-military aid funds for non-Communist nations. These requests will be presented to Congress in January for spending in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Informants said administration leaders will emphasize at the conference the need for faster development of weapons designed to prevent the Russians from gambling on a sudden strike against the free world.

In this connection, they will tell the lawmakers about Defense Department efforts to speed up development of ballistic missiles—the so-called "ultimate weapon" of atomic-age warfare—to keep abreast of reported Soviet advances in this field.

They will also stress the importance of foreign economic aid to meet Russia's new efforts to win over underdeveloped areas. Economic aid for next year will run about $1.6 billion of the $2,670,000,000 request.

Negotiators In Newspaper Strike Hope For Accord

DETROIT, Dec. 10 (AP)—Negotiations aimed at settling Detroits 10-day old newspaper strike continued tonight amid an air of optimism.

Following a 2½ hour morning session, James H. Sampson, international vice president of the striking AFL-CIO stereotypers, said he would return to his Chicago headquarters tonight and "I don't think it will be necessary to return." Sampson has been sitting in on negotiations with the Detroit Newspapers Publishers Assn. since Monday.

As talks resumed again at 2 p.m. (EST), following a lunch break, federal and state mediators said "tentative agreements" have been reached on several issues in the contract dispute.

However, even if an accord is reached, it will not guarantee immediate resumption of publication by the three struck metropolitan dailies, the morning Free Press an the afternoon News and Times.

AFL-CIO mailers are scheduled to meet tomorrow to decide whether they will go back to work without a new contract.

The AFL-CIO Detroit Newspaper Guild has asked all unions affected by the walkout to agree that none will return without new contracts. The guild also wants workers who have been laid off to receive full back pay.

The AFL-CIO Detroit Newspaper Guild proposed yesterday that all newspaper unions enter a pact that none would return to work until all had signed new contacts, included an agreement that laid-off workers would get full pay for the time the papers were closed.

But Sam McGuire, Detroit guild president, said tonight that "apparently the idea has not materialized" and "I assume guildsmen would return to work if called in" after a settlement with the stereotypers.

The stereotypers walked off their jobs early Dec. 1, following expiration of their contract the previous midnight. Contracts with other printing trades unions also expired at that time and union members have refused to cross the stereotypers picket lines.

The stereotypers struck in support of demands for overtime pay or additional help in processing color plates and plates made in advance for future editions.

Doctor Says No Cancer Extension In Mrs. Zaharias

GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—Dr. H. W. Paley said today exhaustive checks "show no extension of the cancer process" in famed woman athlete Babe Didrickson Zaharias.

Earlier today the Galveston Tribune reported a spokesman for John Sealy hospital where Mrs. Zaharias is being treated had said a recurrence of cancer had been discovered.

"That is not corect," said Dr. Paley, of the hospital's department of internal medicine.

Dr. Paley said "I feel the Babe will be out of the hospital after the first of the year and will be able to get up and around within a reasonably short time after that."

He declined to answer, however, when asked about the woman golfer's prospects for eventual, full recovery.

Dr. Paley said:

"Evidence at this time following exhaustive tests reveals no extension of the cancer process beyond that observed during her confinement to John Sealy hospital in August and September of this year.

"As a matter of fact X-ray examinations reveal healing of the (cancer) process formerly seen to exist in the sacrum," commonly called the tail bone.

The doctor said Mrs. Zaharias' interest in the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund has been so intense doctors have had to restrain her.

Doctor Says No Cancer Extension In Mrs. Zaharias

GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—Dr. H. W. Paley said today exhaustive checks "show no extension of the cancer process" in famed woman athlete Babe Didrickson Zaharias.

Earlier today the Galveston Tribune reported a spokesman for John Sealy hospital where Mrs. Zaharias is being treated had said a recurrence of cancer had been discovered.

"That is not corect," said Dr. Paley, of the hospital's department of internal medicine.

Dr. Paley said "I feel the Babe will be out of the hospital after the first of the year and will be able to get up and around within a reasonably short time after that."

He declined to answer, however, when asked about the woman golfer's prospects for eventual, full recovery.

Dr. Paley said:

"Evidence at this time following exhaustive tests reveals no extension of the cancer process beyond that observed during her confinement to John Sealy hospital in August and September of this year.

"As a matter of fact X-ray examinations reveal healing of the (cancer) process formerly seen to exist in the sacrum," commonly called the tail bone.

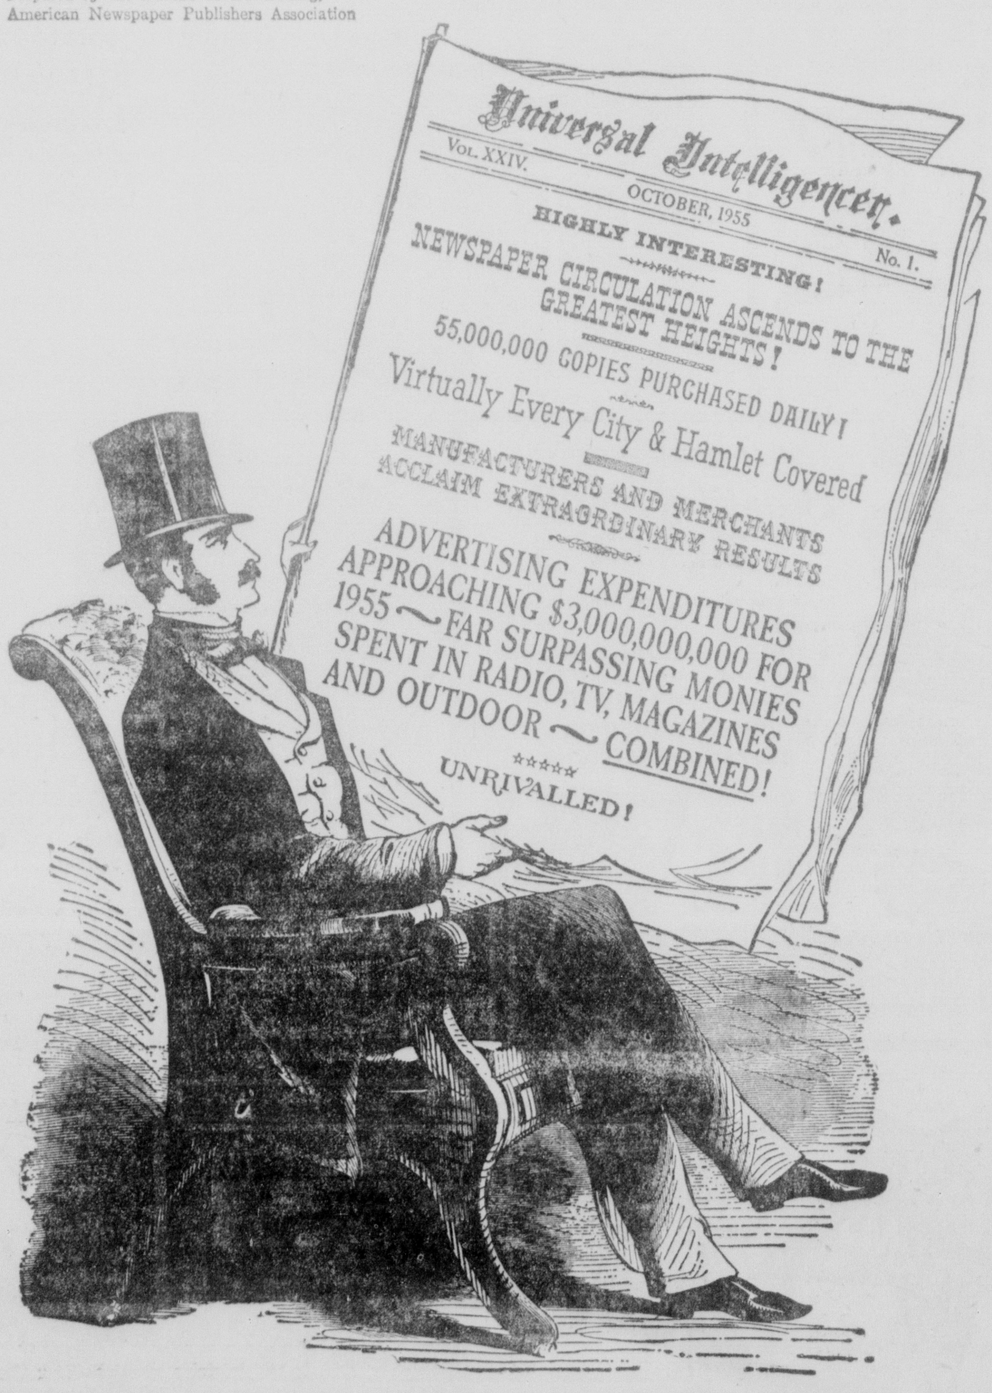

The doctor said Mrs. Zaharias' interest in the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund has been so intense doctors have had to restrain her.

Cotton Futures Irregular During Week Of Trading

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — The cotton futures market charted an irregular course this week. It started out on the downside and then firmed up, but was headed sharply lower again when the week ended.

Active futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange rounded out the week with net price changes ranging from 25 cents a bale higher to $2.85 a bale lower than at the close of the week before. The current December month was the only delivery to finish in higher ground. July was the worst loser.

Profit-taking and hedge selling depressed the market at the start of the week. Some selling also reflected generous private estimates of the size of the current crop.

The market then staged a recovery. Sustaining factors included the continued heavy movement of cotton into the government loan, and Secretary of Agriculture Benson's statement regarding the possibility of a 90 per cent parity loan rate for better qualities of wheat. Some observers felt this proposal might later be broadened to include cotton.

The government's newest official crop report, considerably smaller than many in the trade had looked for, gave the market a shot-in-the-arm, but the effects were temporary and by Friday the general drift was lower. Profit-taking was a major factor in turning the trend.

The Agriculture Department's crop forecast of 14,663,000 bales—down 180,000 bales from its November estimate—caused considerable surprise among traders, many of whom had expected a noticeable rise. The figure was 561,000 bales below the average of published private estimates.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau, the latest official crop reports points to the likelihood of a total domestic supply this season of approximately 25,800,000 bales, an all-time record. That would indicate a probable end-season carryover of 13,750,000 bales, it was noted.

The low rate of exports was characterized by the exchange as "most discouraging." For the week ended Tuesday, exports of lint cotton totaled only 22,000 bales vs. 36,000 a week ago and 112,000 in the like week last year. That brought the total for the season to 548,000 bales vs. 1,241,000 a year earlier.

The American Veterinary Medical Association expects about 15 million Brucella blood agglutination tests for brucellosis to be conducted in the United States during 1955.

Machine Politics Blasted By Moore, Preaus In Talks

OPELOUSAS, Dec. 10 —(Special)—Louisiana voters will reject again in 1956 machine politics in state government, Fred Preaus, candidate for governor, said here today.

Teaming up with running mate, A. Brown Moore of New Orleans, in a discussion of political machines, Preaus said the people expressed overwhelmingly in 1952 that they have had enough of political machine government at Baton Rouge.

He charged that a state cannot progress and prosper under the rule of a powerful machine. Under such a regime, he said, government is taken away from the little people and made to operate for the benefit of the few in the inner circle.

Preaus said, "we cannot allow a return to the days of flagrant favoritism in the conduct of the state's affairs and to the days of old corruption which caused Louisiana to lose the respect of its sister states. Louisiana has now regained its prestige and once again can hold its head high and point with pride to accomplishments under a truly democratic administration.

For example, he said, under machine politics Louisiana's state prison at Angola became known as the worst in the United States. Pointing to a current copy of Life Magazine, Preaus said this publication has devoted several pages to pictures of New Angola buildings and a short story which calls attention to the fact that Angola is now one of the best prisons in the country.

Moore said there are two political machines trying to take over the reins of state government. The first, he said, went into office in 1948 on the strength of pledges that its members were friends of the little people of the state. Moore pointed out that this machine demonstrated its friendship for the little people by doubling practically all of the state taxes and throwing out civil service.

"This is the same machine that is now asking you to put them back in office for another four years," Moore said.

The second machine is the most powerful ever to control the New Orleans city government, Moore asserted. He said that when the present mayor was first elected in 1946 he headed a reform group which threw out of office the old regular organization. Now, he said, some of these old regulars are part of mayor Chep Morrison's organization.

Moore, a New Orleans city councilman seeking election as lieutenant governor, said the two machines differ only slightly. The Long machine, he said, wants to regain its position of power and the Morrison machine is asking to be promoted from the city to the state level.

"I don't believe it would be healthy for the state of Louisiana to elect the mayor of New Orleans governor. The New Orleans city charter today allows the mayor to appoint, among others, the superintendent of city police. If he is elected governor, he will also be able to appoint the superintendent of state police. I don't believe one man should have that much power. It is just not safe in a Democracy to turn over to one person excessive powers."

Preaus said he is convinced "The voters are tired of hearing my opponents trying to out-promise and out-criticize each other."

He added, "the thinking voters know that when Fred Preaus and Brownie Moore make a statement it is made in all sincerity and honesty. They know that we are not going around the state making promises merely to have something to say or to promise just a bit more than the other man. I think the day has passed when pressure politics influenced voters."

Preaus said he is proud that he cannot be criticized for saying one thing in one part of the state and contradicting himself in another section of Louisiana. He hinted that some of his opponents have made this mistake.

He reiterated his stand on segregation, stating that he is 100 per cent for maintaining segregation and 100 per cent against any attempt to force intergration of the races.

On the law enforcement issue, Preaus said he is convinced that people want total law enforcement at all levels and want the governor to step into local situations if necessary. He pledged to carry out this wish of the people by seeing that all laws are enforced in all corners of the state.

Rayburn Starts Foundation For Bonham Library

BONHAM, Tex., Dec. 10 —UP— House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) turned the first spadeful of dirt Saturday on the Sam Rayburn Library of Bonham.

He used the same spade that he used to plant the "Rayburn White Oak" on the Capitol grounds in Washington, D. C. Thirty-four degree temperature chilled the ceremony.

But only 30 minutes earlier, snow had been falling. However, it stopped snowing for the occasion, and Rayburn spoke of his appreciation to a "good-sized crowd."

The library will be built from contributions, large and small, from admirers of "Mr. Sam." Rayburn said it was "more a tribute to the school children of Fannin county than anything."

"In future years, the children, who so generously contributed their dimes, and their grandchildren will benefit from this library," the House speaker said.

He added that Saturday's ceremony was a "lifelong dream come true." He said he had always wanted to leave Bonham and Fannin County something to express his appreciation.

"The people of Bonham and Fannin county always have given me their support—and it has been a loyal support."

"This has been true throughout my political career," he said. "I imagine that when the library is dedicated about a year from now, we'll have a real party."

"I may even save some of my steers and have them well-cooked," he said, and then took a dig at the Republicans by adding "I'm giving them away now."

He was referring to low cattle prices.

By WILLIAM C. FOGARTY

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 10—UP — Police pressed a "must" search for a sadistic, sex killer Saturday in the slaying of a coed beauty queen at the University of Omaha.

The body of pretty brunette Carolyn Marie Nevins, a 20-year-old senior honor student, was found behind a clump of bushes on the campus early Saturday.

She was fully-clothed but her garments were disarranged. There was evidence of a struggle.

Police branded the killer "sadistic" and said sex appeared to be the motive. An autopsy was scheduled.

Police Chief Harry Green ordered every available officer and detective in the city on the case.

Detective Inspector Ernest Brown said the crime had to be solved. "If we don't," he said, "decent people will be afraid to send their daughters to school."

Carolyn, whose school work was rated excellent and who had won honors in debate, also had captured a local Masonic beauty contest recently.

Police, hampered by a snow storm, conducted a foot - by - foot search for clues of the large campus and of wooded Elmwood Park bordering it. They borrowed a mine sweeper to search for shell casings.

Police also sought a light-colored convertible seen racing away from the school about 1:20 a. m.

Green said "every known acquaintance" of the girl would be questioned but said police had no particular suspects.

Friends said Carolyn had dated a boy now attending an out-of-town college.

A preliminary autopsy, which showed the girl had not been raped showed that three .32 calibre bullets lodged in her body.

Another bullet passed through her arm and a fifth wound was made by one of the bullets which entered her body.

GETS PIG

WASHINGTON —UP— Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has turned down a proposal to reduce the pork supply by killing hogs but didn't get any show of gratitude Friday from one porker.

Benson accepted the pig, a gift from the National Swine Growers Council, on behalf of President Eisenhower but the pig ignored Benson and trotted over to a pail of feed.

Firm Pays Off

32 Men Collect $50 As Bonus For Giving Up Smokes

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—Pay-off time came tonight for a Wichita Falls oil man and rancher who offered his employes $50 each to quit smoking.

J. S. Bridwell made the offer last March to the 255 employes of the Bridwell Oil Co.

Thirty-two were ready with signed statements for presentation—and exchange for a total of $1,600—at a company Christmas party tonight.

In addition to the $50 checks for those who quit, Bridwell had a surprise for about 40 employes who couldn't cash in on the contest because they had quit before Bridwell's offer was made. The surprise: $20 checks.

The stub of the checks carried this message:

"A partial reward to you for a sensible decision to quit smoking. Your real reward will come in better health, fewer accidents, better spirits, greater savings and in the satisfaction that you are an example for others who may be shortening their lives with this oppressive habit."

The Christmas party program also included viewing of a movie distributed by the American Cancer Society and a talk on lung cancer research by Dr. Kenneth Babb, Wichita Falls surgeon who is also a former Bridwell employe.

Bridwell's offer last spring brought mail from almost every state and several foreign countries. Most of the letters offered congratulations, some were critical, and a large number asked money. A Chinese wrote from Penang, Malaya, asking that Bridwell "give me six of your pedigree cows and two oxen, plus a loan of $5,000 (U.S. only), payable when able." He added, "Should I ever succeed in this life, I shall repay every penny."

The Texas oil man is proudest of a letter from Dr. Alton Ochsner, eminent New Orleans surgeon, who called the offer a "splendid thing."

"I am disturbed because of what might happen to our population if people continue to smoke as they have in the past," Dr. Ochsner wrote.

Bridwell says he is not "trying to reform the world."

"I am chiefly interested in the well-being of my employes," he said. "I am convinced that the smoking habit is detrimental to their health and general welfare, so if I can encourage them to drop it, I will do so."

He added he won't fire those who continue to smoke.

Chemical Plant At Lake Charles To Be Expanded

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) —Petroleum Chemicals, Inc. today announced a $4,350,000 expansion program at its Lake Charles, La. butadiene plant. Petroleum Chemicals is jointly owned by Cities Service Co. and Continental Oil Co.

F. H. Simpson, vice president, said capacity of the Lake Charles facility will be increased from 63,000 tons to 79,000 tons of butadiene a year. Flour Corp., the contractor, will start work on the expansion program within the next few weeks and finish it by next fall, the statement said.

Butadiene is one of the principal raw materials used in making synthetic rubber products and some plastics.

Tiblier Elected By Press Club

Tiblier succeeds W. F. Minor, Jackson correspondent for the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Other officers elected were James Ward, managing editor of the Jackson Daily News, vice president; and Ralph Hutto Jr., of the State Times, secretary-treasurer.

Minor and Douglas Starr of The Associated Press were named to two-year terms on the board of governors. Kenneth Toler, Jackson correspondent for the Memphis, Tenn., Commercial Appeal, and H. L. Stevenson of United Press have one more year on the board.

TAXLESS PAY CHECK

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Forty-two years ago C. J. Smith, now a Baton Rouge oil refinery employe, worked for one day as a fireman on a Kansas City Southern Railway Co. locomotive at Shreveport, La. and didn't get paid. Recently he wrote the company about it and soon received a check for $2.90—with no deductions." I just wanted to see what would happen," Smith explained before turning the money over to charity.

The Christmas party program also included viewing of a movie distributed by the American Cancer Society and a talk on lung cancer research by Dr. Kenneth Babb, Wichita Falls surgeon who is also a former Bridwell employe.

Bridwell's offer last spring brought mail from almost every state and several foreign countries. Most of the letters offered congratulations, some were critical, and a large number asked money. A Chinese wrote from Penang, Malaya, asking that Bridwell "give me six of your pedigree cows and two oxen, plus a loan of $5,000 (U.S. only), payable when able." He added, "Should I ever succeed in this life, I shall repay every penny."

The Texas oil man is proudest of a letter from Dr. Alton Ochsner, eminent New Orleans surgeon, who called the offer a "splendid thing."

"I am disturbed because of what might happen to our population if people continue to smoke as they have in the past," Dr. Ochsner wrote.

Bridwell says he is not "trying to reform the world."

"I am chiefly interested in the well-being of my employes," he said. "I am convinced that the smoking habit is detrimental to their health and general welfare, so if I can encourage them to drop it, I will do so."

He added he won't fire those who continue to smoke.

Grevemberg To Back Segregation, Law Enforcement

BATON ROUGE, Dec. 10 (Special)—Baton Rouge headquarters for gubernatorial candidate Francis C. Grevemberg Saturday released the text of a statement issued by the candidate to be read at Saturday's gathering of the Southern Gentlemen's Association in Hammond.

A spokesman at Grevemberg's headquarters revealed that the candidate was forced to change his plans to attend the meeting because of failure in being able to arrange transportation for Grevemberg from his Saturday's stumping itinerary to Hammond.

The statement Gevemberg asked to be read at the meeting follows:

I am emphatically in favor of continued segregation of white and Negro races. Our traditional southern way of life, established after several centuries, cannot be changed because of a court decision. When elected, the Grevemberg-Clanton ticket will oppose any attempts to force integration on Louisiana, and will work to maintain segregation. This can and must be accomplished without bloodshed and violence. I pledge immediate and effective action to prevent bloodshed and violence in continuing to maintain separate but equal facilities for both races. This is the only course Louisiana can follow."

Brevemberg announced an itinerary for the coming week.

Monday: Gonzales, 3 p.m.

Wednesday: Young men's business club forum, 12 noon; LSU student rally, Baton Rouge, 6:30 p.m.

Thursday: Iota, 10 a.m.; Welsh, 2 p.m.; Vinton, 4 p.m.

Friday: DeQuincy, 9 a.m.; Merryville, 11 a.m.; Leesville 1 p.m.

Saturday: Rayville, 10 a.m.; Lake Providence, 1 p.m.; Bastrop, 3 p.m.

CHURCH POINT, Dec. 10 (Special) — Gubernatorial candidate Francis C. Grevemberg and the entire Grevemberg-Clanton ticket pitched a strong anti-vice argument in New Iberia today stressing the need for an effective law enforcement effort to combat juvenile delinquency.

Wesley H. Clanton, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Grevemberg-Clanton ticket, set the pace for his running mates when he declared that adequate law enforcement must be the keystone for an effective anti-juvenile delinquency effort.

"It is not enough to set up wholesome recreation for our youth if we do not eliminate those influences which adversely affect our young people's character," Clanton said. "Only a strong law enforcement program can accomplish this. Unless we have such a program, we are not getting our money's worth on what we spend for recreation and character-building activities."

Grevemberg himself pointed out that the narcotics traffic was a "real danger, and not a phantom" as some of the state's leaders would like it to be. He told his Church Point audience that the traffic had a "firm foothold."

The man who broke the back of commercialized gambling in the state pledged himself to a concentrated program to combat juvenile delinquency, including a restoration of the ten-year mandatory jail sentence for narcotics violators. He also pledged an all-out war against pornographic literature, which he said "invariably finds its way into the hands of youth."

Ben C. Bennett Jr., echoed the anti-narcotics theme when he pledged his audience that, when elected attorney general, he would not pardon "a single narcotics violator."

Also speaking was Robert Lindsey, candidate for state auditor on the Grevemberg-Clanton ticket.

MEXICO CITY —UP— The National Chamber for the Protection of Consumers asked the government Saturday to impose jail sentences on merchants violating price controls. A spokesman said fines are not enough to bait violations.

Dulles' Position On Goa Angers Indian Leaders, Aids Cause Of Russians

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 10 (AP) —The Soviet Union's traveling salesmen have failed to sell the Russian line to India's top officials.

But aided by an untimely assist from U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles—they have gone a long way toward convincing the average Indian that his real friends are to be found behind the Iron Curtain and that the Western powers are still a threat to this country's independent future.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev have made serious mistakes in their private and public statements while touring India. But these mistakes and the bad taste they have left in many Indian mouths have been wiped away by the Dulles action, which Indians consider supports Portuguese colonialism in India at a time when the Russians are hitting hard at colonialism as the root of all Western evil.

Except for the Dulles - Cunha statement on Goa, top American observers here believe U.S. prestige in India would have been as high in the eyes of the Indian government after the visit of the Russian leaders as it was before. But the Dulles words have taken the edge off Indian official anger at Russian behavior is using a "good will" tour of this country to accuse other nations.

From U.S. Ambassador John Sherman Cooper downward, there is no American official here who is not deeply concerned about the permanent effects of the Dulles statement on Indian-American relations. It appears only a major U.S. policy statement—probably from President Eisenhower himself clarifying American colonial policy can possible mollify the Indian government.

While the Russians failed, despite the Dulles statement, to convince Indian leaders their way is the right one, there is no doubt they have made a deep and lasting impression on an estimated eight million people who are said to have heard them—nearly one in every 40 Indians.

Great masses of the Indian people fairly ate up the words the Russians tossed about so freely. But Indian leaders from Prime Minister Nehru down found much to question in what they said.

In the first place, the very violence of the Russian attacks—especially on Britain, which still enjoys a good reputation here despite her former ruling status—abused the sensitivity of the average Indian leader. There was cringing too at some statements Khrushchev blurted out, such as that in Bombay, where he accused the Western powers of responsibility for starting World War II.

What was the net result of the Russian visit? This is how one responsible Indian observer summed it up:

"The great mass of the middle and lower classes in India who had contact with the Russians found them prophets worthy of support. But the Russians failed to convince the upper layer of India officialdom — those who make and carry out this country's policies — that India should change its role.

"The Indian government and people were directly subjected for the first time to Russian propaganda. And while people appeared to swallow it wholeheartedly, Indian leaders frm Nehru downward were repelled by it. It was just too strong and there was too much Soviet ego in it."

Nehru is expected to spell out this country's future relations with Russia and the West in a joint statement expected before the Russians depart for Afghanistan Wednesday.

Demos, GOP Join Forces To Gather Campaign Money

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP — Republicans and Democrats, harassed by soaring costs of political campaigns, have joined forces to ask for small contributions from the mass of average voters. They are planning a public service advertising campaign.

Both parties bought the idea first proposed by Philip Graham, publisher of the Washington Post and Times Herald, in a speech at the University of Chicago.

Democratic national chairman Paul M. Butler disclosed at a Beverly Hills, Calif., news conference Friday that a bipartisan appeal for contributions is in the works. He cited a public opinion poll indicating many voters were willing to make small campaign contributions but didn't know how.

Graham contacted Butler and Republican national chairman Leonard W. Hall, who brought party aides to two meetings with the publisher.

Agreement was reached on a statement of principles which said in effect that citizen participation in politics is desirable and that financial support is one of the desirable ways to participate.

An eight - member committee, four representing each party, is being set up to work with Graham in launching the campaign.

Graham is working with the Advertising Council, a voluntary, private, non-profit organization which provides material for public service advertising in newspapers and magazines and for radio and television stations.

15 YEARS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 45-year-old man accused of stealing $2 in nickels from an office safe was sentenced to 15 years in prison yesterday. Wesley Sawchuk, Detroit, pleaded guilty to breaking into the Ben Hausman Truck Sales & Service Co. and forcing open the safe Nov. 4. Sawchuk got 10 years on a safe-breaking charge and five years on a store-house-breaking charge.

New Washburn Trial Would Not Be Heard In Waco

WACO, Tex., Dec. 10—UP—District Judge D. W. Bartlett said Saturday that if Harry L. Washburn wins a new trial on appeal it won't be heard in Waco.

A jury of 10 men and two women found Washburn, 39, guilty Friday night of murdering his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver, with an automobile bomb and sentenced him to prison for life.

Shuford Farmer, Washburn's lawyer, said his client "definitely will appeal" the sentence. After his conviction, Washburn said in a television interview that, "I will be vindicated ultimately."

The case was tried in Waco—it was the first murder trial ever televised live — because a jury could not be selected in San Angelo where the wealthy Mrs. Weaver was killed last Jan. 19.

"If it (the verdict) doesn't stay put, they'll durned sure have to transfer it (another trial)," Judge Bartlett said.

Furthermore, he said, he will not let Washburn out of jail in appeal bond because his sentence is more than 15 years.

Washburn had been allowed to eat in restaurants since the trial began last Monday, but Saturday he was back on the jail menu.

Judge Bartlett said the publicity the trial received, largely because of the fact that it was the first to be televised, was still costing him sleep.

A Springhill, Ill., radio station telephoned Friday night for a recorded interview and a New York newspaper, the Journal-American, woke him up at 5 a. m.

In finding Washburn guilty, the jury went along with the state's charge that he really wanted to get her 58-year-old husband, Harry N. Weaver, an architect, but put the bomb on the wrong car.

The state charged that he wanted to get Weaver out of the way so he could get his hands on the Weaver fortune. He thought he could control Mrs. Weaver, the state contended, but not her husband.

Chamber To Hold Year End Meet

Officers of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce for 1956 will be announced at the 34th annual membership-at-large meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the France Hotel, according to James Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Tom Collins, ex-newspaperman of Kansas City, Mo., who is in great demand over the country in this capacity, Williams said.

Known as a humorist and philosopher, Collins has made more than 5,000 talks in his 24 years as a speaker. He was the organizer during World War Two of 10,000 volunteer speakers in nine states of the midwest, where he served as advisor with the Seventh Service Command.

Officers of Olin Mathieson Corp. will be introduced at the meeting, Williams said. This will mark the first local civic recognition of the company's recently named officials, the Chamber executive commented.

Shelby Cage, 1955 president of the Chamber, will give the annual report to Chamber members.

Williams pointed out that only a limited number of reservations are available and that the deadline for acquiring them is 12 noon Monday.

A TRIBUTE TO OUR NEIGHBORS!

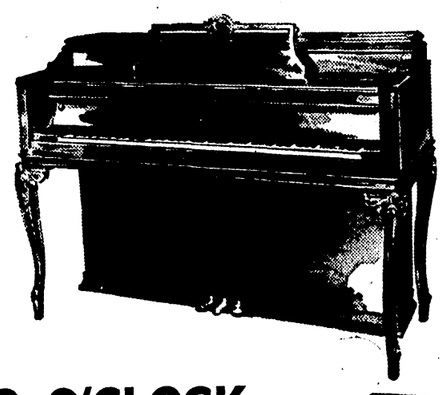

Those people who live next door or down the street a way or around the corner. Do you know them? Do you put yourself out just a little sometimes to make their lives more pleasant? A cheery "hello," a genial smile, an invitation to come in and sit awhile. These are the tiny miracles that make neighborliness blossom and grow into a thing of strength and beauty. Charity, they say, begins at home. Similarly, it is from your home that nextdoorness emanates. Let's all be good neighbors. Remember, there is no tax on your investment in friendship!

Interior Policy On Refuge Leasing Blasted By Swift

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) — Ernest Swift, director of the National Wildlife Federation, today denounced a recent proclaimation by Secretary of the Interior McKay establishing rules for oil leasing and exploration on the national wildlife refuges.

Swift, named to the federation post last September after serving as an assistant director of the U. S. Wildlife Service, said in a statement that "this is the nearest thing to an outright give-away yet perpetrated on the wildlife refuge system."

Swift noted there are about 260 different areas in 45 states and the territories, totaling approximately 18 million acres.

"They are the meager fruits of victory of a long series of bitter battles by the conservationists," Swift said.

He then said the new policy signed by McKay on Dec. 2 provides special safeguards for the few refuges which may be designated as unique natural areas or as chiefly valuable for the protection of nearly extinct species of wildlife, such as Okefenokee Swamp in Georgia and the Aransas Refuge on the Texas coast, winter home of the rare whooping cranes.

"Beyond certain special exceptions that are open to interpretation," Swift said, "the McKay ruling appears to open up the refuges to oil and gas exploration and drilling. . . .

"The McKay policy would render the Fish and Wildlife Service virtually powerless to resist the constant pressures for mineral development, even on those lands in which the service has complete control of mineral rights.

"There would seem to be plenty of undeveloped oil reserves outside the wildlife refuges to meet all the needs of the American economy for many years," Swift said. "If America is so poverty stricken that these scattered, small wildlife lands must be ravaged for the private profit of a few, then we are in pretty bad shape."

Swift said he understood oil lease applications already are being submitted to the Fish and Wildlife Service and that some have been approved under the Dec. 2 directive.

"That," said Swift, "is quick work. It looks as if the skids were oiled for the wildlife refuges even before McKay signed the proclamation."

canceled Dixon-Yates contract, retreated not a bit from his stand in his visit to Arkansas, where most outspoken sentiment was in favor of the project. It would have meant a huge 107 million dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

In reply to a question, Stevenson said he thought the Dixon-Yates contract should have been canceled as it was by order of President Eisenhower.

And he added that he thought it would have been better if it had never been executed in the first place.

Under the contract, the private power combine would have produced electricity to feed into the Tennessee Valley Authority system to replace TVA power "siphoned off" for atomic energy plants.

Eisenhower ordered the controversial contract canceled after the city of Memphis said it would not accept power from the plant and would build its own plant instead.

Stevenson repeated his support of TVA and said he didn't think it was "creeping socialism, crawling socialism or any other kind of socialism."

"Creeping socialism" was a term once used by President Eisenhower in criticizing projects he considered contrary to capitalistic theories.

Stevenson said, still answering questions, that he did not favor a cut in federal taxes at this time.

"That perhaps is not good politics, but I hope it is good judgment," he commented.

FARM SIZE INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—The census bureau reported Saturday that the number of farms of 1,000 acres or more has more than doubled in the past 30 years.

It said that in 1925 there were 63,328 farms more than 1,000 acres in size. On the basis of the 1954 census, it said, the number has grown to 130,463.

A study of figures compiled over a 25-year period in Kentucky revealed that calf losses averaged 14 per cent, with about 85 per cent of the deaths occurring before the calves were 56 days old. Chief causes of the losses were abortion, stillbirth, diarrhea and calf pneumonia.

Pentagon Asks $50 Million For Arms For Israel

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Pentagon is reported to have put a 50-million-dollar price tag on the list of arms Israel wants to buy from the United States.

Not all of the listed items were found to be available, officials said, but most of the important ones are.

It has not been decided whether Israel actually will get the arms. That question is now up to Secretary of State Dulles after consultations with other interested government agencies.

Pending this decision the Defense Department had been asked to put a value on the weapons. The Pentagon's findings stuck strictly to the question of price and availability. They closed out the first phase of consideration which began Nov. 16 when Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban formally asked for the arms at cut-rate prices on easy payment terms.

That same day Egypt's Ambassador Ahmed Hussein declared that Egypt might go to the Soviet bloc for more weapons if Israel got arms from the United States. Egypt's purchase of 80 million dollars in Czech guns, tanks, submarines and jet planes had led to Israel's complaint that this upset the balance of power in the Middle East guaranteed by Britain, France and the United States. Israel's call for U.S. weapons followed.

A 1952 agreement makes Israel eligible to buy U.S. weapons for regional and self-defense. Egypt is likewise eligible to purchase U.S. arms for the same purposes.

But the terms set by U.S. law are cash on the barrelhead and at market prices. That rules out any cut-rate easy payment deal unless the law is changed or a loophole, not apparent at this time, is found.

Egypt's request for some 26 million dollars in U.S. arms last July foundered on the question of terms. Egypt's Premier Gamel Abdul Nassar, short of cash, made a barter deal with the Reds—cotton for Czech cannon.

Prominent Dallas Man Kidnapped; Friend Is Slain

WHITNEY, Tex., Dec. 10—UP—The bullet-punctured body of Clarence Bethke, 37, was found Saturday in the kitchen of a palatial ranch house owned by Norman Hamilton, prominent Dallas lawyer.

Bethke was the foreman of Hamilton's 1,000-acre Clifton Ranch in Bosque county, and Mrs. Bethke was reported to have told officers that two men killed her husband and kidnapped Hamilton.

Sheriff Ernest Brooks of Hill county reported in Hillsboro that he had a man in jail who may know something about what went on at the ranch house.

Brooks said the man, who had no identification on him and who didn't or wouldn't talk, is 53 or 54 years old, five feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds.

He was picked up by Constable Willard Allen in Whitney, about 14 miles from Hillsboro, after the car he was driving hit two other cars. Sheriff Brooks said it was not possible to tell whether the man was drunk or dazed.

Brooks ordered him sent to a hospital in Hillsboro for checking. Constable Allen found a .38 caliber pistol in the car but Brooks said all the chambers were full and it showed no sign of recent firing.

Two of Hamilton's cars were reported missing from the ranch at the time the body of Bethke was discovered. The man Allen arrested turned over the car he was driving after he hit the other two cars at Whitney.

The ranch is in Bosque county, but Whitney is in Hill county.

person receiving gifts. A group of carol singers rendered songs of the season on the same float.

Santa Claus's float was preceded by the Rayville High School band which played "Here Comes Santa Claus." Following Santa's float was the Ouachita Parish High School band playing "Jingle Bells."

After Santa Claus, came a long series of floats, each depicting a Biblical scene.

West Monroe High School's band closed the musical portion of the show with "Joy To The World" near the end of the parade. The concluding contingent was a "peace on earth" float, featuring a huge globe of the earth.

More than 100 church leaders and civic workers put final touches to parade preparations Friday. Mrs. A. E. Allen, parade coordinator, said Friday plans were to present "the finest procession that has ever been staged in the Twin Cities." It would be hard to question the success of the planners.

Retail Merchants' coordinator Si Holland said more than 300 pounds of candy was given out during the one and a half mile procession.

As was anticipated the traffic was snarled for nearly an hour after the parade, during and before. Traffic was banned from DeSiard street and the entire route during the procession.

Among the groups entering floats were: Southside Methodist Church, Salvation Army, St. Matthew's Church, YWCA, YMCA, St. Paschal's Church, First Christian Church, Memorial Methodist Church, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, First Presbyterian Church, First Methodist Church, Covenant Presbyterian Church and the Neville Tigerettes.

James Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, commended the cooperation of those who participated in the parade. "I think we had a successful parade and one that could not have been possible without the splendid cooperation we received from many people," Williams said.

Man, Crippled Wife Giving Up Hitchhiking Try

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 10 (AP)—Daniel Counterman told the Easton Express today that he and his crippled wife have decided to return to their Easton home.

Counterman was reached by telephone at Aurora, W. Va., there he and his wife spent the night in a motel. They started out Nov. 30, in an effort to reach the Philippines for a mass meeting planned by Oklahoma evangelist Oral Roberts.

Mrs. Counterman, 22, has been confined to a wheelchair since childhood as the result of a polio attack. She and her husband believe Roberts' preachings will help her walk again.

The couple decided to return home after being informed that Roberts does not want them to go to the Philippines. The evangelist said in Tulsa yesterday he will conduct meetings next spring in San Diego, Calif. and Fayetteville, S.C. He suggested that Mrs. Counterman see him then.

Counterman commented: "There is no point in going if he doesn't want to see us." He said that he and his wife are not interested in the spring evangelistic meetings.

"Dawnie will be walking long before that," he said.

The Countermans left Easton with $8 and a Bible. They started out with Counterman pushing his wife in a wheel chair.

With rides, cash and food provided by strangers along their route, they managed to get to Gettysburg, Pa., but were unsuccessful in trying to see President Eisenhower. They went from there to Washington to see about passports, and were heading west when word reached them about Roberts.

The evangelist said the trip to the Philippines would be too rigorous for the invalid woman.

Menzies Records Massive Victory In Aussie Voting

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies crushingly defeated Herbert Evatt's Labor party in today's general election for the Australian House of Representatives.

Evatt found himself in a ding dong struggle to hold his own seat in Parliament.

Returns compiled so far in the balloting for 30 of the 60 Senate seats at stake were not conclusive, but the landslide for Menzies in the House indicated the government coalition also would win the Senate. It needs to take three out of five seats for senators in each if the six states for control. Outcome of the Senate races may not be known for several days.

As the House count neared its end, tabulations showed the government would have a big majority—probably of more than 25 in the house of 122 fully voting representatives.

Menzies' Liberal party appeared to have won 55 seats, its coalition partner, the County party 16, Labor 43 and independents.

Seven seats were in doubt. In the last Parliament, the Liberal-Country party coalition held only a 64-57 edge over Labor in a house that then had 121 members.

A record 5,171,000 voters, who faced a fine of two pounds—$4.75—if they did not have a good excuse for not voting, went to the polls in sweltering summer heat, with temperatures rocketing above the 95 mark.

Menzies, overjoyed at the result, told reporters: "We have won a splendid victory." There was no immediate comment from Evatt, who promised, if his Labor party won, higher social benefits and a review of fixed wages.

Menzies, on the other hand, had promised virtually nothing new.

The campaign was the quietest in Australia's political history.

Vladmir Petrov defected as third secretary of the Russian Embassy in Canberra and asked for political asylum in Australia. He turned over to authorities documents disclosing an elaborate Communist spy network.

A royal commission decided the documents were authentic. Evatt disclosed he had written to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and that Molotov replied the documents were forgeries. Menzies accused Evatt of "trafficking with Molotov." The Labor chief has denied he has any Communist leanings.

Evatt had his own struggle to hold his seat in the house. With most votes counted, Evatt had 19,044, his Liberal opponent W. T. Arthur 18,014 and independent E. G. Trembath 1,501.

Negro Paper Refuses To Back Any Candidate

BATON ROUGE, Dec. 10—UP—A local Negro paper has said in an editorial it will not actively support any gubernatorial candidate because all of them are in favor of segregation.

Managing Editor Leslie Barnum of the Baton Rouge News-Leader said candidates used the segregation issue for political gain even while "we believe segregation is in contempt of the laws of God."

"There are five gubernatorial candidates in the race each of whom has indicated perpetuating the policy of segregation in Louisiana," the paper said.

Barnum wrote, "as far as actively backing any gubernatorial candidate in the coming race, we can't support any man who would advocate defiance of constitutional government."

Extra care should be provided for calves born during fall and early winter months.

Woman, 72, Wins $100,000 Cash On Giveway Program

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — The largest prize in the annals of radio and television giveaway shows—$100,000—went to a 72-year-old woman tonight.

Mrs. Ethel Park Richardson, of Los Angeles, won the prize by answering a six-part question about folk songs.

"I'm going to give a tenth of it to Him," Mrs. Richardson said, gesturing heavenward, after the fanfare and applause had died down.

How much Mrs. Richardson will have left after taxes depends on a number of things, including how much she gives to charity. She has estimated she will net in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Mrs. Richardson was the first contestant to reach the $100,000 end of the trail on the NBC television program "The Big Surprize".

Two persons have won $64,000 on another television quiz show, CBS' "The $64,000 Question." Until now, that was the largest such prize ever given away.

Mrs. Richardson missed the $100,000 question last week, but got another chance at it tonight under scoring rules of the program.

For the big prize she correctly identified the Erie Canal as the "highway to the West" built in 1825. She identified the Shenandoah of the folk song as an Indian chief. She named the Wabash River as the one mentioned in a song called "Illinois."

The fourth part of the question caused Mrs. Richardson to stumble. After identifying the tune of "The Streets of Laredo," she made several false starts in an effort to sing the first verse. She returned to the question later and got it.

For the fifth part she named Laura as the girl of the Colorado trail with eyes of a morning star and cheeks like a rose. And she sang the verse and chorus of a California gold rush song that has the same tune as "Camptown Races."

"Now I'm scared," she confessed to master of ceremonies Jack barry after she won the prize.

Weaver said he was in favor of the special 90-minute shows at a meeting of NBC executives.

New Orleans To Back Efforts For Phone Rate Cuts

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 (AP)—The city of New Orleans will file a petition next Tuesday in support of efforts by the Louisiana Public Service Commission to cut telephone rates in the state.

The petition of intervention will be filed with the commission at the start of its public hearing in which the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. must show why its rates should not be reduced, city attorney Raoul Sere said today.

Sere, in a statement about the petition, said:

"When dealing with the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., operating in nine states, it must be borne in mind that this company is one of many operating telephone companies owned and controlled by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., a New York corporation.

"American Telephone and Telegraph Co. is the principal beneficiary of the operation of local telephone companies. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. owns 100 per cent of the stock of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

"Furthermore, we must bear in mind that American Telephone and Telegraph Co. owns controlling interest in Western Electric and many other companies supplying equipment, materials and supplies to Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co."

The statement said the city would seek a cut in intra-state rates by showing at the hearing:

"(1) That many items of expenses and of capital investments claimed by Southern Bell have been purchased and contracted for with Western Electric and other subsidiaries of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. at excessive prices.

"(2) That millions of dollars of capital investment claimed by Southern Bell represent investment in labor-saving devices, systems and equipment, which will reduce the number of employes required, and, therefore, should be used as a basis for reducing rather than increasing telephone rates in Louisiana.

"(3) That American Telephone and Telegraph Co., sole stockholder of Southern Bell, is paid, in addition to large dividend payments, an annual license fee of 1 per cent of the gross revenue of the local company, which amounts to a gratuity at the expense of Louisiana telephone subscribers.

"(4) That the telephone company reinvests depreciation reserves (charged against operating expense) in its own property and then seeks to have its rates increased in order to receive a return on this money, which, in effect, amounts to telephone subscribers paying rates on money paid into the company by themselves."

After the commission issued the show cause order, W. K. Boardman Jr., Louisiana general manager for Southern Bell, said, "Our rates in the job the public expects us to do."

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 10—UP—James Oscar Bowerman, 40, has been indicted for murder in the "William Tell" slaying of Raymond V. Baker last month.

Israel's call for U.S. weapons followed.

A 1952 agreement makes Israel eligible to buy U.S. weapons for regional and self-defense. Egypt is likewise eligible to purchase U.S. arms for the same purposes.

But the terms set by U.S. law are cash on the barrelhead and at market prices. That rules out any cut-rate easy payment deal unless the law is changed or a loophole, not apparent at this time, is found.

Egypt's request for some 26 million dollars in U.S. arms last July foundered on the question of terms. Egypt's Premier Gamel Abdul Nassar, short of cash, made a barter deal with the Reds—cotton for Czech cannon.

Prominent Dallas Man Kidnapped; Friend Is Slain

WHITNEY, Tex., Dec. 10—UP—The bullet-punctured body of Clarence Bethke, 37, was found Saturday in the kitchen of a palatial ranch house owned by Norman Hamilton, prominent Dallas lawyer.

Bethke was the foreman of Hamilton's 1,000-acre Clifton Ranch in Bosque county, and Mrs. Bethke was reported to have told officers that two men killed her husband and kidnapped Hamilton.

Sheriff Ernest Brooks of Hill county reported in Hillsboro that he had a man in jail who may know something about what went on at the ranch house.

Brooks said the man, who had no identification on him and who didn't or wouldn't talk, is 53 or 54 years old, five feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds.

He was picked up by Constable Willard Allen in Whitney, about 14 miles from Hillsboro, after the car he was driving hit two other cars. Sheriff Brooks said it was not possible to tell whether the man was drunk or dazed.

Brooks ordered him sent to a hospital in Hillsboro for checking. Constable Allen found a .38 caliber pistol in the car but Brooks said all the chambers were full and it showed no sign of recent firing.

Two of Hamilton's cars were reported missing from the ranch at the time the body of Bethke was discovered. The man Allen arrested turned over the car he was driving after he hit the other two cars at Whitney.

The ranch is in Bosque county, but Whitney is in Hill county.

person receiving gifts. A group of carol singers rendered songs of the season on the same float.

Santa Claus's float was preceded by the Rayville High School band which played "Here Comes Santa Claus." Following Santa's float was the Ouachita Parish High School band playing "Jingle Bells."

After Santa Claus, came a long series of floats, each depicting a Biblical scene.

West Monroe High School's band closed the musical portion of the show with "Joy To The World" near the end of the parade. The concluding contingent was a "peace on earth" float, featuring a huge globe of the earth.

More than 100 church leaders and civic workers put final touches to parade preparations Friday. Mrs. A. E. Allen, parade coordinator, said Friday plans were to present "the finest procession that has ever been staged in the Twin Cities." It would be hard to question the success of the planners.

Retail Merchants' coordinator Si Holland said more than 300 pounds of candy was given out during the one and a half mile procession.

As was anticipated the traffic was snarled for nearly an hour after the parade, during and before. Traffic was banned from DeSiard street and the entire route during the procession.

Among the groups entering floats were: Southside Methodist Church, Salvation Army, St. Matthew's Church, YWCA, YMCA, St. Paschal's Church, First Christian Church, Memorial Methodist Church, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, First Presbyterian Church, First Methodist Church, Covenant Presbyterian Church and the Neville Tigerettes.

James Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, commended the cooperation of those who participated in the parade. "I think we had a successful parade and one that could not have been possible without the splendid cooperation we received from many people," Williams said.

Man, Crippled Wife Giving Up Hitchhiking Try

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 10 (AP)—Daniel Counterman told the Easton Express today that he and his crippled wife have decided to return to their Easton home.

Counterman was reached by telephone at Aurora, W. Va., there he and his wife spent the night in a motel. They started out Nov. 30, in an effort to reach the Philippines for a mass meeting planned by Oklahoma evangelist Oral Roberts.

Mrs. Counterman, 22, has been confined to a wheelchair since childhood as the result of a polio attack. She and her husband believe Roberts' preachings will help her walk again.

The couple decided to return home after being informed that Roberts does not want them to go to the Philippines. The evangelist said in Tulsa yesterday he will conduct meetings next spring in San Diego, Calif. and Fayetteville, S.C. He suggested that Mrs. Counterman see him then.

Counterman commented: "There is no point in going if he doesn't want to see us." He said that he and his wife are not interested in the spring evangelistic meetings.

"Dawnie will be walking long before that," he said.

The Countermans left Easton with $8 and a Bible. They started out with Counterman pushing his wife in a wheel chair.

With rides, cash and food provided by strangers along their route, they managed to get to Gettysburg, Pa., but were unsuccessful in trying to see President Eisenhower. They went from there to Washington to see about passports, and were heading west when word reached them about Roberts.

The evangelist said the trip to the Philippines would be too rigorous for the invalid woman.

Menzies Records Massive Victory In Aussie Voting

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies crushingly defeated Herbert Evatt's Labor party in today's general election for the Australian House of Representatives.

Evatt found himself in a ding dong struggle to hold his own seat in Parliament.

Returns compiled so far in the balloting for 30 of the 60 Senate seats at stake were not conclusive, but the landslide for Menzies in the House indicated the government coalition also would win the Senate. It needs to take three out of five seats for senators in each if the six states for control. Outcome of the Senate races may not be known for several days.

As the House count neared its end, tabulations showed the government would have a big majority—probably of more than 25 in the house of 122 fully voting representatives.

Menzies' Liberal party appeared to have won 55 seats, its coalition partner, the County party 16, Labor 43 and independents.

Seven seats were in doubt. In the last Parliament, the Liberal-Country party coalition held only a 64-57 edge over Labor in a house that then had 121 members.

A record 5,171,000 voters, who faced a fine of two pounds—$4.75—if they did not have a good excuse for not voting, went to the polls in sweltering summer heat, with temperatures rocketing above the 95 mark.

Menzies, overjoyed at the result, told reporters: "We have won a splendid victory." There was no immediate comment from Evatt, who promised, if his Labor party won, higher social benefits and a review of fixed wages.

Menzies, on the other hand, had promised virtually nothing new.

The campaign was the quietest in Australia's political history.

Vladmir Petrov defected as third secretary of the Russian Embassy in Canberra and asked for political asylum in Australia. He turned over to authorities documents disclosing an elaborate Communist spy network.

A royal commission decided the documents were authentic. Evatt disclosed he had written to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and that Molotov replied the documents were forgeries. Menzies accused Evatt of "trafficking with Molotov." The Labor chief has denied he has any Communist leanings.

Evatt had his own struggle to hold his seat in the house. With most votes counted, Evatt had 19,044, his Liberal opponent W. T. Arthur 18,014 and independent E. G. Trembath 1,501.

Negro Paper Refuses To Back Any Candidate

BATON ROUGE, Dec. 10—UP—A local Negro paper has said in an editorial it will not actively support any gubernatorial candidate because all of them are in favor of segregation.

Managing Editor Leslie Barnum of the Baton Rouge News-Leader said candidates used the segregation issue for political gain even while "we believe segregation is in contempt of the laws of God."

"There are five gubernatorial candidates in the race each of whom has indicated perpetuating the policy of segregation in Louisiana," the paper said.

Barnum wrote, "as far as actively backing any gubernatorial candidate in the coming race, we can't support any man who would advocate defiance of constitutional government."

Woman, 72, Wins $100,000 Cash On Giveway Program

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP) — The largest prize in the annals of radio and television giveaway shows—$100,000—went to a 72-year-old woman tonight.

Mrs. Ethel Park Richardson, of Los Angeles, won the prize by answering a six-part question about folk songs.

"I'm going to give a tenth of it to Him," Mrs. Richardson said, gesturing heavenward, after the fanfare and applause had died down.

How much Mrs. Richardson will have left after taxes depends on a number of things, including how much she gives to charity. She has estimated she will net in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Mrs. Richardson was the first contestant to reach the $100,000 end of the trail on the NBC television program "The Big Surprize".

Two persons have won $64,000 on another television quiz show, CBS' "The $64,000 Question." Until now, that was the largest such prize ever given away.

Mrs. Richardson missed the $100,000 question last week, but got another chance at it tonight under scoring rules of the program.

For the big prize she correctly identified the Erie Canal as the "highway to the West" built in 1825. She identified the Shenandoah of the folk song as an Indian chief. She named the Wabash River as the one mentioned in a song called "Illinois."

The fourth part of the question caused Mrs. Richardson to stumble. After identifying the tune of "The Streets of Laredo," she made several false starts in an effort to sing the first verse. She returned to the question later and got it.

For the fifth part she named Laura as the girl of the Colorado trail with eyes of a morning star and cheeks like a rose. And she sang the verse and chorus of a California gold rush song that has the same tune as "Camptown Races."

"Now I'm scared," she confessed to master of ceremonies Jack barry after she won the prize.

Weaver said he was in favor of the special 90-minute shows at a meeting of NBC executives.

New Orleans To Back Efforts For Phone Rate Cuts

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 (AP)—The city of New Orleans will file a petition next Tuesday in support of efforts by the Louisiana Public Service Commission to cut telephone rates in the state.

The petition of intervention will be filed with the commission at the start of its public hearing in which the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. must show why its rates should not be reduced, city attorney Raoul Sere said today.

Sere, in a statement about the petition, said:

"When dealing with the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., operating in nine states, it must be borne in mind that this company is one of many operating telephone companies owned and controlled by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., a New York corporation.

"American Telephone and Telegraph Co. is the principal beneficiary of the operation of local telephone companies. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. owns 100 per cent of the stock of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

"Furthermore, we must bear in mind that American Telephone and Telegraph Co. owns controlling interest in Western Electric and many other companies supplying equipment, materials and supplies to Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co."

The statement said the city would seek a cut in intra-state rates by showing at the hearing:

"(1) That many items of expenses and of capital investments claimed by Southern Bell have been purchased and contracted for with Western Electric and other subsidiaries of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. at excessive prices.

"(2) That millions of dollars of capital investment claimed by Southern Bell represent investment in labor-saving devices, systems and equipment, which will reduce the number of employes required, and, therefore, should be used as a basis for reducing rather than increasing telephone rates in Louisiana.

"(3) That American Telephone and Telegraph Co., sole stockholder of Southern Bell, is paid, in addition to large dividend payments, an annual license fee of 1 per cent of the gross revenue of the local company, which amounts to a gratuity at the expense of Louisiana telephone subcsribers.

"(4) That the telephone company reinvests depreciation reserves (charged against operating expense) in its own property and then seeks to have its rates increased in order to receive a return on this money, which, in effect, amounts to telephone subscribers paying rates on money paid into the company by themselves."

After the commission issued the show cause order, W. K. Boardman Jr., Louisiana general manager for Southern Bell, said, "Our rates in the job the public expects us to do."

Mike Souchak Takes Second Round Lead At Miami

Jay Hebert, Three More Tie For 2nd, 2 Strokes Behind

By MERCER BAILEY

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10 (AP)—Massive Mike Souchak, former Duke end who chose golf over the gridiron as a profession, pulverized par with a sparkling 65 Saturday and grabbed a 2-stroke lead after two rounds of the $12,500 Miami open.

"I was putting real well," he said. "I think that was the main thing."

Souchak, who tips the scales at 212, stands 5 feet 11 and is one of the longest drivers in the game, tacked his 5-under to an opening 68 for a 133 total with one round to go.

One veteran pro, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of St. Louis, and three younger stars, Jay Hebert of Woodmere, N.Y., Frank Stranahan of Toledo, and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., were tied for second at 135. Palmer matched Souchak's 65 Saturday. Harrison had a 66, Hebert 67 and Stranahan 68.

Par for the 6,620-yard Miami Springs course is a comparatively easy 35-35—70. Twenty - two players broke par and 13 others matched it.

There was a six-way tie for fifth at 136. Jack Isaacs of Langley AFB, Va., had 67-69; Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif., 68-68; Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N.Y., 69-67; Paul McGuire of Wichita 68-68; Pete Cooper of Detroit, 66-68, and Mike Fetchick of Mahopac, N.Y., 67-69. Isaacs and Fetchick were among five tied after the first.

Souchak, who registered out of Grossinger, N.Y., carded his fine round despite a bogey on No. 17, where his drive landed beside a tree and he was forced to putt the ball lefthanded onto the fairway. He canned birdie putts of 30, 15, 7, 7, 5 and 4 feet.

Palmer, 1954 national amateur champion, had one eagle, four birdies and a bogey. He got an eagle deuce on the 350-yard sixth when he chipped in from 70 to 100 feet out. The bogey came at No. 3 where he went over the green and then missed a 6-foot putt.

The field was trimmed to the low 61 pros and 10 amateurs for Sunday' s final round. Pros shooting 144 or under qualified. The tournament was cut to 54 holes after the first round was cancelled because of a cloudburst.

Souchak, who has won almost $27,000 in PGA tournaments this year plus several thousand more in pro-Am events, said he was happy he chose golf over football as a moneymaking career.

"Golf always was my first love he commented," "but football was the best way to get through college."

Palmer, who made his professional debut here a year ago, said he got his 65 because his long irons were "right to the hole."

Ray Terry, a lieutenant at Patrick, AFB, Fla., and son of former baseball great Bill Terry, fired a 33-34—67 to lead amateurs with a 138.

The leaders:

Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., 68-65—133
Frank Strahahan, Toledo. 67-68—136
E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, St. Louis, 69-66—135

Maryland Heads Grid Ratings Of 'Saylor System'

UNIVERSITY Park, Pa., Dec. 10 —UP— The Saylor System's 10th annual college football ratings released Saturday listed Maryland's mighty Terrapins as the nation's top team.

The system, perfected by Penn State economist Roger B. Saylor, counted seven "bowl" teams among its top eight.

Following in order behind Maryland were Michigan State, UCLA, Texas Christian, Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Ohio State and Mississippi.

Ohio State, which won its second straight Big 10 championship, is prevented from making two consecutive bowl appearances. The Buckeyes were in the Rose Bowl last New Years Day.

Rounding out the top 10 were Texas A&M in ninth place and Notre Dame and Auburn, tied for 10th.

Saylor saw little to choose between Maryland and Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, Michigan State and UCLA in the Rose Bowl, and Texas Christian and Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl. But Georgia Tech rated a nod over Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl and Auburn was the pick over Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl.

Pittsburgh ranked 19th and Vanderbilt 25th in the Saylor system.

The Penn State statistician conceded that upsets occur. He said the loss of a key player or a psychological factor, such as the recent protests to a Negro player on Pitt's team appearing in the Sugar Bowl, could "knock these ratings into a cocked hat."

COOK OPPONENT — Ted "Baby Galento" Agapieu, who meets Bastrop's well-known welterweight in the ten-round feature at Kallio's Arena on Tuesday, December 20. Four four-round bouts complete the card.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 10 (AP)—Halfback Neal Wagerle of Compton returned a kickoff 86 yards to break a 6-6 tie and the California junior college champion team went on to defeat Jones County of Mississippi, 22-13, in the 10th annual Junior Rose Bowl football game today.

Jones fumbled on a kickoff inside its own 30-yard line and Compton struck in five plays to sew up the game. Fullback Jim Bunyard on a double reverse made 23 yards to the two and quarterback Bunny Aldrich sneaked over for the touchdown.

Compton's sensational Negro halfback Jimmy Waddell was knocked out of the game the second time he ran with the ball and was later taken to a hospital with a damaged nase and a possible head injury.

The game was aggressively contested but there were no untoward incidents. In Mississippi there had been some criticism of Jones for playing Compton because the California team had eight Negroes on its squad.

A crowd of 57,132, gathered in the famed Rose Bowl in balmy weather, was treated to plenty of thrills. Every touchdown but one was a long range affair, measuring from 59 yards to the 86-yard gallop by 180-pound Wagerle.

Compton, a 14-point favorite, started the explosiv scoring on an end around play, with Charles McNeil scampering 74 yards.

The Mississippi team, from Ellisville, tied it up in the second on a 68-yard pass play from quarterback Kenneth Schulte to halfback Ronnie Williams.

The same combination got together for 59 yards and the second Jones touchdown in the third quarter, but Compton still was ahead 20-13 at that time.

Jones	0	6	7	0	—13
Compton	6	14	0	2	—22

Scoring: Jones—Touchdowns — Williams 2 ((68, 59, passes from Schulte). Conversion-Stripling.

Compton — Touchdowns—McNeil (74, run); Waggerle (86, run); Aldrich (2, plunge). Conversions-Aldrich 2. Safety-Williams (tackle end zone).

Kallio's Boxing Card Reset For Tuesday, Dec. 20

The date of the next boxing program at Gus Kallio's Arena has been changed from Monday, Dec. 19 to the following night, Tuesday, Dec. 20th.

Clarence Cook, popular Bastrop welterweight, goes against Pittsburgh's Ted "Baby Galento" Agapieu in the ten-round feature, which will be preceded by four four-round preliminaries, headed by the Devayne Garris-Duane Cooley bout, billed as the semi-final.

Robert Hancock, Tallulah, meets Pat Brown, Houston, in one four-rounder; Jesse Goins, flashy little Monroe Negro, takes on Wesley Mosely, Shreveport; and in another Negro bout, Monroe's Henry Burton fights Robert Williams, Monroe.

The referee for the evening will be Larche Campbell, well-known Bastrop boxing manager and promoter.

Cardinals Sign Outfielder, Two Hurlers For '56

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10 (AP) —The St. Louis Cardinals today announced the signing of pitchers Brooks Lawrence and Ben Flowers and an outfielder Archie Wilson to their 1956 contracts.

It brings to seven the number of Redbirds who have agreed to terms for next season.

Lawrence, after winning 15 games in the last two-thirds of the '53 season, couldn't find the range last year and finished with a 3-8 record. During a brief period with Oakland in the Pacific Coast League he had a 5-1 mark.

Flowers, in a late-season trial after compiling a 12-9 record at Buffalo of the International League, appeared in four games with St. Louis and had a 1-0 mark.

Wilson, 31-year-old righthanded hitter, was No. 3 in batting in the International League with Toronto last season with a .319 average.

Orange Bowl Or Bust Say Okies

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 10 —(AP) —Some Oklahoma football fans, determined to see the Orange Bowl game at any cost don't care how far they go as long as their eventual destination is Miami.

The nation's championship football team, Oklahoma, meets Maryland in Miami Jan. 2.

Airline reservations for a week and a half before the game have been booked solid from Oklahoma for a month.

Officials at American Airlines said Saturday they have filled several demands "to get me there at any cost" by scheduling passengers from here to St. Louis and Chicago and then to Miami. Some have even said they would go to New York if need be in order to get to Florida in time for the game.

Baltimore Birds Announce Pilot For Quebec Team

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Saturday Lloyd Brown, a coach for the Orioles last season, will manage the club's Thetford Mines, Quebec, team next season.

The Orioles also announced the signing of five young players, all free agents. Three will go to Thetford Mines.

Brown, who saw 12 seasons in the majors as a left-handed pitcher succeeds Barney Lutz who will manage the Orioles' Thompson, Ga. club. In six years as a minor league manager, Brown's clubs finished first four times.

The five free agents boosts to 65 the number the Orioles will look over. The latest include:

Roy Campbell, 22, Mt. Rainer, Md., catcher who has been stationed at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington and batted .340 with the service team this year. He was signed to a Class B contract.

Sweeney, Digiamarrino and Drolet were signed to contracts with Thetford Mines.

Eagles' Trimble Loses Job Monday If Rumor Correct

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10—UP—Unless the Philadelphia Eagles' front office "changes its mind Monday," Coach Jim Trimble will be released and his contract with one year to go will be bought up, a reliable source said Saturday.

Eagles officials said "nothing final has been decided" but already names of possible successors were suggested.

These included Jim Tatum, coach at Maryland; Biggie Munn, athletic director and former coach at Michigan State; Blahton Collier, of Kentucky and Buck Shaw, coach of the U. S. Air Force Academy formerly with the San Francisco Forty-Niners. Another, but highly unlikely successor considered was Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma.

But while Eagles officials were silent, the strong word was out that "both are dissatisfied."

The front office was sour on the slump which landed the Eagles perilously close to the cellar in the National Football League's Eastern Conference after the team looked like a championship contender winning all six of its exhibition games.

Trimble was reported dissatisfied with discontent among the players, criticism of his coaching and conflicting reports that he was either "too rough, or "wasn't tough enough" in handling the squad.

The Eagles admitted the owners were concerned seriously with what it termed "volumes of critical mail" which followed the slump.

There was criticism that end Bobby Walston, the league's leading scorer last year, was used primarily as a decoy this season and that Halfback Jerry Norton was turned into a defensive player and limited to fair catches on punt returns.

There was other criticism of disposition of personnel and tactics as the Eagles won only four games and had only one tie to show for five road games, prior to Sunday's finale with the Bears at Chicago.

Tulane Newcomer To Va. Tech Grid Slate

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 10 (AP) —Tulane University is the only newcomer to Virginia Tech's nine-game football schedule for 1956, announced today by athletic director Frank Moseley.

The Gobblers will open against Tulane, an improving Southeastern Conference team, Sept. 22 at New Orleans. It will be the first time Tech and Tulane have met on a football field.

Moseley said he is trying to fill an open date Sept.15 to expand his card to 10 games.

Three Southern Conference opponents, four Atlantic Coast Conference teams and Florida State join Tulane on the schedule. Missing 1954 opponents are Pennsylvania and George Washington.

The 13-0 victory scored over Vanderbilt this year was Mississippi's first shuptou against the Commodores in a football series that dates back through 33 games since 1894.

Denver 11 Wins Milk Bowl Tilt At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 10—UP The Presentation Parochial Panthers of Denver beat the Oak Cliff Panthers of Dallas, Tex., 18-0, Saturday to win the eighth annual Milk Bowl football game.

The game is for boys 10 to 14 years old and weighing under 110 pounds. It is sponsored by the Alamo Heights Lions Club and the proceeds go to Boys' Homes of America and the Lions' League for Crippled Children.

John Mazzuca ran six yards for the first Denver touchdown in the first period. He had taken it to the six-yard line on a previous play with a run of 43 yards.

Ed Knafelc scored the second touchdown in the second period on a 14-yard run through the middle of the line. The final touchdown was scored in the last play of the game, on a 15-yard pass from Steve Chavez to Rich Potter.

The game was played in Alamo Stadium before 3,073 spectators. The weather was clear for most of the game, but it clouded up toward the end.

Denver had the game under control from the start. About the best Oak Cliff playing was put up by Karl Swettan, a 13-year-old quarterback.

New Orleans Sets For Gala Week On Dec. 28th

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 —UP — A selective field of some of the finest amateur athletic talent in the locker rooms of the nation's colleges will empty into town here Dec. 28 to kick off a six-ring week-long carnival of sports and officially open the winter season of this bayou city.

There will be enough athletic talent in old New Orleans to make a college coach weep with sheer wants. Just like the gumbo soup in this Creole country, which has a little of everything in it, the carnival is a mixture of six separate sports all underway in dazzling progression during one full week, capped by the Sugar Bowl football game Jan. 2.

Boxing, oddly, takes the first poke at the start of this "Little Olympics," getting on the go Dec. 28 at Municipal Auditorium. Then the sports stairway of stars leads right through tennis, basketball, track, a sailing regetta, up to the pinnable, the gridiron classic.

The whole is known commonly as the Sugar Bowl week and is sponsored by the New Orleans 'mid - Winter Sports Association. The association is a private group, the only one in the nation which sponsors a major football game since the remainder of the bowl organizers are now municipal bodies. Mid - winter functions year-round gathering its strength to put on the big one-week extravaganza.

Pittsburgh will represent the East this year in the Sugar Bowl football classic and Georgia Tech, a perennial bowl team, will be in the other corner as the best from the South. The kickoff on the afternoon of Jan. 2 in a magnificent stadium seating 82,000 promises to touch off a really fine gridiron clash, with or without reference to the racial clouds which gathered recently over Pitt's plans to use a Negro player.

The game has grown from the 1935 Tulane - Temple inaugural fracas when the sponsors had trouble filling a 22,000-seat stadium through three additions to the stands to today's handsome 82,000-seat steel and concrete bowl which will be packed with lucky ticket holders.

Although the lists are not complete for all the competing athletes in every event, preliminary lineups have Syracuse University's boxing team meeting Louisiana State University. Syracuse is bringing two NCAA champions to the ring for the three-day boxing card. LSU lost two NCAA champs from last year's squad, but always throws up a fine collegiate leather team.

Davis Cupper Vic Siexas, Tom Brown, Jr., and Eddie Moylan head up a preliminary list of tennis stars who start swinging Dec. 29 and crown a Sugar Bowl champ with Saturday's final matches Dec. 31. The New Orleans Country Club courts will host the net events.

Basketball moves in Dec. 29 at the polished Loyola fieldhouse with defending Sugar Bowl champion Nore Dame from last year paired against Alabama's Crimson Tide on opening night. The University of Utah's tall cagers meet the Marquette University quintet in the other match. The opening round winners clash Dec. 30 for tournament honors.

SEC Schools Sign 'More Than 200' Aid Scholarships

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southeastern Conference colleges signed more than 200 high school football players to athletic scholarships during the first hectic days of the recruiting program this week and indications are that several schools are far from through.

The University of Alabama, with 42 signees, was far ahead of other schools in the SEC. Other colleges reported from 10 to 25 signed.

At noon Saturday the University of Georgia reported it had contracts with 2 youngsters, 18 of them from Georgia.

Georgia Tech has signed 23 high school stars with 12 coming from Georgia, three from Alabama, five from Tennessee, one from Mississippi and two from Virginia.

Auburn signed 25 to grants-in-aid, 16 from Alabama, two from Florida, four from Tennessee and three from Georgia.

The University of Alabama's whopping total broke down this way: 37 from Alabama, four from Tennessee and one from Georgia.

The University of Florida signed up 20 high school footballers, but only one—end Herb Ford of Gadsden, Ala.—came from out of the state. Nine of the signees came from Miami. And university officials indicated that a number of other players from Florida high schools will accept grants-in-aid next week.

At least 22 youngsters have signed with Louisiana State University, 19 from Louisiana and three from Mississippi. The out-of-state boys include Don Purvis, a back, and Royce Whittington, tackle, both of Crystal Springs, and and tackle Edward McCreey of Biloxi.

Mississippi State has signed at least 10 players. Leroy Mills, tagged as a prize among the Greater Memphis, Tenn., football crop this year, was on the list.

Ole Miss signed 11 high school seniors, including Ronnie Manchester of Jena, La., a 195-pound fullback. University scouts appeared to be aiming their contract sat back field men.

Complete figures were unavailable from Vanderbilt but at least eight high school stars were signed. All were from Tennessee except one.

The University of Tennessee picked eight high school standouts from its state, then went to Georgia for two and got an 11th player from Virginia.

Kentucky has 23 football players signed to grants in aid, 18 of them from within that state.

Names of those signing with Tulane were not made public.

French Champion Says Will Be Glad To Meet Robinson

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—French middleweight champion Charles Humez Saturday told the Associated Press that he would be glad to meet Sugar Ray Robinson for the world crown.

"Bravo Robinson!" he said. "Please send him my greetings. He has proved a really great champion."

Told that Robinson could not fight again before Bobo Olson had a chance at a return match, Humez retorted:

"I know that return matches are usual for world title affairs, but I ask myself, after Ray's conclusive victory over an opponent who did practically nothing, whether such a return match, if signed, would be really interesting. I remember that Marcel Cerdan had a return match lined up when he defeated Tony Zale for the same title but, after his crushing victory it was never fought."

And he added:

"Let's hope the Olson - Robinson return match is not fought, then I will be chosen first challenger for the world crown which is the dreamed goal of every professional boxer."

Gilbert Benaim, Paris promoter asked about the possibility of a Robinson-Humez world title bout here, said: "Let's think about the question. We have plenty of time since it has been said the return match with Olson will not be for three months. That would delay any Humez - Robinson match for half a year or so."

Bill Rigney, new manager of the New York Giants, is a Dixieland jazz fan.

Senators' Rookie Backstop Inducted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) —The Washington Senators, announced today that rookie catcher Steven Korcheck was inducted into the Army at Ft. Jackson, S. C. Yesterday.

The 23-year-old catcher, who was the Southern Assn. all-star team last year at Chattanooga, joined the Senators today the tail end of the season. In 13 games he hit .273.

Korcheck was on the Associated Press third all-America football team in 1954 when he played center at George Washington University.

Jo Jo White Will Manage Mobile's Club Next Season

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 10 (AP) — Joyner (Jo Jo) White, former major league outfielder and a veteran minor league manager, today was signed to manage the Mobile Bears of the Southern Assn. for the 1956 season.

The announcement by club president James McPhillips ended several weeks of speculation over who would succeed Clay Bryant.

White has been managing since 1946 except for the 1953 season when he was a scout for the Cleveland Indians, with whom the Bears recently signed a limited working agreement after ending an 11-year agreement with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

White led Seattle in the Pacific Coast League as player-manager for four years. He finished third once for his only first division club. In 1940 he was general manager at Sacramento, with the team finishing last.

For the next two years White, 46, managed San Antonio to second and fifth place finishes in the Texas League. He returned to managing in 1954 and brought Keokuk of the Three-I League in second.

Big Seven Makes Exception To Pro Ruling In Senior

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 —UP— The Big Seven relaxed a rule Saturday to preserve the eligibility of Blue - Gray football players after their all-star play.

Haold Burnine, Missouri, along with Colorado's Sam Salerno and Don Karnoscak and possibly Rex Fischer of Nebraska expect to compete in Big Seven track, wrestling and baseball after they play in the Blue - Gray game.

"We are making this exception for one year only," said R. H. Peters, Big Seven commissioner, Because we want to study the matter further." Previously the rule has been side-stepped only for Shrine charity games. In all other All - Star events, a player's eligibility has ended with his appearance.

Big Seven faculty representatives, athletic directors, business managers, and baseball coaches ended their winter meeting in Kansas City Friday night.

The meeting produced almost no sport news. It did, however, give pole vaulter Hendrix Kruger of Oklahoma, a transfer from Capetown, South Africa, another year of eligibility. Re-examination of his credits and the rating of his school extended his track career, Peters said.

It was announced that beginning in 1957, the conference will play its baseball on Fridays and Saturdays. The schedule will include 18 conference games for each school. Single, nine-inning games will be played on Fridays and seven-inning double-headers will be played on Saturdays.

Mike Souchak Takes Second Round Lead At Miami

By MERCER BAILEY

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10 (AP)—Massive Mike Souchak, former Duke end who chose golf over the gridiron as a profession, pulverized par with a sparkling 65 Saturday and grabbed a 2-stroke lead after two rounds of the $12,500 Miami open.

"I was putting real well," he said. "I think that was the main thing."

Souchak, who tips the scales at 212, stands 5 feet 11 and is one of the longest drivers in the game, tacked his 5-under to an opening 68 for a 133 total with one round to go.

One veteran pro, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of St. Louis, and three younger stars, Jay Hebert of Woodmere, N.Y., Frank Stranahan of Toledo, and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., were tied for second at 135. Palmer matched Souchak's 65 Saturday. Harrison had a 66, Hebert 67 and Stranahan 68.

Par for the 6,620-yard Miami Springs course is a comparatively easy 35-35—70. Twenty - two players broke par and 13 others matched it.

There was a six-way tie for fifth at 136. Jack Isaacs of Langley AFB, Va., had 67-69; Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif., 68-68; Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N.Y., 69-67; Paul McGuire of Wichita 68-68; Pete Cooper of Detroit, 68-68, and Mike Fetchick of Mahopac, N.Y., 67-69. Isaacs and Fetchick were among five tied after the first.

Souchak, who registered out of Grossinger, N.Y., carded his fine round despite a bogey on No. 17, where his drive landed beside a tree and he was forced to putt the ball lefthanded onto the fairway. He canned birdie putts of 30, 15, 7, 7, 5 and 4 feet.

Palmer, 1954 national amateur champion, had one eagle, four birdies and a bogey. He got an eagle deuce on the 350-yard sixth when he chipped in from 70 to 100 feet out. The bogey came at No. 3 where he went over the green and then missed a 6-foot putt.

The field was trimmed to the low 61 pros and 10 amateurs for Sunday' s final round. Pros shooting 144 or under qualified. The tournament was cut to 54 holes after the first round was cancelled because of a cloudburst.

Souchak, who has won almost $27,000 in PGA tournaments this year plus several thousand more in pro-Am events, said he was happy he chose golf over football as a moneymaking career.

"Golf always was my first love he commented," "but football was the best way to get through college."

Palmer, who made his professional debut here a year ago, said he got his 65 because his long irons were "right to the hole."

Ray Terry, a lieutenant at Patrick, AFB, Fla., and son of former baseball great Bill Terry, fired a 33-34—67 to lead amateurs with a 138.

The leaders:

Frank Strahahan, Toledo. 67-68—136

Maryland Heads Grid Ratings Of 'Saylor System'

UNIVERSITY Park, Pa., Dec. 10 —UP— The Saylor System's 10th annual college football ratings released Saturday listed Maryland's mighty Terrapins as the nation's top team.

The system, perfected by Penn State economist Roger B. Saylor, counted seven "bowl" teams among its top eight.

Following in order behind Maryland were Michigan State, UCLA, Texas Christian, Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Ohio State and Mississippi.

Ohio State, which won its second straight Big 10 championship, is prevented from making two consecutive bowl appearances. The Buckeyes were in the Rose Bowl last New Years Day.

Rounding out the top 10 were Texas A&M in ninth place and Notre Dame and Auburn, tied for 10th.

Saylor saw little to choose between Maryland and Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, Michigan State and UCLA in the Rose Bowl, and Texas Christian and Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl. But Georgia Tech rated a nod over Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl and Auburn was the pick over Vanderbilt in the Gator Bowl.

Pittsburgh ranked 19th and Vanderbilt 25th in the Saylor system.

The Penn State statistician conceded that upsets occur. He said the loss of a key player or a psychological factor, such as the recent protests to a Negro player on Pitt's team appearing in the Sugar Bowl, could "knock these ratings into a cocked hat."

COOK OPPONENT — Ted "Baby Galento" Agapieu, who meets Bastrop's well-known welterweight in the ten-round feature at Kallio's Arena on Tuesday, December 20. Four four-round bouts complete the card.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 10 (AP)—Halfback Neal Wagerle of Compton returned a kickoff 86 yards to break a 6-6 tie and the California junior college champion team went on to defeat Jones County of Mississippi, 22-13, in the 10th annual Junior Rose Bowl football game today.

Jones fumbled on a kickoff inside its own 30-yard line and Compton struck in five plays to sew up the game. Fullback Jim Bunyard on a double reverse made 23 yards to the two and quarterback Bunny Aldrich sneaked over for the touchdown.

Compton's sensational Negro halfback Jimmy Waddell was knocked out of the game the second time he ran with the ball and was later taken to a hospital with a damaged nase and a possible head injury.

The game was aggressively contested but there were no untoward incidents. In Mississippi there had been some criticism of Jones for playing Compton because the California team had eight Negroes on its squad.

A crowd of 57,132, gathered in the famed Rose Bowl in balmy weather, was treated to plenty of thrills. Every touchdown but one was a long range affair, measuring from 59 yards to the 86-yard gallop by 180-pound Wagerle.

Compton, a 14-point favorite, started the explosiv scoring on an end around play, with Charles McNeil scampering 74 yards.

The Mississippi team, from Ellisville, tied it up in the second on a 68-yard pass play from quarterback Kenneth Schulte to halfback Ronnie Williams.

The same combination got together for 59 yards and the second Jones touchdown in the third quarter, but Compton still was ahead 20-13 at that time.

Jones	0	6	7	0	—13
Compton	6	14	0	2	—22

Scoring: Jones—Touchdowns — Williams 2 ((68, 59, passes from Schulte). Conversion-Stripling.

Compton — Touchdowns—McNeil (74, run); Waggerle (86, run); Aldrich (2, plunge). Conversions-Aldrich 2. Safety-Williams (tackle end zone).

The date of the next boxing program at Gus Kallio's Arena has been changed from Monday, Dec. 19 to the following night, Tuesday, Dec. 20th.

Clarence Cook, popular Bastrop welterweight, goes against Pittsburgh's Ted "Baby Galento" Agapieu in the ten-round feature, which will be preceded by four four-round preliminaries, headed by the Devayne Garris-Duane Cooley bout, billed as the semi-final.

Robert Hancock, Tallulah, meets Pat Brown, Houston, in one four-rounder; Jesse Goins, flashy little Monroe Negro, takes on Wesley Mosely, Shreveport; and in another Negro bout, Monroe's Henry Burton fights Robert Williams, Monroe.

The referee for the evening will be Larche Campbell, well-known Bastrop boxing manager and promoter.

Cardinals Sign Outfielder, Two Hurlers For '56

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10 (AP) —The St. Louis Cardinals today announced the signing of pitchers Brooks Lawrence and Ben Flowers and an outfielder Archie Wilson to their 1956 contracts.

It brings to seven the number of Redbirds who have agreed to terms for next season.

Lawrence, after winning 15 games in the last two-thirds of the '53 season, couldn't find the range last year and finished with a 3-8 record. During a brief period with Oakland in the Pacific Coast League he had a 5-1 mark.

Flowers, in a late-season trial after compiling a 12-9 record at Buffalo of the International League, appeared in four games with St. Louis and had a 1-0 mark.

Wilson, 31-year-old righthanded hitter, was No. 3 in batting in the International League with Toronto last season with a .319 average.

Orange Bowl Or Bust Say Okies

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 10 —(AP) —Some Oklahoma football fans, determined to see the Orange Bowl game at any cost don't care how far they go as long as their eventual destination is Miami.

The nation's championship football team, Oklahoma, meets Maryland in Miami Jan. 2.

Airline reservations for a week and a half before the game have been booked solid from Oklahoma for a month.

Officials at American Airlines said Saturday they have filled several demands "to get me there at any cost" by scheduling passengers from here to St. Louis and Chicago and then to Miami. Some have even said they would go to New York if need be in order to get to Florida in time for the game.

Tulane Newcomer To Va. Tech Grid Slate

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 10 (AP) —Tulane University is the only newcomer to Virginia Tech's nine-game football schedule for 1956, announced today by athletic director Frank Moseley.

The Gobblers will open against Tulane, an improving Southeastern Conference team, Sept. 22 at New Orleans. It will be the first time Tech and Tulane have met on a football field.

Moseley said he is trying to fill an open date Sept.15 to expand his card to 10 games.

Three Southern Conference opponents, four Atlantic Coast Conference teams and Florida State join Tulane on the schedule. Missing 1954 opponents are Pennsylvania and George Washington.

The 13-0 victory scored over Vanderbilt this year was Mississippi's first shuptou against the Commodores in a football series that dates back through 33 games since 1894.

Baltimore Birds Announce Pilot For Quebec Team

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Saturday Lloyd Brown, a coach for the Orioles last season, will manage the club's Thetford Mines, Quebec, team next season.

The Orioles also announced the signing of five young players, all free agents. Three will go to Thetford Mines.

Brown, who saw 12 seasons in the majors as a left-handed pitcher succeeds Barney Lutz who will manage the Orioles' Thompson, Ga. club. In six years as a minor league manager, Brown's clubs finished first four times.

The five free agents boosts to 65 the number the Orioles will look over. The latest include:

Roy Campbell, 22, Mt. Rainer, Md., catcher who has been stationed at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington and batted .340 with the service team this year. He was signed to a Class B contract.

Sweeney, Digiamarrino and Drolet were signed to contracts with Thetford Mines.

Eagles' Trimble Loses Job Monday If Rumor Correct

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10—UP—Unless the Philadelphia Eagles' front office "changes its mind Monday," Coach Jim Trimble will be released and his contract with one year to go will be bought up, a reliable source said Saturday.

Eagles officials said "nothing final has been decided" but already names of possible successors were suggested.

These included Jim Tatum, coach at Maryland; Biggie Munn, athletic director and former coach at Michigan State; Blahton Collier, of Kentucky and Buck Shaw, coach of the U. S. Air Force Academy formerly with the San Francisco Forty-Niners. Another, but highly unlikely successor considered was Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma.

But while Eagles officials were silent, the strong word was out that "both are dissatisfied."

The front office was sour on the slump which landed the Eagles perilously close to the cellar in the National Football League's Eastern Conference after the team looked like a championship contender winning all six of its exhibition games.

Trimble was reported dissatisfied with discontent among the players, criticism of his coaching and conflicting reports that he was either "too rough, or "wasn't tough enough" in handling the squad.

The Eagles admitted the owners were concerned seriously with what it termed "volumes of critical mail" which followed the slump.

There was criticism that end Bobby Walston, the league's leading scorer last year, was used primarily as a decoy this season and that Halfback Jerry Norton was turned into a defensive player and limited to fair catches on punt returns.

There was other criticism of disposition of personnel and tactics as the Eagles won only four games and had only one tie to show for five road games, prior to Sunday's finale with the Bears at Chicago.

Denver 11 Wins Milk Bowl Tilt At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 10—UP The Presentation Parochial Panthers of Denver beat the Oak Cliff Panthers of Dallas, Tex., 18-0, Saturday to win the eighth annual Milk Bowl football game.

The game is for boys 10 to 14 years old and weighing under 110 pounds. It is sponsored by the Alamo Heights Lions Club and the proceeds go to Boys' Homes of America and the Lions' League for Crippled Children.

John Mazzuca ran six yards for the first Denver touchdown in the first period. He had taken it to the six-yard line on a previous play with a run of 43 yards.

Ed Knafelc scored the second touchdown in the second period on a 14-yard run through the middle of the line. The final touchdown was scored in the last play of the game, on a 15-yard pass from Steve Chavez to Rich Potter.

The game was played in Alamo Stadium before 3,073 spectators. The weather was clear for most of the game, but it clouded up toward the end.

Denver had the game under control from the start. About the best Oak Cliff playing was put up by Karl Swettan, a 13-year-old quarterback.

New Orleans Sets For Gala Week On Dec. 28th

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 —UP — A selective field of some of the finest amateur athletic talent in the locker rooms of the nation's colleges will empty into town here Dec. 28 to kick off a six-ring week-long carnival of sports and officially open the winter season of this bayou city.

There will be enough athletic talent in old New Orleans to make a college coach weep with sheer wants. Just like the gumbo soup in this Creole country, which has a little of everything in it, the carnival is a mixture of six separate sports all underway in dazzling progression during one full week, capped by the Sugar Bowl football game Jan. 2.

Boxing, oddly, takes the first poke at the start of this "Little Olympics," getting on the go Dec. 28 at Municipal Auditorium. Then the sports stairway of stars leads right through tennis, basketball, track, a sailing regetta, up to the pinnable, the gridiron classic.

The whole is known commonly as the Sugar Bowl week and is sponsored by the New Orleans 'mid - Winter Sports Association. The association is a private group. the only one in the nation which sponsors a major football game since the remainder of the bowl organizers are now municipal bodies. Mid - winter functions year-round gathering its strength to put on the big one-week extravaganza.

Pittsburgh will represent the East this year in the Sugar Bowl football classic and Georgia Tech, a perennial bowl team, will be in the other corner as the best from the South. The kickoff on the afternoon of Jan. 2 in a magnificent stadium seating 82,000 promises to touch off a really fine gridiron clash, with or without reference to the racial clouds which gathered recently over Pitt's plans to use a Negro player.

The game has grown from the 1935 Tulane - Temple inaugural fracas when the sponsors had trouble filling a 22,000-seat stadium through three additions to the stands to today's handsome 82,000-seat steel and concrete bowl which will be packed with lucky ticket holders.

Although the lists are not complete for all the competing athletes in every event, preliminary lineups have Syracuse University's boxing team meeting Louisiana State University. Syracuse is bringing two NCAA champions to the ring for the three-day boxing card. LSU lost two NCAA champs from last year's squad, but always throws up a fine collegiate leather team.

Davis Cupper Vic Siexas, Tom Brown, Jr., and Eddie Moylan head up a preliminary list of tennis stars who start swinging Dec. 29 and crown a Sugar Bowl champ with Saturday's final matches Dec. 31. The New Orleans Country Club courts will host the net events.

Basketball moves in Dec. 29 at the polished Loyola fieldhouse with defending Sugar Bowl champion Nore Dame from last year paired against Alabama's Crimson Tide on opening night. The University of Utah's tall cagers meet the Marquette University quintet in the other match. The opening round winners clash Dec. 30 for tournament honors.

SEC Schools Sign 'More Than 200' Aid Scholarships

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southeastern Conference colleges signed more than 200 high school football players to athletic scholarships during the first hectic days of the recruiting program this week and indications are that several schools are far from through.

The University of Alabama, with 42 signees, was far ahead of other schools in the SEC. Other colleges reported from 10 to 25 signed.

At noon Saturday the University of Georgia reported it had contracts with 2 youngsters, 18 of them from Georgia.

Georgia Tech has signed 23 high school stars with 12 coming from Georgia, three from Alabama, five from Tennessee, one from Mississippi and two from Virginia.

Auburn signed 25 to grants-in-aid, 16 from Alabama, two from Florida, four from Tennessee and three from Georgia.

The University of Alabama's whopping total broke down this way: 37 from Alabama, four from Tennessee and one from Georgia.

The University of Florida signed up 20 high school footballers, but only one—end Herb Ford of Gadsden, Ala.—came from out of the state. Nine of the signees came from Miami. And university officials indicated that a number of other players from Florida high schools will accept grants-in-aid next week.

At least 22 youngsters have signed with Louisiana State University, 19 from Louisiana and three from Mississippi. The out-of-state boys include Don Purvis, a back, and Royce Whittington, tackle, both of Crystal Springs, and and tackle Edward McCreey of Biloxi.

Mississippi State has signed at least 10 players. Leroy Mills, tagged as a prize among the Greater Memphis, Tenn., football crop this year, was on the list.

Ole Miss signed 11 high school seniors, including Ronnie Manchester of Jena, La., a 195-pound fullback. University scouts appeared to be aiming their contract sat back field men.

Complete figures were unavailable from Vanderbilt but at least eight high school stars were signed. All were from Tennessee except one.

The University of Tennessee picked eight high school standouts from its state, then went to Georgia for two and got an 11th player from Virginia.

Kentucky has 23 football players signed to grants in aid, 18 of them from within that state.

Names of those signing with Tulane were not made public.

French Champion Says Will Be Glad To Meet Robinson

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—French middleweight champion Charles Humez Saturday told the Associated Press that he would be glad to meet Sugar Ray Robinson for the world crown.

"Bravo Robinson!" he said. "Please send him my greetings. He has proved a really great champion."

Told that Robinson could not fight again before Bobo Olson had a chance at a return match, Humez retorted:

"I know that return matches are usual for world title affairs, but I ask myself, after Ray's conclusive victory over an opponent who did practically nothing, whether such a return match, if signed, would be really interesting. I remember that Marcel Cerdan had a return match lined up when he defeated Tony Zale for the same title but, after his crushing victory it was never fought."

And he added:

"Let's hope the Olson - Robinson return match is not fought, then I will be chosen first challenger for the world crown which is the dreamed goal of every professional boxer."

Gilbert Benaim, Paris promoter asked about the possibility of a Robinson-Humez world title bout here, said: "Let's think about the question. We have plenty of time since it has been said the return match with Olson will not be for three months. That would delay any Humez - Robinson match for half a year or so."

Bill Rigney, new manager of the New York Giants, is a Dixieland jazz fan.

Senators' Rookie Backstop Inducted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP) —The Washington Senators, announced today that rookie catcher Steven Korcheck was inducted into the Army at Ft. Jackson, S. C. Yesterday.

The 23-year-old catcher, who was the Southern Assn. all-star team last year at Chattanooga, joined the Senators today the tail end of the season. In 13 games he hit .273.

Korcheck was on the Associated Press third all-America football team in 1954 when he played center at George Washington University.

Jo Jo White Will Manage Mobile's Club Next Season

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 10 (AP) — Joyner (Jo Jo) White, former major league outfielder and a veteran minor league manager, today was signed to manage the Mobile Bears of the Southern Assn. for the 1956 season.

The announcement by club president James McPhillips ended several weeks of speculation over who would succeed Clay Bryant.

White has been managing since 1946 except for the 1953 season when he was a scout for the Cleveland Indians, with whom the Bears recently signed a limited working agreement after ending an 11-year agreement with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

White led Seattle in the Pacific Coast League as player-manager for four years. He finished third once for his only first division club. In 1940 he was general manager at Sacramento, with the team finishing last.

For the next two years White, 46, managed San Antonio to second and fifth place finishes in the Texas League. He returned to managing in 1954 and brought Keokuk of the Three-I League in second.

Big Seven Makes Exception To Pro Ruling In Senior

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 —UP— The Big Seven relaxed a rule Saturday to preserve the eligibility of Blue - Gray football players after their all-star play.

Haold Burnine, Missouri, along with Colorado's Sam Salerno and Don Karnoscak and possibly Rex Fischer of Nebraska expect to compete in Big Seven track, wrestling and baseball after they play in the Blue - Gray game.

"We are making this exception for one year only," said R. H. Peters, Big Seven commissioner, Because we want to study the matter further." Previously the rule has been side-stepped only for Shrine charity games. In all other All - Star events, a player's eligibility has ended with his appearance.

Big Seven faculty representatives, athletic directors, business managers, and baseball coaches ended their winter meeting in Kansas City Friday night.

The meeting produced almost no sport news. It did, however, give pole vaulter Hendrix Kruger of Oklahoma, a transfer from Capetown, South Africa, another year of eligibility. Re-examination of his credits and the rating of his school extended his track career, Peters said.

It was announced that beginning in 1957, the conference will play its baseball on Fridays and Saturdays. The schedule will include 18 conference games for each school. Single, nine-inning games will be played on Fridays and seven-inning double-headers will be played on Saturdays.

Pro Football Teams Wind Up 1955 Season Today

Browns Already Eastern Champs; Western Up Today

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The National Football League's Western Division title and two or three statistical championships are up for grabs today as two surprise teams and a couple of retiring athletes battle for top honors in the season's closing games.

The Los Angeles Rams and Chicago Bears, neither figured to be a strong contender at the start of the season are only a half game apart going into the final day of play. They both wind up the season on their home fields, the Rams against the Green Bay Packers and the Bears against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The same teams are the top contenders for the statistical "offense" title with the Bears ahead by some 300 yards in the race. Cleveland, which hopes to make Otto Graham's final appearance as a passer against the Chicago Cardinals a big event, has a chance to overtake one or both.

The windup of the Western Division race finds Los Angeles holding a half game margin. The Rams have won seven games, lost three and tied one while the Bears have a 7-4 record. Cleveland (8-2-1) clinched the Eastern title last week. The championship playoff is scheduled Dec. 26 on the field of the western champion.

There's no line on the Bears-Eagles game, since it's their first and only meeting of the season, but off the records Los Angeles appears to have the tougher assignment of the two. The Packers took the Rams into camp by a 30-28 score early in the season and have won three of their last four games to gain third place in the western standings.

The Bears haven't faced the Eagles since 1949, when they posted their 11th victory in 13 meetings. Although the Bears are the league's top rushing team, the game shapes up as a duel between the No. 2 and No. 3 passers. Chicago's Ed Brown and Philadelphia's Bobby Thomason. Philadelphia also has Pete Pihos, the leading pass receiver, who has said he is retiring from pro football after this game.

Cleveland's Graham, lured out of retirement this year, is expected to wrap up the individual passing title and then retire once more after the championship game.

Philadelphia has a chance to take third place in the Eastern division from the New York Giants, who wind up against Detroit. And Baltimore is shooting for third in the Western Division, playing at San Francisco. Their opponents, the Lions, and 49'ers, are tied for last in the Western section. The other game sends the Pittsburgh Steelers to Washington with very little at stake. The Steelers lead the league in passing yardage but may have trouble staying ahead of Philadelphia.

Baltimore's big rookie fullback, Alan Ameche, apparently has clinched the other major individual statistical title, rushing, unless he falls flat and Cleveland's Curly Morrison has a very big day.

Duke University's football stadium has an added claim to fame. nation which has its own barbecue It is the only grid stadium in the pit.

Tigers Await Results Of Reserve-Cathedral Tilt

The Neville High Tigers, winners by a 26-7 count over DeRidder High Friday night in a state semi-final "AA" playoff at DeRidder, are forced to wait until this afternoon to learn who and where they play for the state championship.

Cathedral High of Lafayette and Reserve High meet today at Reserve in the other state semi-final, and the entire Neville coaching staff, plus Neville principal Paul Neal will attend the game, not only to look over their future opponent, but to determine the site of the final next week by the toss of a coin with the winners' representative.

At DeRidder Friday, there was as much difference between the two halves of the semi tilt as there is between night and day. The first half, after an opening Tiger march was stalled on the Dragons' nine-yard line, it was all DeRidder. They scored a TD after a blocked punt in the second period, and left the field at intermission, leading 7-0.

But in the second half, after a "no comment" attitude between halves by head coach Bill Ruple, the Tigers dominated nearly every second of play. Sparked by reserve senior halfback Robert Draper, the Bengals scored four times, with Spec Lewis accounting for a pair, and Draper two himself. Billy King booted the point.

Draper, who has had very little recognition all season, scoring two touchdowns previously in games away from home that were accredited to teammates, was the big difference in the second half; and the tremendous line play of tackle Frank Smith, Bob Johnson, Pat Anderson, Tom Causey, and Jerry Torrans; plus the defensive work of James Sparks, Billy Ragan, and Lewis held DeRidder to a net gain of one yard from scrimmage.

The Neville eleven was accompanied on their long DeRidder jaunt by 13 chartered busses, containing the gridders, the Neville band and Tigerettes, and several hundred loyal fans, in addition to those who traveled the 175 miles in their own autos.

Willie Mays Signs 1956 Contract For Large Pay Boost

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Willie Mays, the New York Giants slugging outfielder, has signed his 1956 contract, the club announced today, and it is believed he got a $10,000 boost over his reported $25,000 salary of last season.

Contracts for other Giants have not gone into the mails, and the club explained that the only reason Mays signed was that he happened to walk into the 42nd Street office. Another Giant, shortstop Alvin Dark, has a holdover contract.

Mays, the No. 1 Giant of 1955 on performance, led the National League in homers with 51, four more than Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati. The New York centerfielder hit .319, second to the .338 average of Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn. His 127 runs batted in also was second to Duke Snider's 136 RBI's for Brooklyn.

In the slugging department, Mays led the league with a .659 mark. He had 185 hits for 382 total bases, best in the circuit, and stole 24 bases.

He finished fourth in the most valuable player balloting and was the only Giant to receive any votes.

Texas Tech Fails In Attempt To Get In Southwestern

DALLAS, Dec. 10 (AP) —Texas Tech, an applicant for 28 years, failed in another bid for membership in the Southwest Conference today but lacked only one vote of making it.

It was the most support the big West Texas college ever has obtained in its efforts to crack the tight 7-school barrier.

Texas, TCU, Baylor and A&M cast votes for Tech. This was one more vote than ever received before, with A&M added to the Tech band wagon. A&M voted against Tech the last time.

The University of Houston also was submitted for a vote but the motion by Baylor failed for lack of a second.

DeWitt Weaver, athletic director of Texas Tech, said the vote this time indicated his school was making progress and that he had high hopes it would get into the conference soon.

The vote on Tech was among the last business transacted by the faculty committee, governing body of the conference. Among other things the lifting of a post-season ban on Texas A&M sports other than football was voted down.

Texas A&M is on probation for violating recruiting rules and is forbidden to play post-season games. The proposal was that the ban be taken off of all sports except football since football was the sport in which the violations occurred.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary, said it was felt that since the probation would be reviewed at the May meeting with the idea of probably lifting it, action was not taken now. The only sport involved between now and May is basketball.

Richie Ashburn Winner Of Official NL Bat Title

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)— The 1955 baseball season, which began with Richie Ashburn on the sidelines for the first time in seven years, wound up with the little Philadelphia outfielder on top of the National League batting heap, the official averages confirmed Saturday.

Ashburn, 28-year-old native of Tilden, Neb., was an easy winner. He batted .338 to become the first Phillies' player to capture the title since 1933 when Chuck Klein hit .368.

Well back in second place were Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Stan Musial of St. Louis with .319 apiece. For the record, however, Mays was accorded the runnerup position on a .3189 mark to .3185 for Musial, a six-time batting champ.

Ashburn, who ended the 1954 campaign with a playing string of 731 consecutive games, only 91 short of the National League record held by Gus Suhr, missed Philadelphia's first two games this year because of a knee injury suffered in an exhibition game. His "iron man" stint began in the 1949 opener after a fractured finger put him out of action in Aug. 1948.

Ashburn numbered only 3 homers among his 180 hits.

Honors in the slugging departments were shared, for the most part, by Mays and Brooklyn's Duke Snider. Willie, last year's batting king, walloped the most home runs, 51 and compiled the most total bases, 382. He also shared the lead in triples with Dale Long of Pittsburgh, each hit 13.

Snider, who batted .309, drove in 136 runs and scored 126 times to set the pace in those categories.

Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati amassed the most hits, 192, Brooklyn's Gil Hodges, the most sacrifice flies, 10 and the Cub's Gene Baker the most sacrifice bunts, 18.

The Milwaukee Braves contributed a trio of front runners. Johnny Logan and Hank Aaron of the Braves shared the doubles crown with 37 while, for the third straight year, speedy Bill Bruton stole the most bases. He had 25 for a major league total of 85.

Behind the top three in the batting race came Roy Campanella of Brooklyn with .318, followed by Kulszewski, Aaron and the dodger's Carl Furillo with .314 each.

The champion Dodgers, as expected, were the dominant offensive club. They had the highest team batting average, 271 and the most home runs, 201, among other miscellaneous titles.

Pro Football Teams Wind Up 1955 Season Today

Browns Already Eastern Champs; Western Up Today

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

The National Football League's Western Division title and two or three statistical championships are up for grabs today as two surprise teams and a couple of retiring athletes battle for top honors in the season's closing games.

The Los Angeles Rams and Chicago Bears, neither figured to be a strong contender at the start of the season are only a half game apart going into the final day of play. They both wind up the season on their home fields, the Rams against the Green Bay Packers and the Bears against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The same teams are the top contenders for the statistical "offense" title with the Bears ahead by some 300 yards in the race. Cleveland, which hopes to make Otto Graham's final appearance as a passer against the Chicago Cardinals a big event, has a chance to overtake one or both.

The windup of the Western Division race finds Los Angeles holding a half game margin. The Rams have won seven games, lost three and tied one while the Bears have a 7-4 record. Cleveland (8-2-1) clinched the Eastern title last week. The championship playoff is scheduled Dec. 26 on the field of the western champion.

There's no line on the Bears-Eagles game, since it's their first and only meeting of the season, but off the records Los Angeles appears to have the tougher assignment of the two. The Packers took the Rams into camp by a 30-28 score early in the season and have won three of their last four games to gain third place in the western standings.

The Bears haven't faced the Eagles since 1949, when they posted their 11th victory in 13 meetings. Although the Bears are the league's top rushing team, the game shapes up as a duel between the No. 2 and No. 3 passers—Chicago's Ed Brown and Philadelphia's Bobby Thomason. Philadelphia also has Pete Pihos, the leading pass receiver, who has said he is retiring from pro football after this game.

Cleveland's Graham, lured out of retirement this year, is expected to wrap up the individual passing title and then retire once more after the championship game.

Philadelphia has a chance to take third place in the Eastern division from the New York Giants, who wind up against Detroit. And Baltimore is shooting for third in the Western Division, playing at San Francisco. Their opponents, the Lions, and 49'ers, are tied for last in the Western section. The other game sends the Pittsburgh Steelers to Washington with very little at stake. The Steelers lead the league in passing yardage but may have trouble staying ahead of Philadelphia.

Baltimore's big rookie fullback, Alan Ameche, apparently has clinched the other major individual statistical title, rushing, unless he falls flat and Cleveland's Curly Morrison has a very big day.

Duke University's football stadium has an added claim to fame. nation which has its own barbecue It is the only grid stadium in the pit.

Tigers Await Results Of Reserve-Cathedral Tilt

The Neville High Tigers, winners by a 26-7 count over DeRidder High Friday night in a state semi-final "AA" playoff at DeRidder, are forced to wait until this afternoon to learn who and where they play for the state championship.

Cathedral High of Lafayette and Reserve High meet today at Reserve in the other state semi-final, and the entire Neville coaching staff, plus Neville principal Paul Neal will attend the game, not only to look over their future opponent, but to determine the site of the final next week by the toss of a coin with the winners' representative.

At DeRidder Friday, there was as much difference between the two halves of the semi tilt as there is between night and day. The first half, after an opening Tiger march was stalled on the Dragons' nine-yard line, it was all DeRidder. They scored a TD after a blocked punt in the second period, and left the field at intermission, leading 7-0.

But in the second half, after a "no comment" attitude between halves by head coach Bill Ruple, the Tigers dominated nearly every second of play. Sparked by reserve senior halfback Robert Draper, the Bengals scored four times, with Spec Lewis accounting for a pair, and Draper two himself. Billy King booted the point.

Draper, who has had very little recognition all season, scoring two touchdowns previously in games away from home that were accredited to teammates, was the big difference in the second half; and the tremendous line play of tackle Frank Smith, Bob Johnson, Pat Anderson, Tom Causey, and Jerry Torrans; plus the defensive work of James Sparks, Billy Ragan, and Lewis held DeRidder to a net gain of one yard from scrimmage.

The Neville eleven was accompanied on their long DeRidder jaunt by 13 chartered busses, containing the gridders, the Neville band and Tigerettes, and several hundred loyal fans, in addition to those who traveled the 175 miles in their own autos.

Willie Mays Signs 1956 Contract For Large Pay Boost

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Willie Mays, the New York Giants slugging outfielder, has signed his 1956 contract, the club announced today, and it is believed he got a $10,000 boost over his reported $25,000 salary of last season.

Contracts for other Giants have not gone into the mails, and the club explained that the only reason Mays signed was that he happened to walk into the 42nd Street office. Another Giant, shortstop Alvin Dark, has a holdover contract.

In the slugging department, Mays led the league with a .659 mark. He had 185 hits for 382 total bases, best in the circuit, and stole 24 bases.

He finished fourth in the most valuable player balloting and was the only Giant to receive any votes.

Italy Sets Stage For Greatest Winter Olympics

Nearly $7,200,000 Estimate Of Cost For Snowy Stage

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Dec. 10 (AP)—Italy has nearly finished setting the snowy stage for the greatest Winter Olympics since they began 32 years ago.

A whopping $7,200,000 is the best estimate of the total being laid out by the Italian Olympic Committee, the Italian government and private business men.

To start with they had an established winter resort with 44 hotels cradled in mountains boasting some of the finest ski runs in the world. After two years of improvements, Cortina now boasts probably the finest winter sport facilities in the world.

The games begin Jan. 26 and continue through Feb. 5, but already Cortina bustles with last minute preparations.

"We are finishing up now and perfecting things," Dr. Giordano Bruno Fabjan, the efficient secretary-general of the executive committee, explained in an interview. "Everything will be ready by Dec. 31."

A record 33 nations have entered the games. Soviet Russia, competing for the first time, has entered the largest squad—145. The United States will have 120.

Most of the Americans are due in mid-January, although the skiers have started practicing at another Italian resort, Cervinia.

A magnificent $350,000 ski jump will be dedicated Thursday. Modeled after the graceful jump at Holmenkollen, Norway, it has a critical point 72 meters from the takeoff, making jumps of from 82 to 85 meters possible.

Between 40,000 and 60,000 spectators can watch since the jump—called "Italia"—is in a natural bowl fringed with pines. It was built just for the Winter Olympics on a site nearly two miles outside Cortina where a smaller jump had been located.

Cortina's greatest pride is the ice stadium. Here the symbolic Olympic flame will burn and here the winners will be honored. Built at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, the horseshoe structure of knotted pine has what engineers here describe as the greatest and most modern refrigeration plant in the world.

A maize of 175,000 feet of ammonia tubes lies under the 4,200 square meters of rink on which ladies' and mens' figure skating and the major hockey games will take place. The stands seat 3,300 persons, with standing room for an other 9,000. Underneath are dressing rooms with Finnish steam baths, showers, first aid rooms and massage rooms which athletes say are unequalled.

The famous Alpine Lake of Misurina will be the scene of the skating. Temporary stands for 8,500 spectators already are ready.

Goeran Nilsson, a Swede world famous in the field, is in charge of the speed-skating rink. His job is to create ice of perfect smoothness by "building" layer upon layer after the freeze makes a foot or so base of natural ice.

The ski runs are dramatic.

"I am sure that the purpose of granting a perfect performance of the Alpine ski events has been fulfilled," said Robert Faure, the downhill and slalom technical expert appointed by the International Ski Federation, after inspecting them.

The downhill courses run down famous Col Druscie, the men's slicing past the Duke of Aosta refuge and winding down the forested slope.

For the cross country a snow stadium has been built south of Cortina with stands for 10,000 and space for another 20,000 around the approaches. A huge scoreboard will relay the times. Competitors will start, make intermediate passages and finish at the stadium.

Built more than 30 years ago, the Cortina bob run long has rated among the best four in the world. However, for the Olympics the six sharpest among the 16 curves have been widened to cut the danger of accidents. A concrete base was built for the track. Fourteen permanent water points make it easy to provide the glare ice that coats the 1,700 meter run. Temporary stands for 5,000 have been built in addition to the permanent wooden stands.

When the Olympics end the entire Olympic layout will be donated by the Italian Olympic Committee to the municipality of Cortina.

The town also will benefit from a greatly improved road network leading to the town. The Italian government spent a large sum to be sure that winter sports fans would be able to reach Cortina.

A. P. Poll Reports Grid Recruiting Still Uncontrolled

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Ever since the Carnegie Foundation blew the whistle on college football nearly 30 years ago, top-level college authorities have been striving to find some way to control victory - hungry institutions, ambitious coaches and enthusiastic alumni who go overboard in their efforts to get good athletes.

The past ten years have seen increased efforts along these lines and furious discussions among athletic administrators with different viewpoints on the subject. The National Collegiate A. A., which tried to impose strict controls, had to back-track a bit where recruiting was concerned.

Have these efforts met with any marked success in controlling excesses? In a word—no.

That's the majority opinion of the 149 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation participating in the Associated Press post-season survey. Their attitude may be slightly cynical, but 72 of these experts replied that such attempts had no marked effect on the activities of colleges and alumni. Twenty four saw "very little" or "some" effect, 26 replied with unqualified affirmatives and five said they only resulted in more recruiting.

The tone of most comments indicated a recurrent belief that while recruiting continues, it goes hand-in-hand with subsidizing and excesses.

The views of the writers apparently haven't changed since a long losing streak by little Hiram College was celebrated in verse:

"Hiram doesn't win
"Because Hiram doesn't hire 'em."

The No. 1 effect of NCAA and other legislation, according to at least a dozen commentators, has been to force the recruiters farther underground. The alumni get most of the blame for the excesses and several writers noted that the colleges and their coaches have fallen in line but they still can't control the old grads.

"How," asked one writer, "can you pass laws to regulate the overactive gland of a guy whose heart is the color of the old school's pennant and who is beholden to nobody who passes the laws against him?"

DOUBLE TROUBLE

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP)—Everett (Skeeter) Diehl, 14, suffered both bullet and buckshot wounds in the leg when accidentally struck by a 30-30 rifle bullet.

Diehl was mistaken for a deer by a member of his hunting party. The high powered rifle bullet struck a .410 shotgun shell in the youth's pocket and exploded it.

Nashua's Sale Thursday Ends Great Racing Stable

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Next Thursday at 11 a.m. a group of men will sit down in a paneled oak office room in Wall Street to dictate the sale of Nashua and bring an end to one of racing's greatest stables.

Passing from the scene will be the famous Belair Stud, fittingly in the offices of the Hanover Bank, which William Woodward, Jr., served many years as president and then chairman of the board. Woodward built up the stable and for more than 30 years saw his horses capture major stakes races here and abroad.

Upon his death two years ago the stable passed on to William Woodward, Jr., who died in a tragic shooting accident Oct. 30. When the executors of the estate are through, all that will be left will be the famed white and red polka dot silks, still registered with the Jockey Club.

Sealed bids will be opened and the highest bidder, if acceptable by the executors, will find himself with Nashua, the powerful 3-year-old champion and No. 1 horse of 1955. Some say he's worth as much as a million dollars, others far less than that price. Nashua is insured for $750,000.

Actually, bidding will be in four categories: (a) Nashua; (b) other race horses and yearlings; (c) broodmares and weanlings; and (d) a package deal for Nashua and the entire stable and breeding stock.

This will be a sale unprecedented in thoroughbred racing, for never has an American champion gone on the block at the peak of his career.

Some intriguing questions must be answered. Who will get Nashua? How much will be paid? Will he race again, and try to move past Citation and become the world's greatest money winning horse? If he is retired to the stud can he reproduce championship sons and daughters?

Nashua, of course, is the big name in the transactions Thursday. But each stroke of the pen will also spell out the end of the Belair Stud which produced such famous horses as Gallant Fox, Omaha, Johnston, Faireno, Vagrancy, Apache, Granville Prince Simon, Black Tarquin and others.

More than the mere settlement of a racing estate is involved. Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the 81-year-old trainer who was part and parcel of the great racing empire for more than a quarter of a century, will go on training for the Wheatley Stable, Ogden Phipps and Whitney Stone. But there must be a vast vacancy in the Fitzsimmon barns.

The elder Woodward as a boy of 12 saw Sir Dixon bring the Dwyer brothers their fifth Belmont Stakes in 1888. Woodward himself saw his horses win the Belmont five times, and Nashua made it six for the Belair Stud last June.

Woodward inherited the Belair Stud farm at Bowie, Md., 45 years ago upon the death of his uncle, James T. Woodward. Belair is the oldest stud farm in this country, but the farm itself will not be involved in the bidding next Thursday.

Woodward joined a syndicate in 1925 and imported Sir Gallahad III for breeding purposes. Mated with Marguerite, the result was Gallant Fox, greatest horse in the Belair Stable until the arrival of Nashua.

Gallant Fox, the great fox of Belair won the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont triple crown, then sired Omaha, who also swung the big triple in 1935. Johnstown won the Derby and Belmont in 1939.

Having won the big races over here, Woodward's next big objective was the Epsom Derby. A great judge of horseflesh and expert in breeding, he selected his own yearlings to be shipped to England.

Black Tarquin missed in the 1948 English Derby, but won the St. Leger. Two years later, Woodward's Prince Simon was beaten a head by Galcador in the Epsom Classic.

Italy Sets Stage For Greatest Winter Olympics

Nearly $7,200,000 Estimate Of Cost For Snowy Stage

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Dec. 10 (AP)—Italy has nearly finished setting the snowy stage for the greatest Winter Olympics since they began 32 years ago.

A whopping $7,200,000 is the best estimate of the total being laid out by the Italian Olympic Committee, the Italian government and private business men.

To start with they had an established winter resort with 44 hotels cradled in mountains boasting some of the finest ski runs in the world. After two years of improvements, Cortina now boasts probably the finest winter sport facilities in the world.

The games begin Jan. 26 and continue through Feb. 5, but already Cortina bustles with last minute preparations.

"We are finishing up now and perfecting things," Dr. Giordano Bruno Fabjan, the efficient secretary-general of the executive committee, explained in an interview. "Everything will be ready by Dec. 31."

A record 33 nations have entered the games. Soviet Russia, competing for the first time, has entered the largest squad—145. The United States will have 120.

Most of the Americans are due in mid-January, although the skiers have started practicing at another Italian resort, Cervinia.

A magnificent $350,000 ski jump will be dedicated Thursday. Modeled after the graceful jump at Holmenkollen, Norway, it has a critical point 72 meters from the takeoff, making jumps of from 82 to 85 meters possible.

Between 40,000 and 60,000 spectators can watch since the jump—called "Italia"—is in a natural bowl fringed with pines. It was built just for the Winter Olympics on a site nearly two miles outside Cortina where a smaller jump had been located.

Cortina's greatest pride is the ice stadium. Here the symbolic Olympic flame will burn and here the winners will be honored. Built at a cost of nearly $2,000,000, the horseshoe structure of knotted pine has what engineers here describe as the greatest and most modern refrigeration plant in the world.

A maize of 175,000 feet of ammonia tubes lies under the 4,200 square meters of rink on which ladies' and mens' figure skating and the major hockey games will take place. The stands seat 3,300 persons, with standing room for another 9,000. Underneath are dressing rooms with Finnish steam baths, showers, first aid rooms and massage rooms which athletes say are unequalled.

The famous Alpine Lake of Misurina will be the scene of the skating. Temporary stands for 8,500 spectators already are ready.

Goeran Nilsson, a Swede world famous in the field, is in charge of the speed-skating rink. His job is to create ice of perfect smoothness by "building" layer upon layer after the freeze makes a foot or so base of natural ice.

The ski runs are dramatic.

"I am sure that the purpose of granting a perfect performance of the Alpine ski events has been fulfilled," said Robert Faure, the downhill and slalom technical expert appointed by the International Ski Federation, after inspecting them.

The downhill courses run down famous Col Druscie, the men's sliding past the Duke of Aosta refuge and winding down the forested slope.

For the cross country a snow stadium has been built south of Cortina with stands for 10,900 and space for another 20,000 around the approaches. A huge scoreboard will relay the times. Competitors will start, make intermediate passages and finish at the stadium.

Built more than 30 years ago, the Cortina bob run long has rated among the best four in the world. However, for the Olympics the six sharpest among the 16 curves have been widened to cut the danger of accidents. A concrete base was built for the track. Fourteen permanent water points make it easy to provide the glare ice that coats the 1,700 meter run. Temporary stands for 5,000 have been built in addition to the permanent wooden stands.

When the Olympics end the entire Olympic layout will be donated by the Italian Olympic Committee to the municipality of Cortina.

The town also will benefit from a greatly improved road network leading to the town. The Italian government spent a large sum to be sure that winter sports fans would be able to reach Cortina.

A. P. Poll Reports Grid Recruiting Still Uncontrolled

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Ever since the Carnegie Foundation blew the whistle on college football nearly 30 years ago, top-level college authorities have been striving to find some way to control victory - hungry institutions, ambitious coaches and enthusiastic alumni who go overboard in their efforts to get good athletes.

The past ten years have seen increased efforts along these lines and furious discussions among athletic administrators with different viewpoints on the subject. The National Collegiate A. A., which tried to impose strict controls, had to back-track a bit where recruiting was concerned.

Have these efforts met with any marked success in controlling excesses? In a word—no.

That's the majority opinion of the 149 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation participating in the Associated Press post-season survey. Their attitude may be slightly cynical, but 72 of these experts replied that such attempts had no marked effect on the activities of colleges and alumni. Twenty four saw "very little" or "some" effect, 26 replied with unqualified affirmatives and five said they only resulted in more recruiting.

The tone of most comments indicated a recurrent belief that while recruiting continues, it goes hand-in-hand with subsidizing and excesses.

The views of the writers apparently haven't changed since a long losing streak by little Hiram College was celebrated in verse:

"Hiram doesn't win
"Because Hiram doesn't hire 'em."

The No. 1 effect of NCAA and other legislation, according to at least a dozen commentators, has been to force the recruiters farther underground. The alumni get most of the blame for the excesses and several writers noted that the colleges and their coaches have fallen in line but they still can't control the old grads.

"How," asked one writer, "can you pass laws to regulate the overactive gland of a guy whose heart is the color of the old school's pennant and who is beholden to nobody who passes the laws against him?"

Nashua's Sale Thursday Ends Great Racing Stable

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Next Thursday at 11 a.m. a group of men will sit down in a paneled oak office room in Wall Street to dictate the sale of Nashua and bring an end to one of racing's greatest stables.

Passing from the scene will be the famous Belair Stud, fittingly in the offices of the Hanover Bank, which William Woodward, Jr., served many years as president and then chairman of the board. Woodward built up the stable and for more than 30 years saw his horses capture major stakes races here and abroad.

Upon his death two years ago the stable passed on to William Woodward, Jr., who died in a tragic shooting accident Oct. 30. When the executors of the estate are through, all that will be left will be the famed white and red polka dot silks, still registered with the Jockey Club.

'Improved' U. S. Health Insurance Plan Readied For Congressional Study

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration was reported about ready today with "improved" plans for expanding health insurance to cover more Americans and more major illnesses.

Sources close to Marion Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, said it is "pretty obvious" the new program will be sent to Congress within 60 days or so after it meets in January.

These sources said the reinsurance program that has been before Congress for two years may be dropped for lack of enough encouragement from insurance companies and because it has been before Congress for so long.

If this program is tossed overboard, a spokesman said, another plan to accomplish the same goal, of expanding health insurance, will be offered. Folsom has said the reinsurance plan is getting a working over.

The reinsurance plan would allow insurance companies to buy insurance from the government to protect them against heavy losses in programs they might undertake to improve health coverage. The first time it was proposed to Congress, it was beaten in the House. Last year it never reached the floor of the House or Senate.

Regardless of how the details are worked out, the new program is certain to emphasize broadened insurance coverage in three general fields where the administration considers there now are "gaps in protection." Also, it will stress expansion of voluntary health insurance programs, as opposed to a compulsory plan of government insurance.

The administration program will emphasize a need for more insurance to:

1. Cover the major "catastrophic" illnesses, requiring long hospitalization or expensive medical treatments that may run up to $7,500 or $10,000.

2. Cover people in rural areas or in small businesses not now eligible for "group" insurance.

3. More and cheaper health insurance for people over 60 years of age.

One proposed method for covering long and expensive illnesses would be to make a "deductible" type policy available to large groups, a spokesman said.

This is similar to a "deductible" auto insurance policy under which the owner pays the first $25, $50 or $100 of damage and the insurance company the remainder.

Thus if a person suffered a short illness costing around $50 or $100 he would pay the cost himself but if the expense ran up to $7,000, or whatever limit the policy stipulated, the company would pay the major portion.

MACHINE GUN STOLEN

NATCHITOCHES, Dec. 10—UP—Natchitoches parish officers warned motorists today not to be surprised if they find themselves looking down the barrel of a .50 caliber machine gun.

soldiers, the identity of the GI's and their immediate release.

The Red press and radio said the demand for a trial by an East German court was based on the contention that "the German Democratic republic is a sovereign state and the bandits attack took place in the capital of the German democratic republic."

Four-power agreements on Berlin exempt occupation troops from trial by East German courts.

American authorities previously had asked for release of the soldiers shortly after the Communists announced their arrest Wednesday. They made the demand in two more telephone calls Thursday.

increase in personal exemptions has been estimated by Treasury officials to cost about 2½ billion dollars in revenue.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has predicted the budget will be balanced this spring, despite previous Budget Bureau estimates of a $1,700,000,000 deficit on June 30, 1956.

Humphrey has indicated he may favor a tax cut. He said he expects Eisenhower to speak out on the question in his State of the Union message.

George gave no indication of when he expected a tax cut, if one is finally passed, to become effective.

Pro-Segregation Group Applauds M'Lemore's Talk

HAMMOND, La., Dec. 10 (AP) — The Southern Gentlemen, a secret pro-segregation organization, gave candidates for governor a chance to talk about segregation here today, but only one showed up.

James McLemore drew loud cheers from about 800 spectators as cheers from about 800 spectators a he needled the other four candidates for "not showing up in person when they are soliciting your votes."

Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham represented New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison and Fred Preaus sent his sixth district campaign manager, Steve Alford of Baton Rouge.

Former state police Supt. Francis Grevemberg said his plane scheduled to fly him from New Iberia to Hammond was delayed and sent a telegram stating his stand in favor of segregation.

Former Gov. Earl Long was not represented.

The Southern Gentlemen formed a motorcade of several hundred cars at Livingston. The cars, carrying Confederate flags and signs with po-segregation slogans, became snarled in U. S. 190 tarffic on their way to Hammond, 18 miles away.

The highway was clogged all day as Army vehicles returned troops and equipment from Ft. Polk to eastern bases after Exercise Sagebrush.

The rally originally was scheduled on the Southeastern Louisiana College campus. A Southern Gentlemen spokesman said the campus facilities were refused because the school was under federal injunction.

Negroes now attend southeastern under federal court order.

But a school official said state law forbade use of state college facilities for political purposes. The rally was held in a downtown park.

McLemore lashed Gov. Robert Kennon for not furnishing leadership for the segregation cause.

"When help was needed for the white man's cause," he said, "even empty words were not forthcoming."

McLemore said Negro voter registration rose sharply during the Kennon and Long administrations.

He said Long set up a special board to speed Negro voter registration and "still controls the majority of the Negro vote in the state."

The Alexandria cattleman, who ran fourth in the 1952 governors race, drew frequent and loud applause. He promised to call a conference of southern governors in Baton Rouge to plot ways to "preserve our way of life in Louisiana and the South."

Winding up the rally, Southern Gentlemen state president J. B. Easterly of Baton Rouge warned members to "look with disfavor on politicians who get the Negro vote. To get that vote, they have promised in some way to let down segregation."

In his telegram, Grevemberg said he was "emphatically in favor of continued segregation of white and Negro races. Our traditional way of life established after several centuries cannot be changed because of a court decision."

He promised to "oppose any attempt to force integration in Louisiana and to work to maintain segregation."

But he added it "can and must be accomplished without bloodshed and violence" and pledged equal facilities for both races.

Barham said he was "born a segregationist, always have been one and always will be."

Speaking for himself and Morrison, he promised:

1. To take all necessary action to maintain segregation.

2. To close public schools, if necessary to preserve segregation.

3. To give active support to the segregation laws passed by the 1954 Legislature.

4. To advise all voters he opposed integration.

5. To refuse contributions from the NAACP and other similar groups.

These were answers to five questions asked all candidates by state Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the Joint Segregation Committee.

Alford read a statement on segregation that Preaus had made earlier in the campaign in which he said integration efforts of the NAACP were "doomed to fail" and promised to do everything in his power, "even to shutting down schools," to prevent mixing of the races.

Both Alford and Barham noted that public schools desegregated under federal court order would be cut off from state aid under the 1954 segregation laws.

NO PLAGIARISM

LOS ANGELES —UP— A federal court judge has ruled that burlesque of a hit production or book does not constitute plagiarism if it is done cleverly enough.

Judge James M. Carter ruled Friday that comedians Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca had not plagiarized the picture "From Here to Eternity" in a satire they performed on television in 1953.

Columbia pictures had filed suit against the National Broadcasting Co., charging that the satire called "From Here to Obscurity" infringed on their copyright of the movie.

To achieve a normal growth pattern in turkey poults, at least four times as much vitamin A must be fed compared to the needs of chicks.

Red Demands

the Assembly to meet at the same time. The Council would accept the first country to apply, this being Albania, and then wait for the Assembly to stamp final approval before taking up the next country on the list. In this way, if any Communist country failed to make the grade, the Russians would veto the remaining non-Communist candidates.

Nationalist China, which has threateend outside the Council to veto Outer Mongolia if necessary, stood aside for the most part as the Russians slugged it out with others on procedure. The Russians have said a veto of Outer Mongolia would kill the deal.

The United States announced it would vote for 13 countries backed by the West and would abstain on five Communist applicants. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate, said the United States will not use its veto power.

Worried delegates listened closely as Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet representative on the Council, began speaking. He said 90 per cent of the U.N. Assembly favored approval of the 18-country plan and added:

"We firmly stand on the admission of all 18 states without any exception whatever. Such a solution and such a solution alone can extricate us from our deadlock. No other way can be found."

Sobolev named the 18 in the order of their application as follows: Albania, Mongolian People's Republic (Outer Mongolia to the West), Jordan, Ireland, Portugal, Hungary, Italy, Austria, Romania, Bulgaria, Finland, Ceylon, Nepal, Libya, Cambodia, Japan, Laos and Spain.

Immediately after Sobolev spoke, T. F. Tslang, Nationalist Chinese delegate, was recognized. He has said privately he will cast a veto against Outer Mongolia if necessary to bar it. But he contented himself today to pledging full cooperation within the limits of the charter in seeking a solution.

Lodge then briefly restated the American position. He said the United States wanted to bring in qualified members and to follow charter provisions in judging qualifications.

The charter in Article 4 provides that membership is open to all "peace-loving states" which accept the obligations contained in the charter and "in the judgment of the organization, are able and willing to carry out these obligations."

Lodge said he would vote for all of the 18 as qualified except the Communist states of Albania, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Outer Mongolia. He said that in the United States view they are not independent. However, since there are honest differences of opinion with other U.N. members the United States will not thwart the will of the majority if those five can gain the seven affirmative votes to pass the Council.

Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain, was one of those with a different opinion for he told the Council Britain will vote for all 18 applicants.

Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand, and Victor Andres Belaunde, Peru, agreed to support the 18.

Dogs seldom develop cavities in their teeth, but they do have trouble with the formation of tartar. Tartar may cause inflammation and injury to the gums and eventually loosen the teeth. Veterinarians say teeth should be scaled regularly.

12 Tots Critical From Diaphteria Outbreak In Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10 (AP) —Twelve children were listed in critical condition at University Hospital today from a diphtheria outbreak which has caused five deaths.

Health workers and doctors have given some 12,000 immunization shots since the spread of the disease reached serious proportions last month.

Thirty-five cases have been reported in Jefferson County this year, all but four in November and December. The total last year was seven cases and two deaths.

Dr. George A. Denison, city-county health officer, estimated that some 50,000 children under 15 need inoculations. The vaccine doesn't give immunity until six weeks after it is administered.

What! No Snow?

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., Dec. 10 (AP)—Residents at this Canadian border community stared out of their frosted windows in disbelief today. For the second straight day no snow was falling.

Until yesterday snow had fallen for 42 consecutive days. The snowfall totaled more than 35 inches.

THE EVERLASTING NAY

defends a weak position so strongly he couldn't back down if he wanted to

The NAY is an advertiser who's made a mistake but can't bring himself to admit it.

He armors himself with false logic and counters all truths with a "nay!"

Fortunately the NAY is a rare creature.

Most advertisers realize they can't afford to pour good money after bad. If they've made a mistake or two they're big enough to admit it.

Most of all they would never put themselves in a position of denying that newspapers are basic as an advertising medium.

With newspapers up now to an all-time high of more than 55 million copies a day, a newspaper campaign reaches practically all your prospective customers. It impresses your dealers and distributors. It generates immediate sales.

What more can you ask of any advertising medium?

All business is local...

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration was reported about ready today with "improved" plans for expanding health insurance to cover more Americans and more major illnesses.

Sources close to Marion Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, said it is "pretty obvious" the new program will be sent to Congress within 60 days or so after it meets in January.

These sources said the reinsurance program that has been before Congress for two years may be dropped for lack of enough encouragement from insurance companies and because it has been before Congress for so long.

If this program is tossed overboard, a spokesman said, another plan to accomplish the same goal, of expanding health insurance, will be offered. Folsom has said the reinsurance plan is getting a working over.

The reinsurance plan would allow insurance companies to buy insurance from the government to protect them against heavy losses in programs they might undertake to improve health coverage. The first time it was proposed to Congress, it was beaten in the House. Last year it never reached the floor of the House or Senate.

Regardless of how the details are worked out, the new program is certain to emphasize broadened insurance coverage in three general fields where the administration considers there now are "gaps in protection." Also, it will stress expansion of voluntary health insurance programs, as opposed to a compulsory plan of government insurance.

The administration program will emphasize a need for more insurance to:

1. Cover the major "catastrophic" illnesses, requiring long hospitalization or expensive medical treatments that may run up to $7,500 or $10,000.

2. Cover people in rural areas or in small businesses not now eligible for "group" insurance.

3. More and cheaper health insurance for people over 60 years of age.

One proposed method for covering long and expensive illnesses would be to make a "deductible" type policy available to large groups, a spokesman said.

This is similar to a "deductible" auto insurance policy under which the owner pays the first $25, $50 or $100 of damage and the insurance company the remainder.

Thus if a person suffered a short illness costing around $50 or $100 he would pay the cost himself but if the expense ran up to $7,000, or whatever limit the policy stipulated, the company would pay the major portion.

soldiers, the identity of the GI's and their immediate release.

The Red press and radio said the demand for a trial by an East German court was based on the contention that "the German Democratic republic is a sovereign state and the bandits attack took place in the capital of the German democratic republic."

Four-power agreements on Berlin exempt occupation troops from trial by East German courts.

American authorities previously had asked for release of the soldiers shortly after the Communists announced their arrest Wednesday. They made the demand in two more telephone calls Thursday.

Fast House Move

increase in personal exemptions has been estimated by Treasury officials to cost about 2½ billion dollars in revenue.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has predicted the budget will be balanced this spring, despite previous Budget Bureau estimates of a $1,700,000,000 deficit on June 30, 1956.

Humphrey has indicated he may favor a tax cut. He said he expects Eisenhower to speak out on the question in his State of the Union message.

George gave no indication of when he expected a tax cut, if one is finally passed, to become effective.

MACHINE GUN STOLEN

NATCHITOCHES, Dec. 10—UP—Natchitoches parish officers warned motorists today not to be surprised if they find themselves looking down the barrel of a .50 caliber machine gun.

Sometime yesterday near Marthasville, someone stole an Army truck which has a swivel-mounted machine gun in the rear.

Don't duck, just call the police officers said, the gun isn't loaded.

Pro-Segregation Group Applauds M'Lemore's Talk

HAMMOND, La., Dec. 10 (AP) — The Southern Gentlemen, a secret pro-segregation organization, gave candidates for governor a chance to talk about segregation here today, but only one showed up.

James McLemore drew loud cheers from about 800 spectators as cheers from about 800 spectators a he needled the other four candidates for "not showing up in person when they are soliciting your votes."

Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham represented New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison and Fred Preaus sent his sixth district campaign manager, Steve Alford of Baton Rouge.

Former state police Supt. Francis Grevemberg said his plane scheduled to fly him from New Iberia to Hammond was delayed and sent a telegram stating his stand in favor of segregation.

Former Gov. Earl Long was not represented.

The Southern Gentlemen formed a motorcade of several hundred cars at Livingston. The cars, carrying Confederate flags and signs with po-segregation slogans, became snarled in U. S. 190 tarffic on their way to Hammond, 18 miles away.

The highway was clogged all day as Army vehicles returned troops and equipment from Ft. Polk to eastern bases after Exercise Sagebrush.

The rally originally was scheduled on the Southeastern Louisiana College campus. A Southern Gentlemen spokesman said the campus facilities were refused because the school was under federal injunction.

Negroes now attend southeastern under federal court order.

But a school official said state law forbade use of state college facilities for political purposes. The rally was held in a downtown park.

McLemore lashed Gov. Robert Kennon for not furnishing leadership for the segregation cause.

"When help was needed for the white man's cause," he said, "even empty words were not forthcoming."

McLemore said Negro voter registration rose sharply during the Kennon and Long administrations.

He said Long set up a special board to speed Negro voter registration and "still controls the majority of the Negro vote in the state."

The Alexandria cattleman, who ran fourth in the 1952 governors race, drew frequent and loud applause. He promised to call a conference of southern governors in Baton Rouge to plot ways to "preserve our way of life in Louisiana and the South."

Winding up the rally, Southern Gentlemen state president J. B. Easterly of Baton Rouge warned members to "look with disfavor on politicians who get the Negro vote. To get that vote, they have promised in some way to let down segregation."

In his telegram, Grevemberg said he was "emphatically in favor of continued segregation of white and Negro races. Our traditional way of life established after several centuries cannot be changed because of a court decision."

He promised to "oppose any attempt to force integration in Louisiana and to work to maintain segregation."

But he added it "can and must be accomplished without bloodshed and violence" and pledged equal facilities for both races.

Barham said he was "born a segregationist, always have been one and always will be."

Speaking for himself and Morrison, he promised:

1. To take all necessary action to maintain segregation.

2. To close public schools, if necessary to preserve segregation.

3. To give active support to the segregation laws passed by the 1954 Legislature.

4. To advise all voters he opposed integration.

5. To refuse contributions from the NAACP and other similar groups.

These were answers to five questions asked all candidates by state Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the Joint Segregation Committee.

Alford read a statement on segregation that Preaus had made earlier in the campaign in which he said integration efforts of the NAACP were "doomed to fail" and promised to do everything in his power, "even to shutting down schools," to prevent mixing of the races.

Both Alford and Barham noted that public schools desegregated under federal court order would be cut off from state aid under the 1954 segregation laws.

NO PLAGIARISM

LOS ANGELES —UP— A federal court judge has ruled that burlesque of a hit production or book does not constitute plagiarism if it is done cleverly enough.

Judge James M. Carter ruled Friday that comedians Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca had not plagiarized the picture "From Here to Eternity" in a satire they performed on television in 1953.

Columbia pictures had filed suit against the National Broadcasting Co., charging that the satire called "From Here to Obscurity" infringed on their copyright of the movie.

To achieve a normal growth pattern in turkey poults, at least four times as much vitamin A must be fed compared to the needs of chicks.

the Assembly to meet at the same time. The Council would accept the first country to apply, this being Albania, and then wait for the Assembly to stamp final approval before taking up the next country on the list. In this way, if any Communist country failed to make the grade, the Russians would veto the remaining non-Communist candidates.

Nationalist China, which has threateend outside the Council to veto Outer Mongolia if necessary, stood aside for the most part as the Russians slugged it out with others on procedure. The Russians have said a veto of Outer Mongolia would kill the deal.

The United States announced it would vote for 13 countries backed by the West and would abstain on five Communist applicants. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate, said the United States will not use its veto power.

Worried delegates listened closely as Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet representative on the Council, began speaking. He said 90 per cent of the U.N. Assembly favored approval of the 18-country plan and added:

"We firmly stand on the admission of all 18 states without any exception whatever. Such a solution and such a solution alone can extricate us from our deadlock. No other way can be found."

Sobolev named the 18 in the order of their application as follows: Albania, Mongolian People's Republic (Outer Mongolia to the West), Jordan, Ireland, Portugal, Hungary, Italy, Austria, Romania, Bulgaria, Finland, Ceylon, Nepal, Libya, Cambodia, Japan, Laos and Spain.

Immediately after Sobolev spoke, T. F. Tsiang, Nationalist Chinese delegate, was recognized. He has said privately he will cast a veto against Outer Mongolia if necessary to bar it. But he contented himself today to pledging full cooperation within the limits of the charter in seeking a solution.

Lodge then briefly restated the American position. He said the United States wanted to bring in qualified members and to follow charter provisions in judging qualifications.

The charter in Article 4 provides that membership is open to all "peace-loving states" which accept the obligations contained in the charter and "in the judgment of the organization, are able and willing to carry out these obligations."

Lodge said he would vote for all of the 18 as qualified except the Communist states of Albania, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Outer Mongolia. He said that in the United States view they are not independent. However, since there are honest differences of opinion with other U.N. members the United States will not thwart the will of the majority if those five can gain the seven affirmative votes to pass the Council.

Sir Pierson Dixon, Britain, was one of those with a different opinion for he told the Council Britain will vote for all 18 applicants.

Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand, and Victor Andres Belaunde, Peru, agreed to support the 18.

Dogs seldom develop cavities in their teeth, but they do have trouble with the formation of tartar. Tartar may cause inflammation and injury to the gums and eventually loosen the teeth. Veterinarians say teeth should be scaled regularly.

12 Tots Critical From Diaphteria Outbreak In Ala.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10 (AP)—Twelve children were listed in critical condition at University Hospital today from a diphtheria outbreak which has caused five deaths.

Health workers and doctors have given some 12,000 immunization shots since the spread of the disease reached serious proportions last month.

Thirty-five cases have been reported in Jefferson County this year, all but four in November and December. The total last year was seven cases and two deaths.

Dr. George A. Denison, city-county health officer, estimated that some 50,000 children under 15 need inoculations. The vaccine doesn't give immunity until six weeks after it is administered.

What! No Snow?

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., Dec. 10 (AP)—Residents at this Canadian border community stared out of their frosted windows in disbelief today. For the second straight day no snow was falling.

Until yesterday snow had fallen for 42 consecutive days. The snowfall totaled more than 35 inches.

RARE CREATURES!

THE EVERLASTING NAY

defends a weak position so strongly he couldn't back down if he wanted to

The NAY is an advertiser who's made a mistake but can't bring himself to admit it.

He armors himself with false logic and counters all truths with a "nay!"

Fortunately the NAY is a rare creature.

Most advertisers realize they can't afford to pour good money after bad. If they've made a mistake or two they're big enough to admit it.

Most of all they would never put themselves in a position of denying that newspapers are basic as an advertising medium.

With newspapers up now to an all-time high of more than 55 million copies a day, a newspaper campaign reaches practically all your prospective customers. It impresses your dealers and distributors. It generates immediate sales.

What more can you ask of any advertising medium?

All business is local...

HALSELL DRIVE

Here's a fine home that'll make you feel good just to drive by and admire its wonderful setting! It's just a 10 minute drive from downtown W. Monroe and well worth it for not only does it have a well-shaded lot but also the following: 3 nice size bedrooms; a pine-paneled living room and a separate dining area; the kitchen's unique with a built-in breakfast nook; has a carport with store room; breezeway overlooking the back yard; and there's also a detached workshop! There's both FHA and VA financing available on this 1½ year old home!

STUART STREET

$900, including closing costs, buys the best value on the Northside of Monroe! A bold statement? Well, you consider it: it's on a 75' lot in a wonderful neighborhood; has forced air heat; metal frame windows; 2 bedrooms; nice size living and dining area; well-arranged kitchen with a carport! The price? A reasonable $8,250 (less than the FHA value!). It's vacant! Wanta' peep?

ARKANSAS ROAD

$00 "bucks," that's all, buys a "showplace" with the following features: 1604 sq. feet of living area; a well-proportioned 25'x14' living room; 3 larger than usual bedrooms (13x13½; 13x17; and 12x13½); has a pink tile bath with colored fixtures; a nicely-arranged 10x20 kitchen; glistening oak floors throughout; has an enclosed double garage; it's on a 100'x150' corner lot in an excellent neighborhood and 600 "bucks," that's all, makes the move on a G. I. loan! We'll gladly show today!

We'll gladly show today.

NORTH 9TH STREET

This unusual home deserves pages of voluminous description, but instead, here's a gist of its many features: Ideally located in one of W. Monroe's best neighborhoods; has a 167' frontage lot with towering pines; the well-planned home has 1316 sq. feet of living area; 2 roomy bedrooms (both with sliding door closets); a 13'x14' paneled den; a 10'x20' kitchen with cabinet space galore, and a breakfast area; the well-proportioned living room is 14'x21' (with a wood-burning fireplace, too!) It also has a tile bath and a double garage! It's vacant . . . we've the key . . . and only $750 down on G. I. makes the move!

AVANT STREET

Astounding value? Better than that . . . it's colossal, for here's a 7-month old youngster with the following charms: 2,046 sq. feet of living area; beautiful oak floors; 2 spacious (13x15 and 13x14) bedrooms; an enchanting 14x20 paneled den; two sparkling tile baths; central heating; a "white" kitchen with tile counter tops, an abundance of cabinet space and breakfast area; has a large living room with separate dining area; there's also a screened breezeway; double carport; circulating hot water system and it's all on a tree-studded 125x150' lot! It's a "charmer" and there's both FHA and GI financing available!

We'll be glad to show today!

HUDSON LANE

You'll "play the devil" finding a more reasonably priced and better conditioned home on Monroe's northside than this one! It possesses 1257 sq. feet of living area with 2 spacious bedrooms (one's 18'x12'); large living room and a separate dining room; the 10'x24' kitchen has wonderful cabinet space; washer plumbing and a breakfast area! It's just been recently re-decorated; it's on a corner lot and it's priced at only $10,500 with only $1500 down FHA.

N. E. Geological Society Stages Annual Banquet

Culminating the beard growing initiation for new members, the Northeast State Geological Society held its annual banquet at Palowsky's Cafe in honor of newcomers to the organization.

The group initiated into the geological society included Charles King of Winnsboro, Dick Campbell and Jerry Sikes of West Monroe, Jimmy Patton and Charles Swain of Monroe, Billy Roark of Fairbanks, and Robert Daigle of Eros.

Guest speaker for the occasion was John Clay of Clay Oil and Gas Corporation. He discussed prospecting for oil and sub-surface willcox, and used a map to demonstrate the various structures of source beds, reservoir beds, and impermable cap rock.

Alumni present at the banquet were Harry Stone, Joe Jacobs, Lloyd Crossley, Larry Tucker and Northeast geology faculty members, John McCarter and Marcus Mapp.

Officers of the Northeast Geological Society include: Jimmy Hines, president; Bill Kirton, vice president; Rich Simond, treasurer; Shelby Dark, reporter; and Bob Curry, program chairman.

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Members of the Kiwanis Club started raising beards for a historical pageant but gave it up after a few weeks. Explained club president Lee Freeman: I got to sleep 10 minutes more in the morning but the remarks my wife made more than offset that luxury."

Surgeon Speaks To Members Of N. E. Fraternity

Dr. A. Scott Hamilton, orthopedic surgeon of Monroe, was a recent guest speaker at a meeting of Beta Sigma, biological fraternity at Northeast State.

The surgeon spoke to the group on the procedure of performing a laminectomy, the removing of a herniated vertebral disc. He used a skeleton and surgical instruments in demonstrating an operation of this type.

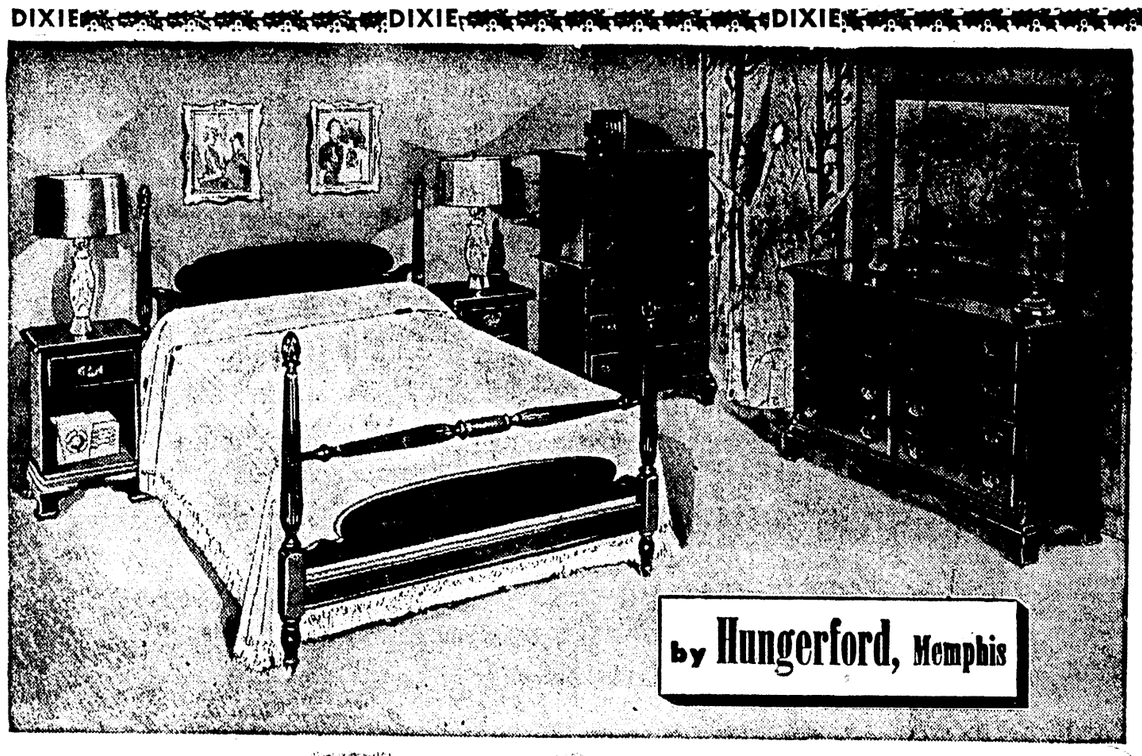

Dr. Hamilton described the methods of diagnosis, along with the operative and post-operative complications which might arise.

Following the demonstration, the orthopedist answered questions for the group concerning both laminectomy and other aspects of orthopedics.

Girl Scout News

In spite of downpours and assorted weather conditions about 400 Scouts and parents attended the program fair last Saturday. Twenty-seven troops had exhibits of Girl Scout program, which attracted a lot of attention. Receiving a lot of favorable comment were those groups carrying on an activity. For example, Troop 1 tying knots and putting on bandages, Troop 49 doing leather work, Troop 17, one of the newest Brownie troops, singing around a make-believe campfire. Troop 23, eighth-graders had an unusually varied display of craft work, including pottery, copper enameling, textile painting and sewing. Fourth-grade Brownies of troop 45 displayed textile painting and gave a demonstration.

One of the most colorful displays was that of Troop 24, also fourth-grade Brownies. They had a tree on which they hung the colorful sit-upons they had made in their troop. Their leader, Mildred Middleton, explained that the troop meets in a room at Plum Street School, where it is more convenient to sit on the floor for many of their activities. Hence the sit-upons. Too, for a meeting out-of-doors in the sunshine they are just the thing. Also, four at a time, the girls of this troop demonstrated that they know how to fold a flag. We know that many older Scouts are not so sure of themselves.

Senior Scout troop 14 not only had a colorful display using their troop flag, their scrapbook, and photographs of activities, but had two of the girls who are serving as hospital aides, dressed in the attractive uniforms they have adopted for this service. These Senior Scouts deserve a lot of credit for taking part in the fair because that was the night of their big dance, the culmination of a lot of planning on the part of the girls and their leaders.

You may be interested in knowing that the Wise Men float in yesterday's parade was the work of Boy and Girl Scouts. The Magi were Ralph Armstrong, Warren Taylor, and Anthony Embanato of Troop 1.

Troop 38, first year intermediates is quite busy these days with new members working on Tenderfoot requirements and all working on Second Class, as well as on the Cat and Dog badge.

As part of the work on the last named, Dr. H. H. Bauer, visited the troop Wednesday and helped the girls with requirements such as learning at least five breeds of dogs and cats, how to housebreak them, laws regarding licensing, what happens to dogs picked up by the dog catcher, and other matters of interest to the girls. Carolyn Causey brought her cat to the meeting, so the girls had a live subject. According to Ava Causey, leader, the girls enjoyed the meeting thoroughly.

Most troops are busy with Christmas projects. After all, it won't be long!

Drippings from roast beef are wonderful for frying potatoes.

Girl Scout News

In spite of downpours and assorted weather conditions about 400 Scouts and parents attended the program fair last Saturday. Twenty-seven troops had exhibits of Girl Scout program, which attracted a lot of attention. Receiving a lot of favorable comment were those groups carrying on an activity. For example, Troop 1 tying knots and putting on bandages, Troop 49 doing leather work, Troop 17, one of the newest Brownie troops, singing around a make-believe campfire. Troop 23, eighth-graders had an unusually varied display of craft work, including pottery, copper enameling, textile painting and sewing. Fourth-grade Brownies of troop 45 displayed textile painting and gave a demonstration.

One of the most colorful displays was that of Troop 24, also fourth-grade Brownies. They had a tree on which they hung the colorful sit-upons they had made in their troop. Their leader, Mildred Middleton, explained that the troop meets in a room at Plum Street School, where it is more convenient to sit on the floor for many of their activities. Hence the sit-upons. Too, for a meeting out-of-doors in the sunshine they are just the thing. Also, four at a time, the girls of this troop demonstrated that they know how to fold a flag. We know that many older Scouts are not so sure of themselves.

Senior Scout troop 14 not only had a colorful display using their troop flag, their scrapbook, and photographs of activities, but had two of the girls who are serving as hospital aides, dressed in the attractive uniforms they have adopted for this service. These Senior Scouts deserve a lot of credit for taking part in the fair because that was the night of their big dance, the culmination of a lot of planning on the part of the girls and their leaders.

You may be interested in knowing that the Wise Men float in yesterday's parade was the work of Boy and Girl Scouts. The Magi were Ralph Armstrong, Warren Taylor, and Anthony Embanato of Troop 1.

Troop 38, first year intermediates is quite busy these days with new members working on Tenderfoor requirements and all working on Second Class, as well as on the Cat and Dog badge.

As part of the work on the last named, Dr. H. H. Bauer, visited the troop Wednesday and helped the girls with requirements such as learning at least five breeds of dogs and cats, how to housebreak them, laws regarding licensing, what happens to dogs picked up by the dog catcher, and other matters of interest to the girls. Carolyn Causey brought her cat to the meeting, so the girls had a live subject. According to Ava Causey, leader, the girls enjoyed the meeting thoroughly.

Most troops are busy with Christmas projects. After all, it won't be long!

Miss McCarty Complimented

Claiming the spotlight of social interest in Jones last week was the lovely tea shower on Tuesday evening entertaining Miss Shirley McCarty, bride-elect of Walter Garner, in the spacious country home of Mrs. Hawkins Dillon.

The reception suite was artistically decorated wth vases of multicolored flowers. Here Miss McCarty, and her aunt, Mrs. Jack McCarty, received the guests. Also sharing honors with the bride-elect were Mrs. Walter Garner, mother of the bridegroom-elect and Mrs. Dillon. Greeting guests at the entrance was Mrs. David Doles.

Misses Reatage Kinnaird and Ella Dean Armstrong, served as floating hostesses, and Miss Ann Doles presided over the guest book.

In the dining room the tea table was the center of attraction. The table was covered with a linen cutwork cloth which was centered with a row of white candles in crystal holders and interwoven with magnolia leaves and chrysanthemums. Placed at one end of the table was the tea service, presided over by Mrs. Glen Crossley. Assisting her in serving was Mrs. Wesley Bunch.

Of distinctive beauty on the buffet, was the smart centerpiece of white chrysanthemums and silver berries, in a basket with the names "Shirley and Walter."

Approximately 75 guests called during the party hours of 6 to 8 o'clock.

Ever find your potatoes have a sweetish taste? Then check the storage temperature. If it is below 40 or 50 degrees, some of the starch turns to sugar. And of course potatoes like a blackout, so give them a dark waiting - room as well as a cool one.

Miss McCarty Complimented

Claiming the spotlight of social interest in Jones last week was the lovely tea shower on Tuesday evening entertaining Miss Shirley McCarty, bride-elect of Walter Garner, in the spacious country home of Mrs. Hawkins Dillon.

The reception suite was artistically decorated wth vases of multicolored flowers. Here Miss McCarty, and her aunt, Mrs. Jack McCarty, received the guests. Aiso sharing honors with the bride-elect were Mrs. Walter Garner, mother of the bridegroom-elect and Mrs. Dillon. Greeting guests at the entrance was Mrs. David Doles.

Misses Reatage Kinnaird and Ella Dean Armstrong, served as floating hostesses, and Miss Ann Doles presided over the guest book.

In the dining room the tea table was the center of attraction. The table was covered with a linen cutwork cloth which was centered with a row of white candles in crystal holders and interwoven with magnolia leaves and chrysanthemums. Placed at one end of the table was the tea service, presided over by Mrs. Glen Crossley. Assisting her in serving was Mrs. Wesley Bunch.

Of distinctive beauty on the buffet, was the smart centerpiece of white chrysanthemums and silver berries, in a basket with the names "Shirley and Walter."

Approximately 75 guests called during the party hours of 6 to 8 o'clock.

News From The Public Library

When this time of the year approaches most of the publishers have finished releasing their fall selection of books. Consequently we are not adding as many to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library as we have in previous weeks. However, we do have several new books which are certain to be popular. Leading the list is "The Golden Journey" by Agnes Sligh Turnbull. You will remember that she is the author of a book which was extremely popular several years ago "The Bishop's Mantle." Her new book "The Golden Journey" is a book which will appeal to many different types of readers. The setting of the story is a large industrial city in the east. The leading characters are the Kirklands, dominated by James Kirkland, recognized as a man of financial power, and secretly a power in politics. Anne his daughter is one of the most alluring young heroine's in modern fiction. Then there is Paul Devereaux, a brilliant young lawyer, who is offered a wonderful opportunity by Kirkland. This is a present day novel and offers a challenge to every reader. It is one you will not want to miss.

Another recent book which is certain to be popular is called "A Night to Remember." The author is Walter Lord and the book is an account of the sinking of the Titanic. Although this took place many years ago people are still interested in the tragedy and the lives of those on board the ill-fated vessel. This book sheds new light on the old story and will appeal to many readers.

Another book which is certain to be popular is "Jezebel" by Dorothy Clarke Wilson. Mrs. Wilson has written on Biblical themes before. This time she chooses her material from 1st Kings and writes about Jezebel, pagan Queen of Ahab, king of Israel. The author has used not only the Biblical narrative but other recent extensive researches in ancient Palestine, such as the Dead Sea scrolls. She has presented a lively portrait of a period and has explored the conflicts between the Moslac standards for the worshippers of Jehovah and the more mercenary standards of the pagan people who worshipped many Gods. This is a colorful and dramatic and at times violent story about a personality who has become a symbol for wantoness throughout the ages.

An English novelist whose popularity has continued throughout the years is Frank Swinnerton. He never appeals to the multitudes, but there is a good group of people who are very fond of his novels. His latest is "The Summer Intrigue." This story is meticulously detailed and provides a careful portrait of today's England. It is the story of a doctor and his family and of the watchmender who watches and prys and reports on the actions that make up the story.

If you are interested in reading a perfectly charming biography, don't miss "Robert Benchley" written by his son Nathaniel. This is a warm affectionate story that gives a charming picture of the life and work of a thoroughly delightful man. "The True Meaning of Christmas" by Fulton J. Sheen is just off the press. It is a small book and is intended for the Catholic market where Peter Marshall's "Let's Keep Christmas" was intended for the Protestant. Both of these books are lovely and the library has copies of both, for readers of all faiths.

In spite of the many activities around Christmas time, it is always well to have a book on hand for relaxation and pleasure during quiet moments. Don't say you don't have time to read, everyone has some time if it is only used correctly. If you are not taking advantage of the wonderful resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, we give you a cordial invitation to come at your earliest opportunity.

You can keep an unopened canned ham in your refrigerator for weeks, but only about one week after it's open. Good for emergencies!

MISS BARBARA RAY TAYLOR'S betrothal to Gene Raymond Barker, son of Mr. and Mr. A. G. Barker, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Taylor of Ruston. The wedding will be an event of December 22 at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Church of Christ in Monroe.

Dr. Oliphant Talks To La Vingt Club

The La Vingt Club held their regular meeting Wednesday December 7th, 1955 with a luncheon at the Lotus Club.

Mrs. T. H. Scott introduced Dr. Ben Oliphant, who very ably reviewed the widely discussed book "Gift from the Sea" by Anne Morrow Lindbergh. It was a book reviewing the problems of her own experience as she vacations by the sea, and she offers new hope and wise advice to those who seek guidance in these troubled days. Dr. Oliphant demonstrated with large cards the sea shells that Mrs. Lindbergh describes in her book.

News From The Public Library

When this time of the year approaches most of the publishers have finished releasing their fall selection of books. Consequently we are not adding as many to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library as we have in previous weeks. However, we do have several new books which are certain to be popular. Leading the list is "The Golden Journey" by Agnes Sligh Turnbull. You will remember that she is the author of a book which was extremely popular several years ago "The Bishop's Mantle." Her new book "The Golden Journey" is a book which will appeal to many different types of readers. The setting of the story is a large industrial city in the east. The leading characters are the Kirklands, dominated by James Kirkland, recognized as a man of financial power, and secretly a power in politics. Anne his daughter is one of the most alluring young heroine's in modern fiction. Then there is Paul Devereaux, a brilliant young lawyer, who is offered a wonderful opportunity by Kirkland. This is a present day novel and offers a challenge to every reader. It is one you will not want to miss.

Another recent book which is certain to be popular is called "A Night to Remember." The author is Walter Lord and the book is an account of the sinking of the Titanic. Although this took place many years ago people are still interested in the tragedy and the lives of those on board the ill-fated vessel. This book sheds new light on the old story and will appeal to many readers.

Another book which is certain to be popular is "Jezebel" by Dorothy Clarke Wilson. Mrs. Wilson has written on Biblical themes before. This time she chooses her material from 1st Kings and writes about Jezebel, pagan Queen of Ahab, king of Israel. The author has used not only the Biblical narrative but other recent extensive researches in ancient Palestine, such as the Dead Sea scrolls. She has presented a lively portrait of a period and has explored the conflicts between the Mosiac standards for the worshippers of Jehovah and the more mercenary standards of the pagan people who worshipped many Gods. This is a colorful and dramatic and at times violent story about a personality who has become a symbol for wantoness throughout the ages.

An English novelist whose popularity has continued throughout the years is Frank Swinnerton. He never appeals to the multitudes, but there is a good group of people who are very fond of his novels. His latest is "The Summer Intrigue." This story is meticulously detailed and provides a careful portrait of today's England. It is the story of a doctor and his family and of the watchmender who watches and prys and reports on the actions that make up the story.

If you are interested in reading a perfectly charming biography, don't miss "Robert Benchley" written by his son Nathaniel. This is a warm affectionate story that gives a charming picture of the life and work of a thoroughly delightful man. "The True Meaning of Christmas" by Fulton J. Sheen is just off the press. It is a small book and is intended for the Catholic market where Peter Marshall's "Let's Keep Christmas" was intended for the Protestant. Both of these books are lovely and the library has copies of both, for readers of all faiths.

In spite of the many activities around Christmas time, it is always well to have a book on hand for relaxation and pleasure during quiet moments. Don't say you don't have time to read, everyone has some time if it is only used correctly. If you are not taking advantage of the wonderful resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library, we give you a cordial invitation to come at your earliest opportunity.

You can keep an unopened canned ham in your refrigerator for weeks, but only about one week after it's open. Good for emergencies!

MISS BARBARA RAY TAYLOR'S betrothal to Gene Raymond Barker, son of Mr. and Mr. A. G. Barker, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Taylor of Ruston. The wedding will be an event of December 22 at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Church of Christ in Monroe.

Dr. Oliphant Talks To La Vingt Club

The La Vingt Club held their regular meeting Wednesday December 7th, 1955 with a luncheon at the Lotus Club.

Mrs. T. H. Scott introduced Dr. Ben Oliphant, who very ably reviewed the widely discussed book "Gift from the Sea" by Anne Morrow Lindbergh. It was a book reviewing the problems of her own experience as she vacations by the sea, and she offers new hope and wise advice to those who seek guidance in these troubled days. Dr. Oliphant demonstrated with large cards the sea shells that Mrs. Lindbergh describes in her book.

Mrs. A. D. Bernhardt, vice-president, presided at the business meeting and led the members in the reading of the club collect. Mrs. Joe Gorman read the minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. W. T. Christmas Dessert Important To Meal

What dessert have you planned for Christmas? The dessert you choose for any meal depends on the other foods you're planning to serve at the meal. Choose a dessert as a complement or a supplement to other foods making up the three meals of the day. A light dessert should follow a heavy meal, whereas a hearty dessert would help make a light meal adequate. Desserts are not nutritionally equal. One dessert which furnishes the same number of calories as another may be a shirker as far as supplying nutrients is concerned. If we choose a candy, cooky, or a dessert containing only a large portion of sugar, we give our family only calories. But if we select one which contains less sugar, more milk and a large quantity of nuts and fruits, it will have more nutrients, minerals, vitamins and less calories.

Each year nutritionist tell us most people of America use enough sugar, candy, and soft drinks to give them an average of 400 unneeded calories per person per day. Such a lot of unneeded calories in the diet has serious consequence. Either they crowd out the calories which keep company with essential nutrients, causing poor nutrition, or they increase the calorie supply above the requirement and cause overweight. Choose Christmas dessert which contains many nutrient and since Christmas dinner is a heavy meal, a light dessert should be chosen.

The candies and cookies being made by the Food and Nutrition Leaders at each ome Demonstration Club will supply many nutrients and less calories. You can see this demonstration and get the recipes by attending the club in your community or call 3-2251.

Carving Important to Successful Christmas Dinner

No doubt most of your shopping is done and you are just waiting for Christmas Eve to slip the toys and presents out of their hiding places and put them around the tree. But are you ready to carve the Christmas turkey? How about the carving knife; has it been sharpened? The old-fashioned steel or a whetstone are the best tools to use to sharpen the knife. These sharpeners wear away the steel less than other sharpeners. Other knife sharpeners, which may be used, are two stone wheel sharpener and the file. Each kitchen should be equipped with a knife sharpener as serving any meat requires good carving and good carving demands a sharp knife.

Here is a good fruit cake recipe for those who cannot eat spices, and for this reason it is my favorite.

White Fruit Cake

4 cups flour, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup butter, one-third cup milk, or any other liquid desired, 5 eggs, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond, 1 lb. crystalized cherries, 1½ lb. crystalized pineapple, 4 cups pecans, (other nuts may be substituted) ¼ lb. citron, 1 fresh coconut, 1 lb. of white raisins (if desired not to use raisins, you may add another ½ lb. pineapple.)

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs one at a time—beat until creamy. Add milk, vanilla and almond flavoring. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Mix nuts which are in large pieces, whole cherries, diced pineapple, citron and fresh coconut which has been cut into small pieces, together. Mix with flour, salt, baking powder mixture. Toss until all fruit and nuts are mixed. Pour other mixture of egg, sugar, milk over fruit and nuts. Mix thoroughly. Pour into large tube type cake pan, which has two layers of waxed paper in the bottom. Bake at 250 degrees F. over water for three hours. Remove water and finish baking.

For three blocks, while the other angels sang, the littlest angel cried. Finally, the float pulled out of the parade and stopped at a service station.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Now that Little Theatre's second play of the season, the highly successful "Dial M for Murder," has played to the fifth and final audience, the playhouse is almost but not quite deserted. The footsteps heard at the theatre the last few days do not belong to the ghosts of the actresses and actors who have trod the boards in the past but to busy Sally Peptone, Katherine Magruder and direcor Ivan Uttal.

These industrious Little Theaterites are hard at work getting the props and furniture back to the people who were so generous in loaning so many items to Little Theatre.

After this job is completed the set will be struck and once again the stage will be ready for rehearsale of the next production scheduled to be "The Little Foxes." We'll tell you more about this exciting play in a forthcoming column.

Random notes: Latest word from former Little Theatreite Anne Hinon McKinley is that she arrived safely in Germany where her husband Cameron is stationed.

Anne writes that the boat trip was delightful but uneventful. When she arrived in England — no husband to greet her. Seems he had missed the only train which would have gotten him to England in time to meet her. But thanks to army officials who took Anne under their wing, she made it on to Germany without difficulty.

If any of you theaterites would like to mail Anne a Christmas card, her address is: Mrs. C. K. McKinley, c-o Pvt. C. K. McKinley, U. S. 54161850, H & S Co., 510 Tank Bn., APO 28, New York, New York. . . .

Remember our telling you about the North Monroe Lions Club Boy Project? We got a look at all the toys the other day and it was like seeing a part of Santa's workshop. Thanks to these hard working Lions, many a child will be made happy on Christmas morning. . .

Hollywood may sometimes "beat us to the draw" and make the movie before we get production rights to a play but not this time. The hilarious comedy, "The Birds and the Bees," a forthcoming motion picture, has already been seen by Monroe Little Theaterites.

This rib-tickling family comedy was presented at our playhouse a couple of seasons ago. Remember? . . .

Note: Be thinking about try-outs for "The Little Foxes." We'll give you the dates later. This play should present a real challenge to the talented actresses and actors in Monroe. There are some wonderful parts to be cast in the show. . . .

MISSES DEATH

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A step in the right direction probably saved a fire chief from being crushed by the falling timbers of a blazing roof. Division Chief R. A. Williams took an involuntary step forward yesterday just as the roof of a burning cafe collapsed. "One step backward and I would have been killed," he said after firemen had carried him out. Debris had knocked him down.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

Now that Little Theatre's second play of the season, the highly successful "Dial M for Murder," has played to the fifth and final audience, the playhouse is almost but not quite deserted. The footsteps heard at the theatre the last few days do not belong to the ghosts of the actresses and actors who have trod the boards in the past but to busy Sally Peptone, Katherine Magruder and direcor Ivan Uctal.

These industrious Little Theaterites are hard at work getting the props and furniture back to the people who were so generous in loaning so many items to Little Theatre.

After this job is completed the set will be struck and once again the stage will be ready for rehearsale of the next production scheduled to be "The Little Foxes." We'll tell you more about this exciting play in a forthcoming column.

Randon notes: Latest word from former Little Theatreite Anne Hinon McKinley is that she arrived safely in Germany where her husband Cameron is stationed.

Anne writes that the boat trip was delightful but uneventful. When she arrived in England — no husband to greet her. Seems he had missed the only train which would have gotten him to England in time to meet her. But thanks to army officials who took Anne under their wing, she made it on to Germany without difficulty.

If any of you theaterites would like to mail Anne a Christmas card, her address is: Mrs. C. K. McKinley, c-o Pvt. C. K. McKinley, U. S. 54161850, H & S Co., 510 Tank Bn., APO 28, New York, New York. . . .

Remember our telling you about the North Monroe Lions Club Boy Project? We got a look at all the toys the other day and it was like seeing a part of Santa's workshop. Thanks to these hard working Lions, many a child will be made happy on Christmas morning. . .

Hollywood may sometimes "beat us to the draw" and make the movie before we get production rights to a play but not this time. The hilarious comedy, "The Birds and the Bees," a forthcoming motion picture, has already been seen by Monroe Little Theaterites.

This rib-tickling family comedy was presented at our playhouse a couple of seasons ago. Remember? . . .

Note: Be thinking about try-outs for "The Little Foxes." We'll give you the dates later. This play should present a real challenge to the talented actresses and actors in Monroe. There are some wonderful parts to be cast in the show. . . .

OPENS OFFICE

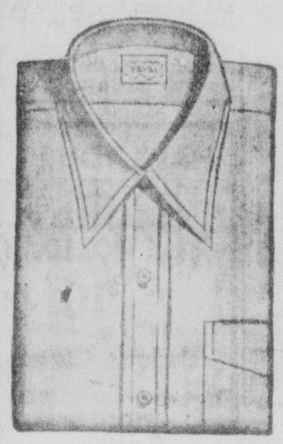

MEXICO CITY —UP— The Belgian airline, Sabena, announced Saturday it will open offices here Jan. 15.

Commercial Director Peter A. Demaerel said the airline is planning to establish service throughout Latin America and Canada.

MISSES DEATH

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A step in the right direction probably saved a fire chief from being crushed by the falling timbers of a blazing roof. Division Chief R. A. Williams took an involuntary step forward yesterday just as the roof of a burning cafe collapsed. "One step backward and I would have been killed," he said after firemen had carried him out. Debris had knocked him down.

New York Representative Says Narcotics Peddlers Should Get Death Penalty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—UP—Rep. Victor L. Anfuso said Saturday narcotics peddlers "like murderers and kidnapers" should receive the death penalty.

The New York Democrat gave his views in a written statement submitted to a House Ways & Means subcommittee investigating the narcotics traffic. The subcommittee will resume hearings here Wednesday.

"Our laws are too lax in meting out punishment to those who peddle narcotics among teen-agers," Anfuso said. "Those who sell dope to youngsters, ruining their lives forever, are committing a crime worse than murder."

Chaiman Hale Boggs (D-La.) said recently the subcommittee's investigations already have made it clear Congress should eliminate the last loophole through which a federally-convicted narcotics peddler can escape a jail sentence.

Congress cracked down on federal judges in 1951 for being too lenient. A law was passed requiring mandatory jail sentences for narcotics peddlers, but it allowed judges to grant probation to first offenders.

Boggs said this last remaining discretionary authority should be removed.

Anfuso said he hopes the subcommittee will approve his bill to establish a U.S. Customs Port Patrol and a U.S. Customs Border Patrol to "track down narcotics smugglers in U.S. harbors, airports, along the coasts and borders."

Quartered apples, cooked in a sugar syrup to which small cinnamon candies have been added, taste delicious with roast pork.

Student Gets Free Airplane Ride, One Way

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A University of Kentucky student left on a trip last night without knowing it was planned as a one-way affair.

Roger Ladenburger, a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, was enroute to Miami, Fla., where he expected to meet a national fraternity officer.

Fraternity pledges, who claimed Ladenburger wielded his power as an active member a little too heavily, said they bought a one-way airline ticket and told him the national officer would provide expenses and return transportation.

After Ladenburger boarded the plane at Cincinnati, the pledges sent a message to await him at Miami: "Getting back to 8 o'clock class Monday is strictly your own problem. Have fun!"

Ladenburger reportedly had only $2 with him.

Why Grow Old?

Charm Should Have Pretty Package—You!

Good posture is important to an attractive physical appearance.

We all know women who are intelligent, well read and well educated, beautifully dressed and lovely to look at, but who somehow leave us cold.

Then we know others who are not nearly so pretty or intelligent, but who have great magnetism and fascination. We always are glad to see them. They always give us a lift. The elements of charm are so varied and subtle that it is impossible to catch them accurately.

Whenever we begin trying to analyze charm we are likely to run into confusion because the whole thing is rather contradictory. If we work for charm we are likely to end up with a very synthetic brand because naturalness is one of the headiest portions. Yet we know that personality can be improved with conscious effort.

Physical Appearance

Physical appearance certainly plays a vital role because first impressions are important. It is difficult to recognize charm if it comes packaged in poor posture, wispy hair, poorly groomed nails and a pimpled skin. Yet the outstanding characteristics of a magnetic personality comes from within, from the heart and the mind.

It is essential that a woman attack slef-improvement from both viewpoints. She should make every effort to make herself as physically attractive as possible. Defects should be corrected and habits of good grooming and good posture established. Care should be given to nutrition, hair styling and skin care.

The physical improvement angle is important not only because of the way you look to others but because of the effect it has on you. When a woman knows that she is at her best she is freed from the shackles of self consciousness. Therefore, a by-product of physical improvement is lack of self consciousness, one of the most essential attributes of an intriguing personality.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Grace and Charm," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 57 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: Since charm is made up of physical, mental and emotional factors, tomorrow I will print a list of questions and by honest answers, then action, perhaps you can improve your personality.

Report Says Non-Farming Jobs Reach All-Time High In Four States In October

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 10—UP—Non-farm jobs reached an all-time high in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas in October, the regional office of the U.S. Department of Labor said Saturday.

The non-agricultural employment totaled 3,860,000, or 4,700 above that of September and 102,200 above October a year ago. The previous high record was 3,859,000 reached in December, 1952.

Each of the four states shared in the gain during October. Louisiana had the best — 2,000 workers — while Arkansas followed with 1,900 additional job holders.

Oklahoma and Texas, with employment already at record levels, reported gains of 400 each. In Oklahoma, nonfarm employment reached a new high while Texas reported the largest October job total of record.

The agency said large over-the month gains occurred in the trade and government segments, reflecting the advent of the Christmas shopping season and the beginning of another school year.

Employment held relatively steady in the manufacturing, services and finance, insurance and real estate industries.

Seasonal declines were reported in the mining, contract construction and transportation, communications and utilities groups. Employment in each major industry division, however, was well above October, 1954 levels.

The number of factory workers in the region held relatively steady at 767,000 in October. A decline of 1,600 workers in the durable goods group slightly overbalanced an increase of 1,100 in the non-durables segment.

Advice Given For 'The Big Surprise' Program

NEW YORK —UP— The channel swim. . .

Some advice to Mrs. Ethel Richardson who may get another chance at the $100,000 question on NBC-TV's The Big Surprise" Saturday night: Start boning up on western folklore.

Arthur Godfrey will take another one-week vacation from his TV chores beginning Jan. 2. Peter Lind Hayes again will pinch-hit for him. Judy Garland's next spectacular for CBS-TV will be on film—her hubby, Sid Luft, wants it that way. Hildegarde will appear in the spec with Judy.

Don't be surprised if Eddie Fisher switches from NBC-TV to CBS-TV. Plans are afoot at the latter network to build a variety show, a la Perry Como, around Eddie. General Electric Theater has landed Jack Benny for a Feb. 19 comedy in which he'll play a piano tuner.

The Rev. Alvin Kershaw, who won $32,000 on The $64,000 Question," gave almost all of his winnings to charity. Kershaw, a jazz expert, has just signed a contract with Decca records to supervise a long-playing platter of some of his favorite hot licks.

Max Liebman is trying to land Herb Shriner as narrator for an upcoming spectacular, Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl."

Sidney Poitier, who won an award last week for his acting in Philco Playhouse's A Man Is 10 Feet Tall," has been signed to do the movie version in New York.

Kate Smith went over so well on the Ed Sullivan show last week that he signed her up for five more shots.

Vivian Blaine To Be On Camera For 90 Minutes

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—At 3:55 p.m. next Sunday a blonde young lady named Vivian Blaine is going to have butterflies in her stomach.

This event scarcely would be worthy of attention if it were not for the fact that at 4 p.m. (Eastern Time) the same day, our Miss Blaine begins playing the lead in Elmer Rice's "Dream Girl" on NBC-TV. She will be on camera for 90 minutes in this Maurice Evans presentation on The Hallmark Hall of Fame. Hall March, normally seen as M. C. of the $64,000 question (CBS-TV) plays opposite her.

"I always get butterflies in my stomach just before I go on," said Miss Blaine at breakfast. "I once remarked about it to Eddie Cantor and he said, 'If you ever stop getting butterflies, you'd better get out of show business.' "

This dreamy-looking girl, who doesn't act a bit dreamy at early breakfast, has been singing professionally since her teens. She's probably best known for her starring role in both the Broadway hit and the movie version of "Guys and Dolls."

"Dream Girl" sounds as if it ought to be a musical. But it isn't. It's a comedy about a young lady who runs an unsuccessful bookstore and dreams her way through some complicated problems. The fact Miss Blaine will be playing a straight dramatic role for 90 minutes on TV causes many of her friends to believe it's a big break for her. They believe millions of viewers will begin thinking of her as a dramatic actress as well as a singing comedienne.

It should be worth tuning in to find out.

Still speaking of dream girls, Producers' Showcase (NBC-TV) will present "The Sleeping Beauty" next Monday night, starring Margot Fonteyn with David Wayne and the Sadler's Wells Ballet. This, essentially, is the centuries-old familiar story.

This event scarcely would be worthy of attention if it were not for the fact that at 4 p.m. (Eastern Time) the same day, our Miss Blaine begins playing the lead in Elmer Rice's "Dream Girl" on NBC-TV. She will be on camera for 90 minutes in this Maurice Evans presentation on The Hallmark Hall of Fame. Hall March, normally seen as M. C. of the $64,000 question (CBS-TV) plays opposite her.

"I always get butterflies in my stomach just before I go on," said Miss Blaine at breakfast. "I once remarked about it to Eddie Cantor and he said, 'If you ever stop getting butterflies, you'd better get out of show business.' "

This dreamy-looking girl, who doesn't act a bit dreamy at early breakfast, has been singing professionally since her teens. She's probably best known for her starring role in both the Broadway hit and the movie version of "Guys and Dolls."

"Dream Girl" sounds as if it ought to be a musical. But it isn't. It's a comedy about a young lady who runs an unsuccessful bookstore and dreams her way through some complicated problems. The fact Miss Blaine will be playing a straight dramatic role for 90 minutes on TV causes many of her friends to believe it's a big break for her. They believe millions of viewers will begin thinking of her as a dramatic actress as well as a singing comedienne.

It should be worth tuning in to find out.

Answers To Questions On Newly-Developed Labor Organization Are Given

By NORMAN WALKER

NEW YORK (AP)—Here are some questions and answers on the new united labor organization, the AFL-CIO:

What is it?

The AFL with 108 national unions and the CIO with 30 have banded together in a single association of unions.

Why have they merged?

Union leaders say pooling resources and strength will give organized labor more power in bargaining with employers, organizing more workers in unions, and influencing state and national politics.

There is room for argument here. Some students of labor affairs feel the natural competition between two organizations tended to keep both more on their toes.

Will it actually increase labor's power?

It will to some extent. Affiliated unions will have the same autonomy as under the separate AFL and CIO. Any one of them can pull out at any time.

A similar situation would be if the two main business associations combined, the National Assn. of Manufacturers and U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The fusion would not necessarily mean increased power but it would certainly point that way.

Will union labor be more radical or more conservative?

Traditionally the AFL has been more conservative than the CIO. It appears likely that in the blending of the two a middle ground will be reached with the organization inclined to a bit more moderate course.

This has already been indicated in resolutions adopted by the AFL-CIO convention and in suggestions that the AFL-CIO should work out a "live-and-let-live" arrangement with American industry.

Who are the top active AFL-CIO officers?

George Meany, 61-year-old ex-plumber, has been elected president and William Schnitzler, one-time bakery worker, secretary-treasurer. Both held similar posts in the AFL. Meany will get $35,000 annual salary, Schnitzler $33,000, the same pay they drew with the AFL.

What has happened to Walter Reuther, the former CIO chief?

Reuther, stepping aside for Meany to become one of 27 AFL-CIO vice presidents will still head the 1,200,000-member United Auto Workers union and continue to be a very powerful influence, possibly second only to Meany. Reuther was well received in initial AFL-CIO convention appearances.

Where will the AFL & CIO have its headquarters?

A new, four-million-dollar building is being made ready for occupancy in Washington. It's just across a park from the White House. All employes of both organizations are being retained and merged into one staff.

What about John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers and other unions now out of the AFL-CIO?

The 75-year-old Lewis, founder of the now-merged CIO, has at one time or another been a power in both the AFL and CIO. He has held aloof of the AFL-CIO and said the merger can't endure. Nevertheless, the miners someday may join up.

Independent railroad unions are actively considering entering the AFL-CIO. They are the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, with a combined membership of nearly 300,000. The Labor Department estimates the aggregate membership of unions outside the AFL-CIO at 1,800,000.

What is the new organization's official name?

"It's the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations. The separate AFL and CIO couldn't agree on a new name so to get around what was a real quarrel they just kept both. Eventually, they may trim down this cumbersome title.

How about mergers within the merger?

A good deal of this is expected. For instance, the two textile workers unions are talking of a consolidation. Separate paper workers units and meat industry unions have similar plans.

Where are the areas of possible disagreement in the merged setup?

The old feud among union leaders about craft vs. industrial organization still lies smouldering. This is the issue that led to the secession two decades ago to found the CIO.

Basically, it's this. Some unions such as the carpenters and plumbers feel that anyone in their craft should belong to their union. In industrial organization all workes in a particular establishment are organized in a single union, even whatever plumbers or carpenters are among them.

This is going to be a continuing problem which Meany, in the final analysis, is going to have to referee. About 70 of the former AFL unions and all of the former CIO unions belong to an internal pact known as the "no raiding" agreement. It binds signatory unions to submit all jurisdictional disputes to a neutral's binding decision.

The agreement has worked well, as has a separate, similar deal among the building trades unions. Meany's job will be to get the unions which have refused to go along with such arrangements, such as the teamsters, to line up.

Politics is likely to be an issue too. Some leaders of former AFL unions are Republican-inclined and may balk at any attempt on the part of the majority of union chiefs who prefer the Democratic party to make a formal choice between presidential nominees in the coming campaign.

French Order Expulsion Of Red Polish Official

BERLIN, Dec. 9—UP—French officials Friday ordered the expulsion of a Communist Polish military mission official they said was caught red-handed in "an act of espionage."

A French announcement identified the diplomat as C. Kalinski, second secretary of Warsaw's military mission to West Berlin.

The announcement said French sector police arrested Kalinski last Tuesday "while committing an act of espionage." It gave no details on the arrest or the nature of the alleged spying.

The French said Kalinski was ordered expelled from West Berlin. He was turned over to the head of the Polish military mission Friday following a check of his identity.

The diplomat was released after the Polish government protested his seizure in the note to the French. The Poles charged Kalinski was "kidnaped."

A Communist East German radio broadcast charged that police "threw a sack over the Polish diplomat and dragged him into a waiting automobile that took off for an unknown destination."

Cotton Price Support Cut Likely To Be At Minimum

By EDWARD JAMIESON
World Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — Cotton growers throughout the nation will go to the polls next Tuesday to vote on restricting their acreage without any advance announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson on what the government support price for cotton, in event they approve the controls, will be in 1956.

There is no doubt but what the loan rate will be below the 1955 level of 90 per cent of parity. Under the flexible price support law, Secretary Benson could cut the loan rate for cotton to 5 per cent of parity, as contrasted with the 90 per cent in effect this year.

Actually, the loan rate on cotton next year will probably be between 80 and 85 per cent of parity. Benson, aware of the influence of cotton state members of Congress, plans to make the lowest reduction possible under the existing law.

Benson's failure to announce the new rate prior to the referendum, despite previous promises that he would fix the rate prior to the vote, apparently is due to political factors.

First of all, he hopes that Congress will not abolish the flexible price support program which it adopted after President Eisenhower became president. Already many Republicans and Democratic leaders of Congress have announced their intention of supporting the bill passed by the House of Representatives late in the last session restoring 90 per cent of parity price supports for the basic commodities, including cotton.

More important, however, is his wish that Congress will amend the basic law, whether it changes the support price level or not, to revise the basis for the government cotton loan. Many members of Congress, including such influential ones as Chairman Allen Ellender of the Senate Agriculture committee, and Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, have expressed their support for a revision of the law which would fix the basis for the cotton loan on one-inch middling cotton, rather than seven-eights middling, as now provided.

Such a change in the law would mean an average cut in the price support for cotton under the present program of about three cents a pound. Producers of the higher grades and staples would, if such change in the law were enacted, receive the maximum price support offered by the government. Other producers would be forced to take a lower rate.

Benson and his cotton advisors in the Department favor such legislation and it would make it a great deal easier for the secretary to fix the 1956 rate if the law were amended along this line.

If Congress enacted such an amendment to the law prior to February 15, when Benson must announce the cotton loan rate, he might well fix a general rate of 85 per cent of parity for 1956. This would mean a reduction of only five per cent of the present price support for cotton, so long as it is of a staple length of one inch or more, but a substantially lower rate for the lesser grades and staples.

If Congress fails to change the law, however, there is a good likelihood that Benson will be forced to drop the support price to as low as 82½ per cent of parity for all cotton. Under the supply and demand formula set out in the law, he could very easily reduce the cotton support price to as low as 77 per cent of parity. In view of the fact that the initial cut for wheat was only from 90 to 82½ per cent of parity, however, Benson is not expected to cut the rate 82½ for cotton anymore unless Congress acts.

Cotton Price Support Cut Likely To Be At Minimum

By EDWARD JAMIESON
World Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — Cotton growers throughout the nation will go to the polls next Tuesday to vote on restricting their acreage without any advance announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson on what the government support price for cotton, in event they approve the controls, will be in 1956.

There is no doubt but what the loan rate will be below the 1955 level of 90 per cent of parity. Under the flexible price support law, Secretary Benson could cut the loan rate for cotton to 5 per cent of parity, as contrasted with the 90 per cent in effect this year.

Actually, the loan rate on cotton next year will probably be between 80 and 85 per cent of parity. Benson, aware of the influence of cotton state members of Congress, plans to make the lowest reduction possible under the existing law.

Benson's failure to announce the new rate prior to the referendum, despite previous promises that he would fix the rate prior to the vote, apparently is due to political factors.

First of all, he hopes that Congress will not abolish the flexible price support program which it adopted after President Eisenhower became president. Already many Republicans and Democratic leaders of Congress have announced their intention of supporting the bill passed by the House of Representatives late in the last session restoring 90 per cent of parity price supports for the basic commodities, including cotton.

More important, however, is his wish that Congress will amend the basic law, whether it changes the support price level or not, to revise the basis for the government cotton loan. Many members of Congress, including such influential ones as Chairman Allen Ellender of the Senate Agriculture committee, and Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi, have expressed their support for a revision of the law which would fix the basis for the cotton loan on one-inch middling cotton, rather than seven-eights middling, as now provided.

Such a change in the law would mean an average cut in the price support for cotton under the present program of about three cents a pound. Producers of the higher grades and staples would, if such change in the law were enacted, receive the maximum price support offered by the government. Other producers would be forced to take a lower rate.

Benson and his cotton advisors in the Department favor such legislation and it would make it a great deal easier for the secretary to fix the 1956 rate if the law were amended along this line.

If Congress enacted such an amendment to the law prior to February 15, when Benson must announce the cotton loan rate, he might well fix a general rate of 85 per cent of parity for 1956. This would mean a reduction of only five per cent of the present price support for cotton, so long as it is of a staple length of one inch or more, but a substantially lower rate for the lesser grades and staples.

If Congress fails to change the law, however, there is a good likelihood that Benson will be forced to drop the support price to as low as 82½ per cent of parity for all cotton. Under the supply and demand formula set out in the law, he could very easily reduce the cotton support price to as low as 77 per cent of parity. In view of the fact that the initial cut for wheat was only from 90 to 82½ per cent of parity, however, Benson is not expected to cut the rate 82½ for cotton anymore unless Congress acts.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

Although wildcatting in the northeast district has declined in recent weeks, paralleling a general autumn drop in drilling, several current wildcat ventures in the district are of top interest.

The Gulf Refining Co. E. M. Neal et al Unit No. 1 wildcat, located in Sec. 12-16-6E, on the eastern edge of the old Richland gas field, was drilling at 2000 feet as the week end neared. Production will be sought to 9,700 feet, penetrating the Cotton Valley series. This test is significant because it will be the first deep venture in that particular area although unsuccessful deep tests have been made in other portions of the field.

Approximately five miles northeast of the Shell Oil Co. M. W. Anderson No. 1, Wisner area oil discovery, in southern Franklin parish, T. J. Johnson is rigging up for a Tuscaloosa wildcat venture, the T. J. Johnson, L. E. Smith and L. G. Cameron Archie Ezell No. 1, Sec. 16-12-8E. Production will be sought to 7,500 feet. The M. W. Anderson No. 1 was tested tight and shut in last week, but made 42-gravity oil at the rate of 20 to 30 barrels an hour from perforations at 7496-7502 according to unofficial reports.

Possibly the most interesting new location reported during the past week for the Olin Gas Transmission Corp. Olin-Sinclair D-1, Sec. 31-20-3E, wildcat depth test slated in the Monroe gas field. Hole will be made to 10,500 feet.

Thirty - eight rigs were active at the week end.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

Although wildcatting in the northeast district has declined in recent weeks, paralleling a general autumn drop in drilling, several current wildcat ventures in the district are of top interest.

The Gulf Refining Co. E. M. Neal et al Unit No. 1 wildcat, located in Sec. 12-16-6E, on the eastern edge of the old Richland gas field, was drilling at 2000 feet as the week end neared. Production will be sought to 9,700 feet, penetrating the Cotton Valley series. This test is significant because it will be the first deep venture in that particular area although unsuccessful deep tests have been made in other portions of the field.

Approximately five miles northeast of the Shell Oil Co. M. W. Anderson No. 1, Wisner area oil discovery, in southern Franklin parish, T. J. Johnson is rigging up for a Tuscaloosa wildcat venture, the T. J. Johnson, L. E. Smith and L. G. Cameron Archie Ezell No. 1, Sec. 16-12-8E. Production will be sought to 7,500 feet. The M. W. Anderson No. 1 was tested tight and shut in last week, but made 42-gravity oil at the rate of 20 to 30 barrels an hour from perforations at 7496-7502 according to unofficial reports.

Possibly the most interesting new location reported during the past week for the Olin Gas Transmission Corp. Olin-Sinclair D-1, Sec. 31-20-3E, wildcat depth test slated in the Monroe gas field. Hole will be made to 10,500 feet.

Thirty - eight rigs were active at the week end.

Handel's Messiah Sunday At 4 P. M. At Local College

Faculty and students of the Northeast State's Fine Arts department and musicians from the community are combining talent to present Handel's "Messiah" Sunday at 4 p.m. in Brown auditorium.

Considered as a cultural and spiritual contribution to this area, the production will have no admission charge.

A chorus of 85 voices has been formed from church choirs and the Northeast chorus under diection of D. Harry M. Lemert, head of the college's Fine Arts department. Well - known soloists from Monroe and West Monroe have been chosen to sing special passages from Handel's famous work.

Soloists include Mrs. Camille Wood, Miss Betty Spurlock and Mrs. Johnette Register Wroten, all sopranos; Mrs. Frances Trousdale, alto; Wilbur Bullock, tenor; and Garland Shell and Floyd Fisher, bass.

Performing with the chorus is a special "Messiah" orchestra comprising the Northeast Little symphony and other selected musicians. The group will be directed by Eloya Fominaya of the Northeast music faculty.

Choral director is Dr. Wilford Smith, who joined the college faculty this fall.

In preparation for the public performance of the "Messiah," the chorus and orchestra rehearsed throughout the month of November, and work has continued this month, with intensive rehearsals given during the past week.

"The spirit of the large group has been wonderful," Lemert declared. Musicians have come from towns as far as Bastrop and Tallulah to cooperate in the Yuletide production. "Their interest proves the value of community work and initiative."

Father Curran To Be Acting Pastor

Father D. A. Curran has been assigned assistant pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church. Father Martinez states that there will be three masses on Sundays hereafter. The hours of the masses will be 7 a. m., 10 a. m., and evening mass at 7 p. m.

Father Martinez, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church, stated, "We are indeed happy and feel very fortunate in having Father Curran assigned to this parish."

Rev. Halstead, Local Man, Is To Get Degree

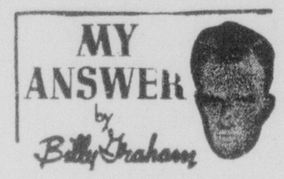

Rev. Charles Holstead, a former West Monroe youth, will receive his degree at the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in January.

The Rev. Holstead is a graduate of the O. P. H. S. the class of 1944 and Louisiana College. After his graduation at O. P. H. S. he entered the U. S. Navy and was in the service for four years.

When he returned from service he was pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist church for a year, but resigned to enter Louisiana College and later the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

Young Holstead was licensed as a minister by the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe when only sixteen and called to a full time pastorate at that early age but resigned when he enlisted in the U. S. Navy.

He married the former Miss Joy Davis of Texas. They have three children. While a student in the New Orleans School, Rev. Holstead was pastor of the Baptist Church at Hathorn, Miss.

QUESTION: I have recently begun to read the New Testament. Now I am told that church existed before the New Testament, and therefore is in possession of more authority than the Bible itself. Can you explain this problem to me so that I can study with restored confidence? E. R.

ANSWER: Historically, the church was in existence before the New Testament. That does not place it in authority above it, for you will notice that the writers always appeal to the existing Old Testament as authority. Also, you will notice that God approved the genuineness of the work and the dependability of the writer, by miraculous demonstration and by general consent of the body of believers in every place. The books we call Canonical were able by the weight of their contents to separate themselves from all spurious and pseudo books. The evidence is in the books themselves, not alone because of their historical accuracy and approval, but on the basis of the power of their combined message, and the vitality they exhibit in every generation causes this work to commend itself to you as being superior to continuing organizations or conflicting voices in any age. Its power to transform lives is its best apologetic.

"God The Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson - Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, December 11, 1955.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation." (Ex. 15:2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." (Isa. 25:9).

The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history." Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 22:42 - "What think ye of Christ?"

This question demands an answer from an increasing number of people every year as the gospel circle widens. It is a searching question that cannot be evaded. In every land every person is made to answer this question by word or deed. Until this question is answered all other questions remain unanswered. You may not be able to make up your mind about Christ, but you are compelled to make up your life about Him. Even indecision is eventually frozen into decision.

To think rightly of the Christ is surely essential to right Christian living. No one can have wrong views about Jesus and still have right views about life. This question brings us to the fundamentals to which our faith is anchored fast. Thinking creates ideals. Ideals affect character. Character decides destiny. As a man thinketh in his heart so is he. Nothing so profoundly affects total life and future hopes as one's concept of deity or one's answer to the question: What think ye of Christ?

Caddo Priest To Preach Sunday In Greek Church

The Greek Orthodox church, 2005 Forsythe avenue, had the misfortune to lose by death, its pastor who was just getting well established here when he became suddenly ill and died.

This has left this enterpirsing church with no pastor. However, it was announced the past week that a Greek priest from the church in Shreveport, will come to Monroe and hold services in the church on Sunday (today).

In a short time, a permanent priest will be assigned as regular pastor here.

Handel's Messiah Sunday At 4 P. M. At Local College

Faculty and students of the Northeast State's Fine Arts department and musicians from the community are combining talent to present Handel's "Messiah" Sunday at 4 p.m. in Brown auditorium.

Considered as a cultural and spiritual contribution to this area, the production will have no admission charge.

A chorus of 85 voices has been formed from church choirs and the Northeast chorus under diection of D. Harry M. Lemert, head of the college's Fine Arts department. Well - known soloists from Monroe and West Monroe have been chosen to sing special passages from Handel's famous work.

Soloists include Mrs. Camille Wood, Miss Betty Spurlock and Mrs. Johnette Register Wroten, all sopranos; Mrs. Frances Trousdale, alto; Wilbur Bullock, tenor; and Garland Shell and Floyd Fisher, bass.

Performing with the chorus is a special "Messiah" orchestra comprising the Northeast Little symphony and other selected musicians. The group will be directed by Elova Fominaya of the Northeast music faculty.

Choral director is Dr. Wilford Smith, who joined the college faculty this fall.

In preparation for the public performance of the "Messiah," the chorus and orchestra rehearsed throughout the month of November and work has continued this month, with intensive rehearsals given during the past week.

"The spirit of the large group has been wonderful," Lemert declared. Musicians have come from towns as far as Bastrop and Tallulah to cooperate in the Yuletide production. "Their interest proves the value of community work and initiative."

Father Curran To Be Acting Pastor

Father D. A. Curran has been assigned assistant pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church. Father Martinez states that there will be three masses on Sundays hereafter. The hours of the masses will be 7:3 a. m., 10 a. m., and evening mass at 7 p. m.

Father Martinez, pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Church, stated, "We are indeed happy and feel very fortunate in having Father Curran assigned to this parish."

Rev. Halstead, Local Man, Is To Get Degree

Rev. Charles Holstead, a former West Monroe youth, will receive his degree at the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in January.

The Rev. Holstead is a graduate of the O. P. H. S. the class of 1944 and Louisiana College. After his graduation at O. P. H. S. he entered the U. S. Navy and was in the service for four years.

When he returned from service he was pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist church for a year, but resigned to enter Louisiana College and later the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

Young Holstead was licensed as a minister by the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe when only sixteen and called to a full time pastorate at that early age but resigned when he enlisted in the U. S. Navy.

He married the former Miss Joy Davis of Texas. They have three children. While a student in the New Orleans School, Rev. Holstead was pastor of the Baptist Church at Hathorn, Miss.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have recently begun to read the New Testament. Now I am told that church existed before the New Testament, and therefore is in possession of more authority than the Bible itself. Can you explain this problem to me so that I can study with restored confidence? E. R.

ANSWER: Historically, the church was in existence before the New Testament. That does not place it in authority above it, for you will notice that the writers always appeal to the existing Old Testament as authority. Also, you will notice that God approved the genuineness of the work and the dependability of the writer, by miraculous demonstration and by general consent of the body of believers in every place. The books we call Canonical were able by the weight of their contents to separate themselves from all spurious and pseudo books. The evidence is in the books themselves, not alone because of their historical accuracy and approval, but on the basis of the power of their combined message, and the vitality they exhibit in every generation causes this work to commend itself to you as being superior to continuing organizations or conflicting voices in any age. Its power to transform lives is its best apologetic.

"God The Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson - Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, December 11, 1955.

The Golden Text is: "The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation." (Ex. 15:2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." (Isa. 25:9).

The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history." Caddo Priest To Preach Sunday In Greek Church

The Greek Orthodox church, 2005 Forsythe avenue, had the misfortune to lose by death, its pastor who was just getting well established here when he became suddenly ill and died.

This has left this enterprising church with no pastor. However, it was announced the past week that a Greek priest from the church in Shreveport, will come to Monroe and hold services in the church on Sunday (today).

In a short time, a permanent priest will be assigned as regular pastor here.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

0. Col. 3:21. Do not provoke your children, lest they become discouraged.
1. Prov. 3:13. Happy is the man who finds wisdom.
2. Phil. 2:1, 2. If there is any encouragement, any incentive of love, complete my joy by being in full accord and of one mind.
3. Col. 5:23. Whatever your task, work heartily.
4. Prov. 3:31. Do not envy a man of violence and do not choose any of his ways.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 22:42 - "What think ye of Christ?"

This question demands an answer from an increasing number of people every year as the gospel circle widens. It is a searching question that cannot be evaded. In every land every person is made to answer this question by word or deed. Until this question is answered all other questions remain unanswered. You may not be able to make up your mind about Christ, but you are compelled to make up your life about Him. Even indecision is eventually frozen into decision.

To think rightly of the Christ is surely essential to right Christian living. No one can have wrong views about Jesus and still have right views about life. This question brings us to the fundamentals to which our faith is anchored fast. Thinking creates ideals. Ideals affect character. Character decides destiny. As a man thinketh in his heart so is he. Nothing so profoundly affects total life and future hopes as one's concept of deity or one's answer to the question: What think ye of Christ?

THE HOME SHIFT—

With Mildred Swift

Plants Will Add Color To Garden

Just a few days before old Santa will be coming down the chimney. Are you hoping he'll bring you some shrubs? Why not write a list of those you'd like to have and put the note, with the children's up the chimney? Surely such an obvious hint could not be overlooked. Or do like Maggie does Jiggs, just buy the husband the shrubs for his present.

Some Santa Plants

Don't forget the many magnolias on that list. In early January the star magnolia blooms. The colors are white, pink or purplish red. They grow rather large but very slowly — like semi-shade and damp soil. Another January bloomer is the denudata. One variety is a clear white and I believe there is a purple. The white shows up much prettier if planted with a background such as a fence or wall. (Not white).

Lacy's magnolia is pink and very hardy. Alexandrina is purplish-pink with white on the outside of the petals. Lennei blooms late and is dark red. Liliflora is a bush form and is deep purple outside and white inside. Mulch all the above magnolias. They need plenty of fertilizer and moisture.

Remember, several plants of the same color and variety give a smooth continuity that you don't get with three different colors.

I know Santa would enjoy bringing crabapples. There are so many in colors of pale pink, rose, lavender, red and white. Many varieties bear crabapples in the summer and the effect is as beautiful as the flowers. There are dwarf crabapples that lend themselves beautifully to espaliering. There's also a weeping crab.

One of the first crabapples to bloom is the flora bunda, a misty pink. If you have a pink or blue room in your home, by all means plant several of these so you can see them from that room — you know — bringing the outside inside.

No plants bring more color to the garden than crepe myrtles, and they are not expensive. Also they're very hardy and live many years. The new dwarf varieties have been a life-saver to those building low roofed homes. The leaves of crepe myrtles turn such a gorgeous color after the first frost. If you'll stay with one color, you'll have a mass that you'll love. Several different colors fight.

Christmas Decorations

The monthly magazines are just brimming full of Christmas suggestions. You'll want a Christmas tablecloth and you can carry it over from year to year. One magazine suggests a red tarleton with edges whipped with wool yarn. The undercloth is red percale. On the top cloth you can make outlines of Christmas trees in sequins, or put bunches of colored balls in each corner.

Another cloth is red percale with a wide, full tarleton ruffle all around. These cloths dress the house up for Christmas, and are nice for parties. I'd advise putting on the traditional white for the big meal.

A large branch from a deciduous tree, sprayed white makes a lovely showy arrangement. There are so many things you can do with this — decorate with candy canes, balls, tinsel, beads or ribbons. One of the most attracitve small trees I've seen made was covered with tiny red bows made with one - fourth inch wide ribbon.

Several years ago, Serena Lewis used an umbrella frame, sprayed it gold, and decorated it with Christmas glitters. She stood the handle in a pot and the effect was dainty and "Christmasy."

Don't forget that your Christmas tree and greens will stay fresh much longer if you'll cut them early, stand the trunks in water to which some sugar or syrup has been added.

Wish you'd call and tell me about your ideas for Christmas and some of your good recipes. Especially the economical recipes made from Louisiana plentiful products.

Food Notes

During the months with an R, you'll be eating lots of oysters, and at an attractive price. Oysters are easily prepared — no waste from trimming, entirely edible and easy to serve. They can be served either raw on the half shell, as a cocktail, or cooked in a variety of ways such as stews, chowders, baked, boiled, fried, creamed, scalloped or in combination with cheese, bacon, celery, spinach, rice and as a stuffing for poultry. To keep the delicate distinctive flavor of oysters, never cook them too long, just enough to heat them through and leave them plump and tender.

Oysters are an excellent source of protective nutrients — proteins, minerals and vitamins. An average serving of six oysters will supply more than the daily allowance of iron and copper, about one-half the iodine and about one - tenth of the needed protein, calcium, magnesium, phosphorus, Vitamin A, thiamine riboflavin and niacin. Few foods are better balanced nutirtionally than oysters.

Oysters, to be a safe and palatable food, must be perfectly fresh. Be sure the liquor is clear. If it is cloudy, the oysters should not be used.

The bidding:

South, 1 diamond; West, Pass; North, 2 clubs; East, Pass.

South, 2 no trump; West, Pass; North, 3 no trump; East, Pass.

South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Six hearts.

In an effort to adjust disputes, where each of the litigants contends sharply on behalf of his own choice of bids, we find ourselves occasionally siding with both parties.

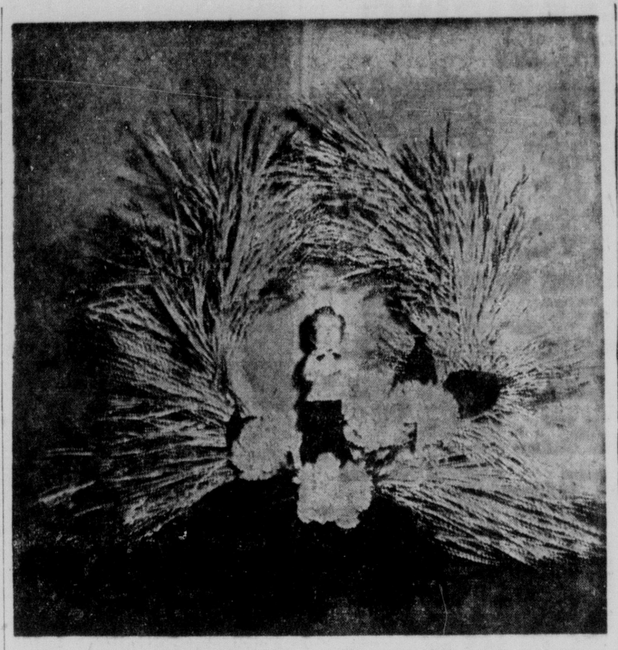

In countless situations the procedure is a matter of choice. In some cases the player is faced with an out and out guess. In others, the type of strategy should be dictated by the character of the partner. One course may seem appropriate with an optimistic partner, whereas a different choice might be made with one who is known to hold the middle of the road.

South's rebid after the two club take-out is the one in question. When I saw the hand played in a recent tournament, one South actually chose to raise partner to three clubs, and while techincally such action cannot be labeled wrong, strategically it must be looked upon as an error.

After the raise North had to choose between trying for game in the minor or risking the spade situation in the shorter cut, via three no trump. He chose the latter, whereupon the opponents cashed the first five spade tricks.

The recommended bid by South is two no trump which North, of course, will be happy to raise to three, a contract which no lead by West can defeat. Actually West will lead the six of hearts, and declarer should not yield to the temptation of finessing. With nine tricks in sight and the king of spades open to attack should East obtain the lead, grabbing tactics are indicated.

The importance of protecting the strength of your hand from an opening attack is not to be overlooked. Possession of a guarded king should induce a player to try to become declarer. With this thought in mind the better strategic opening bid by South would have been one no trump. North's proper response, holding 10 high card points is three no trump. Once again the direct method proves superior, and South is charged with a demerit for opening with one diamond.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Legend Of The Holly Related In Book

An all blue ribbon flower show was presented by the Garden Gate Garden Club of Winnsboro at the Garden Center this week. The exhibits were point scored by an accredited judge. First place in the arrangement section was awarded to Mrs. Bruce Landis, III. A subtle color harmony in red-violet shades was used for the beautiful triangular arangement. The container of soft green crackle ware was set on a black scroll base. The graceful line was established with red leaf barberry foliage and chrysanthemums in a lovely mulberry shade. The arrangement was placed against a chartreuse background which picked up the color of the container. Mrs. C. R. Adams, Jr. was awarded second place. Mrs. Adams designed a most effective Christmas wreath of pine which had been sprayed with snow. The pine was attached to a wreath and secured to a cup type needle point holder. A choir boy figurine was placed in the center of the wreath, with glossy camellia foliage and red carnations effectively grouped at the base of the wreath. This lovely Christmas design would be most suitable for a mantel or buffet. Mrs. E. Fay Walter was awarded third place. Mrs. Walter designed a Christmas ararngement using complementary colors of red and green. A free form green container held the triangular arrangement of three tall red candles and garden grown red poinsettias in a triangular pattern. A lovely arrangement in traditional colors for the living room table. Mrs. Walter designed another lovely arrangement using a green and white color scheme. A low green bowl was used for the line mass design of glossy green Buford Holly and six snowy white carnations.

There are many legends connected with Christmas and the symbols and decorations that we use at holiday time. Alfred Carl Hottes has written a complete and fascinating book on this subject — "1001 Christmas Facts and Fancies." From this source I would like to tell you the legend of the Holly. Some persons believe that the word "Holly" is a form of the word "holy" because of the association of these evergreens with Christmas. This is not the true derivation, however. Holly is merely a variation of Holin, Hollin, or Holm which are the names given it by the early writers such as Dodoens (1579). The name Holme is now used for a kind of Oak. The holly was admired by the Druids who believed that its evergreen leaves attested to the fact that the sun never deserted it and it was therefore sacred. A Christmas carol of the fifteenth century tells of the contest between the Holly and the Ivy for the place of honor in the hall. They have an argument which is a duet, each setting forth his or her claims to superiority. It is finally decided that the Holly with its red berries shall have the place of honor, instead of the Ivy whose berries are black. Moreover, the birds are attracted to the Holly, but only owls love Ivy.

Legends relate that the Crown of Thorns was plaited from the Holly. Before the Crucifixion the berries were white but turned crimson like drops of blood.

Holly is hateful to witches and is therefore, placed on doors and windows to keep out evil spirits. Whoever brings the Christmas Holly into the house first, either husband or wife, is the one who will rule the ensuing year.

Dates to remember: Mrs. E. B. Knotts of the Wisner Garden Club will present a program on Christmas arrangements and decorations next Wednesday on television at one p.m. Our Exhibitor at the Garden Center next week, the Winnsboro Garden Club.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

English Holly For Southern States

For some reason, southern nurserymen must have got the idea a century ago when they were bringing all sorts of other exotic plants that English holly was not for the southern states. We in our generation have had to discover that English holly is perfectly happy in this part of the south. At this time of the year when magazines and newspapers are carrying advertisements for cut branches of golden leaves silvery leaved and other fancy English hollies, your columnist feels that he must tell you that these plants will grow right here in our gardens.

In my library there is a fat little notebook full of pages of tracings of the leaves of the handsome English holly varieties that grow along the "holly walk" at Kew Gardens in London I had not had time to work over all these hollies in 1927, so, on the 8th of August 1945, I walked along, from specimen to specimen and traced a leaf to each page. This holly walk is world famous — almost as famous as the Kew lilac collection which prompted the verse which begins: "Come down to Kew in lilac time . . ."

The glossy, crinkly leaved English holly is an elegant evergreen. Usually, it grows into a specimen a little more compact than our native American holly. Nurseries in the cooler parts of the south usually have a few specimens sitting around. They are often growing right out in the broiling sun, and they have gone through the droughts whth everything else because nurseries do not wish to grow anything that they — or we — have to coddle very much. There have been, for the past century, a few of the plain green leaved English hollies in southern nurseries, but few of the silver and gold-edged types have been grown here. In a few years, however, these will begin to show up in our nurseries

Drought and sun scald have killed a few English hollies during the past bad years. It is not very wise to plant one of these choice plants out on the south side of a building with pavement around it where it will cook all summer. Old specimens that have no cover of leaves and branches on part of the stem will easily scald in the sun, too. If you have to plant English holly out in full sun, a temporary cover of tobacco cloth will be good for it during the first season.

Most of the plants of this holly in the nurseries now are quite small. You can set them out in any but the worst sun baked parts of your grounds and gardens. Like other broadleaf evergreens, they will grow in moderate shade, too. The large berries of English holly remain on the plants for a long time. When the shrubs get up to some size, you can cut the elegant little branches for the house at Christmas time.

Mouth watering for a spicy pumpkin pie? Try adding ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg to each pie crust. Or a different flavor, substitute chilled orange juice for the water called for in your crust recipe.

THE HOME SHIFT—

Plants Will Add Color To Garden

Just a few days before old Santa will be coming down the chimney. Are you hoping he'll bring you some shrubs? Why not write a list of those you'd like to have and put the note, with the children's up the chimney? Surely such an obvious hint could not be overlooked. Or do like Maggie does Jiggs, just buy the husband the shrubs for his present.

Some Santa Plants

Don't forget the many magnolias on that list. In early January the star magnolia blooms. The colors are white, pink or purplish red. They grow rather large but very slowly — like semi-shade and damp soil. Another January bloomer is the denudata. One variety is a clear white and I believe there is a purple. The white shows up much prettier if planted with a background such as a fence or wall. (Not white).

Lacy's magnolia is pink and very hardy. Alexandrina is purplish-pink with white on the outside of the petals. Lennei blooms late and is dark red. Liliflora is a bush form and is deep purple outside and white inside. Mulch all the above magnolias. They need plenty of fertilizer and moisture.

Remember, several plants of the same color and variety give a smooth continuity that you don't get with three different colors.

I know Santa would enjoy bringing crabapples. There are so many in colors of pale pink, rose, lavender, red and white. Many varieties bear crabapples in the summer and the effect is as beautiful as the flowers. There are dwarf crabapples that lend themselves beautifully to espaliering. There's also a weeping crab.

One of the first crabapples to bloom is the flora bunda, a misty pink. If you have a pink or blue room in your home, by all means plant several of these so you can see them from that room — you know — bringing the outside inside.

No plants bring more color to the garden than crepe myrtles, and they are not expensive. Also they're very hardy and live many years. The new dwarf varieties have been a life-saver to those building low roofed homes. The leaves of crepe myrtles turn such a gorgeous color after the first frost. If you'll stay with one color, you'll have a mass that you'll love. Several different colors fight.

Christmas Decorations

The monthly magazines are just brimming full of Christmas suggestions. You'll want a Christmas tablecloth and you can carry it over from year to year. One magazine suggests a red tarleton with edges whipped with wool yarn. The undercloth is red percale. On the top cloth you can make outlines of Christmas trees in sequins, or put bunches of colored balls in each corner.

Another cloth is red percale with a wide, full tarleton ruffle all around. These cloths dress the house up for Christmas, and are nice for parties. I'd advise putting on the traditional white for the big meal.

A large branch from a deciduous tree, sprayed white makes a lovely showy arrangement. There are so many things you can do with this — decorate with candy canes, balls, tinsel, beads or ribbons. One of the most attracitve small trees I've seen made was covered with tiny red bows made with one - fourth inch wide ribbon.

Several years ago, Serena Lewis used an umbrella frame, sprayed it gold, and decorated it with Christmas glitters. She stood the handle in a pot and the effect was dainty and "Christmasy."

Don't forget that your Christmas tree and greens will stay fresh much longer if you'll cut them early, stand the trunks in water to which some sugar or syrup has been added.

Wish you'd call and tell me about your ideas for Christmas and some of your good recipes. Especially the economical recipes made from Louisiana plentiful products.

Food Notes

During the months with an R, you'll be eating lots of oysters, and at an attractive price. Oysters are easily prepared — no waste from trimming, entirely edible and easy to serve. They can be served either raw on the half shell, as a cocktail, or cooked in a variety of ways such as stews, chowders, baked, boiled, fried, creamed, scalloped or in combination with cheese, bacon, celery, spinach, rice and as a stuffing for poultry. To keep the delicate distinctive flavor of oysters, never cook them too long, just enough to heat them through and leave them plump and tender.

Oysters are an excellent source of protective nutrients — proteins, minerals and vitamins. An average serving of six oysters will supply more than the daily allowance of iron and copper, about one-half the iodine and about one - tenth of the needed protein, calcium, magnesium, phosphorus, Vitamin A, thiamine riboflavin and niacin. Few foods are better balanced nutritionally than oysters.

Oysters, to be a safe and palatable food, must be perfectly fresh. Be sure the liquor is clear. If it is cloudy, the oysters should not be used.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Legend Of The Holly Related In Book

An all blue ribbon flower show was presented by the Garden Gate Garden Club of Winnsboro at the Garden Center this week. The exhibits were point scored by an accredited judge. First place in the arrangement section was awarded to Mrs. Bruce Landis, III. A subtle color harmony in red-violet shades was used for the beautiful triangular arangement. The container of soft green crackle ware was set on a black scroll base. The graceful line was established with red leaf barberry foliage and chrysanthemums in a lovely mulberry shade. The arrangement was placed against a chartreuse background which picked up the color of the container. Mrs. C. R. Adams, Jr. was awarded second place. Mrs. Adams designed a most effective Christmas wreath of pine which had been sprayed with snow. The pine was attached to a wreath and secured to a cup type needle point holder. A choir boy figurine was placed in the center of the wreath, with glossy camellia foliage and red carnations effectively grouped at the base of the wreath. This lovely Christmas design would be most suitable for a mantel or buffet. Mrs. E. Fay Walter was awarded third place. Mrs. Walter designed a Christmas ararngement using complementary colors of red and green. A free form green container held the triangular arrangement of three tall red candles and garden grown red poinsettias in a triangular pattern. A lovely arrangement in traditional colors for the living room table. Mrs. Walter designed another lovely arrangement using a green and white color scheme. A low green bowl was used for the line mass design of glossy green Buford Holly and six snowy white carnations.

The bidding:

South, 1 diamond; West, Pass; North, 2 clubs; East, Pass.
South, 2 no trump; West, Pass; North, 3 no trump; East, Pass.
South, Pass; West, Pass.
Opening lead: Six hearts.

In an effort to adjust disputes, where each of the litigants contends sharply on behalf of his own choice of bids, we find ourselves occasionally siding with both parties.

In countless situations the procedure is a matter of choice. In some cases the player is faced with an out and out guess. In others, the type of strategy should be dictated by the character of the partner. One course may seem appropriate with an optimistic partner, whereas a different choice might be made with one who is known to hold the middle of the road.

South's rebid after the two club take-out is the one in question. When I saw the hand played in a recent tournament, one South actually chose to raise partner to three clubs, and while techinically such action cannot be labeled wrong, strategically it must be looked upon as an error.

After the raise North had to choose between trying for game in the minor or risking the spade situation in the shorter cut, via three no trump. He chose the latter, whereupon the opponents cashed the first five spade tricks.

The recommended bid by South is two no trump which North, of course, will be happy to raise to three, a contract which no lead by West can defeat. Actually West will lead the six of hearts, and declarer should not yield to the temptation of finessing. With nine tricks in sight and the king of spades open to attack should East obtain the lead, grabbing tactics are indicated.

The importance of protecting the strength of your hand from an opening attack is not to be overlooked. Possession of a guarded king should induce a player to try to become declarer. With this thought in mind the better strategic opening bid by South would have been one no trump. North's proper response, holding 10 high card points is three no trump. Once again the direct method proves superior, and South is charged with a demerit for opening with one diamond.

A SILVER FOIL ANGEL

The Christmas season is almost upon us, so here is a pattern with which to make one or many decorations for your Christmas tree.

Paste this picture on thin but strong paper--like a brown grocery bag. Then cut a piece of silver foil and place the pattern on top of it. Fasten the two pieces together with clips, and get a pointed stick or tool for tracing.

Perhaps you can practice tracing on a scrap of silver paper. When you are ready, start tracing the outline of the angel at the top left. Press down smoothly so that each stroke will make a perfect line on the foil. Take off the clips and you will find the design pressed into the foil. Then cut around the outer edges.

If you want the angel to be stronger than if made out of silver paper alone, you can trace the design on thin cardboard and cut it out. Then cut a silver paper angel a little larger than the cardboard. Put the two together and turn the foil around the edge of the cardboard, pressing down smoothly at the back.

To hang the angel to the tree you can put a string through the circle near the collar.

And, if you do not want to use foil, you can mount and color this design and use it directly. Then, however, you will have only one angel.

JUNIOR EDITORS pays $10 for any reader's idea that is used. Write your suggestion to "Junior Editors" in care of this newspaper; it cannot be acknowledged or returned and in case of duplication of ideas, the first submission shall be accepted.

Answer to Question No. 1. . . . . .

1. Nobody knows—but in my "what-it's-worth department," I might relate that I recently drove with the snappiest looking girl cabbie I've ever seen. I asked her this world-shaking question. She replied, "They drive equally well. However, you can trust men's signals; but when a woman signals 'right,' 'left,' or 'stop,' you have no idea what she's going to do." Women commonly give the correct signal to men—usually "stop"—but maybe in traffic they don't think it's so important.

Answer to Question No. 2. . . . . .

2. In 1900 one citizen in sixty was a college graduate. Today, it is one in eight! Seymour Harris in a book (1949) doubts that we can find satisfying and happy work for so many because since 1939, college graduates have generally earned less than carpenters, plasterers, and coal miners. True. Yet Dael Wolfe points out that we are now short of engineers by 10,000 new graduates yearly; trained nurses, 50,000; doctors, 22,000 to 45,000; and teachers, 293,000.

End your fears! "Conquest of Fear" shows how to analyze your fears, thus end them and build self-confidence. Nonprofit booklet available for 15c, coin only, and stamped, fully addressed reply envelope. Address Dr. A. E. Wiggam, c-o this newspaper.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Doubtful, especially women. It's said—I can't verify it—that when John Dillinger, infamous desperado, was shot and killed in the lobby of a movie theater, many women dipped their handkerchiefs in his blood as souvenirs! Gangstels have bigger funerals and more flowers than most ministers, educators, and public servants. Hosts of people, consciously or unconsciously, admire the daring and ruthless brutes who steal their money and murder their fellows—certainly a displacement of admiration.

BAD FARM POLICY

SAN JOSE, Calif. —UP— Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told San Francisco Bay area Democrats Friday night that the Republican administration is "plowing the small farmer under" with its farm policy.

The Tennessee Democrat, in California to test his strength for the forthcoming presidential primaries, spoke before some 500 Democrats at a $10-a-plate fund raising dinner.

He charged that the present administration has pursued a "deliberate policy" to liquidate millions of small farmers."

The second program in the Fall Series of the "March of Medicine" dramatically illustrates the awesome scope of alcoholism and how modern medicine is prepared to meet it with a new "total push" attack.

WORD-A-DAY

By BACH

TOP MARKSMAN — Sergeant First Class Ansel H. Smith, above, first sergeant of Battery B, 429th Field Artillery Battalion, holds the leading position in the United States Army Reserve rifle marksmanship program in Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith, 606 Auburn Avenue.

Monroe Cancer Society Leaders Attend Conference

Mrs. Fred Petty, chairman of volunteers for Ouachita Parish Unit of the American Cancer Society, Mrs. Frank Spivey, chairman of publicity and Miss Winona Probus, field representative for Northeast area attended the Cancer Conference of the Louisiana Division on the L. S. U. campus in Baton Rouge.

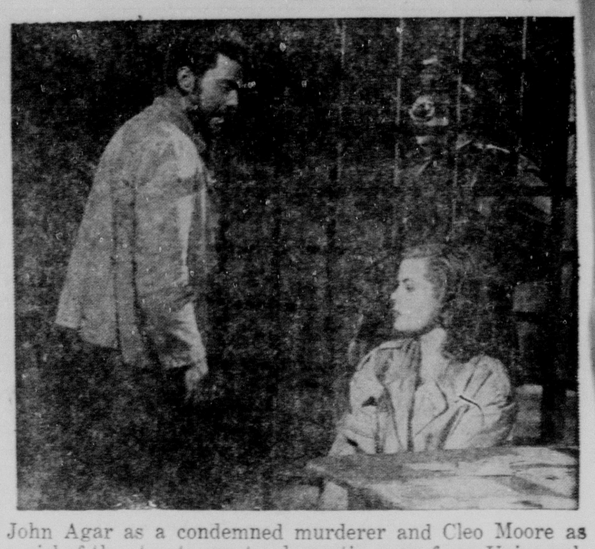

Various working groups held stimulating discussions on planning and methods of carrying out the cancer control programs throughout Louisiana.

Highlighting the conference was an address by Dr. John F. W. King, director of the service section of the Medical and Scientific Department of the American Cancer Society, who has the responsibility for the planning and development of the professional, supplementary, and volunteer services to cancer patients.

Dr. King stated thet there are some 80,000 people in this country each year who could be spared needless suffering if their cancers were detected while in the early stages. He urged all volunteers to turn their primary attention to this group in addition to those now being saved and to plan programs of education which will motivate them to seek medical attention when it can do the most good.

Of special interest to the medical members and the women were his recommendations for extending the use of cell study (cytology) method of detecting cancer of the cervix in women. He stated that technicians can be trained to help the pathotogist in screening the obviously normal from the suspicious cells prepared for study and thus enable the busy physician to include this new technique in the regular physical examination of women. The Medical Advisory and the Service Committee of the La. Division will give due consideration to this recommendation.

Dr. Waldo W. Braden, professor of speech at L. S. U. brought the conference to a close with an enthusiastic and inspiring tribute to the American volunteer. Our state and nation is rich in volunteers who find great satisfaction in working for the betterment of all humanity, he stated, they build eternal monuments — not in stone —but in the hearts of people.

John Agar as a condemned murderer and Cleo Moore as a girl of the streets enact a dramatic scene from Universal-International's "Hold Back Tomorrow." The two players co-star in the exciting film which was written, directed and produced by Hugo Haas.

The annual Rice Festival in Crowley was inaugurated in 1937 when citizens of that Louisiana town decided to celebrate the community's 50th anniversary.

A SILVER FOIL ANGEL

The Christmas season is almost upon us, so here is a pattern with which to make one of many decorations for your Christmas tree.

Paste this picture on thin but strong paper—like a brown grocery bag. Then cut a piece of silver foil and place the pattern on top of it. Fasten the two pieces together with clips, and get a pointed stick or tool for tracing.

Perhaps you can practice tracing on a scrap of silver paper. When you are ready, start tracing the outline of the angel at the top left. Press down smoothly so that each trace will make a perfect line on the foil. Take off the clips and you will find the design pressed into the foil. Then cut around the outer edge.

If you want the angel to be circular, instead of made out of silver paper alone, you can trace the design on thin cardboard and cut it out. Then cut a silver paper angel a little larger than the cardboard. Put the two together and turn the foil around the edge of the cardboard, pressing down smoothly at the back.

To hang the angel to the tree you can put a string through the circle near the collar.

And, if you do not want to use foil, you can mount and color this design and use it directly. Then, however, you will have only one angel.

MONDAY: Young People Love To Dance

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Nobody answered it as I suspected. Nobody can prove that I am not right with the smartest woman and gamble I've ever seen. I stand by this woman-speaking question. She replied, "They drive equally well. However, you can't stop a woman driver at any time and say, 'Stop!' and be sure what she's going to do next. Women commonly drive by what I call 'sense' to men—usually 'nonsense'—but maybe in their way they don't think it's so important."

Answer to Question No. 2

2. In 1940, one citizen in sixty was a college graduate. Today, it is one in eight. Seymour Harris in a new 1949 book doubts that we can find satisfying and happy work for so many because since 1940 college graduates have generally earned less than carpenters, plasterers and coal miners. Even Dael Wolfe points out that we are now short of engineers by 10,000 new graduates yearly; trained nurses, 30,000; doctors, 22,000 to 45,000; and teachers, 200,000.

End your fears! "Conquest of Fear" shows how to analyze your fears, rout them and build self-confidence. Numerous booklet available for 25 cents each only, and stamped, fully addressed reply envelope. Address Dr. A. E. Wiggam, c-o this newspaper.

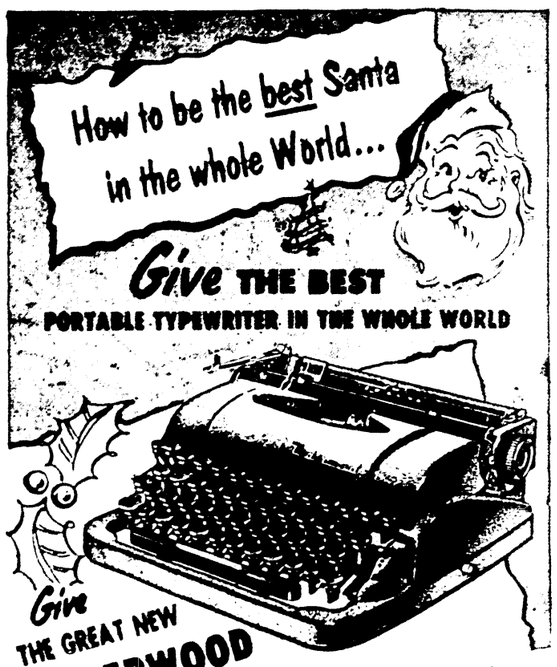

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Doubtful, especially women. It's said—I can't verify it—that when John Dillinger, infamous desperado, was shot and killed in the lobby of a movie theater, many women dipped their handkerchiefs in his blood as souvenirs! Gangsters have bigger funerals and more flowers than most ministers, educators, and public servants. Hosts of people consciously or unconsciously, admire the daring and ruthless brutes who steal their money and murder their fellows—certainly a displacement of admiration.

BAD FARM POLICY

SAN JOSE, Calif. —UP— Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told San Francisco Bay area Democrats Friday night that the Republican administration is "plowing the small farmer under" with its farm policy.

The Tennessee Democrat, in California to test his strength for the forthcoming presidential primaries, spoke before some 500 Democrats at a $10-a-plate fund raising dinner.

He charged that the present administration has pursued a "deliberate policy" to liquidate millions of small farmers."

The second program in the Fall Series of the "March of Medicine" dramatically illustrates the awesome scope of alcoholism and how modern medicine is prepared to meet it with a new "total push" attack.

Monroe Cancer Society Leaders Attend Conference

Mrs. Fred Petty, chairman of volunteers for Ouachita Parish Unit of the American Cancer Society, Mrs. Frank Spivey, chairman of publicity and Miss Winona Probus, field representative for Northeast area attended the Cancer Conference of the Louisiana Division on the L. S. U. campus in Baton Rouge.

Various working groups held stimulating discussions on planning and methods of carrying out the cancer control programs throughout Louisiana.

Highlighting the conference was an address by Dr. John F. W. King, director of the service section of the Medical and Scientific Department of the American Cancer Society, who has the responsibility for the planning and development of the professional, supplementary, and volunteer services to cancer patients.

Dr. King stated that there are some 80,000 people in this country each year who could be spared needless suffering if their cancers were detected while in the early stages. He urged all volunteers to turn their primary attention to this group in addition to those now being saved and to plan programs of education which will motivate them to seek medical attention when it can do the most good.

Of special interest to the medical members and the women were his recommendations for extending the use of cell study (cytology) method of detecting cancer of the cervix in women. He stated that technicians can be trained to help the pathologist in screening the obviously normal from the suspicious cells prepared for study and thus enable the busy physician to include this new technique in the regular physical examination of women. The Medical Advisory and the Service Committee of the La. Division will give due consideration to this recommendation.

Dr. Waldo W. Braden, professor of speech at L. S. U. brought the conference to a close with an enthusiastic and inspiring tribute to the American volunteer. Our state and nation is rich in volunteers who find great satisfaction in working for the betterment of all humanity, he stated, they build eternal monuments — not in stone —but in the hearts of people.

John Agar as a condemned murderer and Cleo Moore as a girl of the streets enact a dramatic scene from Universal-International's "Hold Back Tomorrow." The two players co-star in the exciting film which was written, directed and produced by Hugo Haas.

In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

BY GILMOR BROWN
(Guest Columnist)

HOLLYWOOD, December 10 — Thanks, Jimmie, for your invitation to do an article on the work of the Pasadena Playhouse and some of the people it has sent to the stage and screen. I shall attack the subject from the angle that every time one of these students clicks on the big time, I am as happy as that student.

We know here at the Pasadena Playhouse that the big lure for those dramatically inclined in a starring role on Broadway or in Hollywood. It was my original concept that you learn to act by acting. It was on that premise that I founded the Pasadena Playhouse back in 1917. Since that day my greatest reward has been the success of those we have trained over a period of nearly 40 years. Our playhouse has been a contemporary with the advancement of the movies. We have grown as the movies have grown. Over the years our facilities have entered the million dollar class. We have four theaters, TV and radio studios, a fine library, a rooftop dance studio, technical shops and a $100,000 wardrobe.

Our students work and associate with the great names of the stage, films, TV and radio.

So pardon me if I become a bit reminiscent, as our project is closely associated with every film studio in Hollywood and every theater in America. I came to Pasadena in the fall of 1915 with a company of professional players. They presented their performances in the Savoy theater.

I always pay tribute to those groups and individuals interested in drama who assisted and encouraged me in my attempt to keep spoken drama alive in Pasadena, as its continuance was threatened by World Wars and the rapid development of the movies.

In 1917 I started out with my plan, at my own expense, with a producing group that composed a small nucleus of professional people, assisted by a larger group of amateurs. I had my financial troubles, of course. I found it impossible to continue if there were to be any professionals employed, along with stage manager, and someone to handle the box office, and another as a janitor. It was in the fall of 1918 that our rather loosely drawn organization was organized and incorporated as the Community Playhouse association of Pasadena.

Only non - professional players were used.

Omitting many details of organization, financing and continuous hard work, we opened our new playhouse May 18, 1925.

I often quote Dr. John A. Sexon on a subject dear to his heart, and a foundation on which our efforts are built. Dr. Sexon once said: "Education is America's most priceless heritage — a system of public and private schools our greatest achievement — and our intelligent citizenship our best hope for the future in this new and menacing era in which we are now living.

"Basic to progress in all areas are the communications arts — those arts and those instruments by which man speaks to man across continents, over oceans, across barriers of whatever kind, be they race, religion, politics or economic status.

"The Pasadena Playhouse of the College of Theater Arts is the one institution in America dedicated exclusively to the inculcation of the knowledges and skills basic to progress in these areas.

"The College of Theater Arts is the one educational institution of higher learning maintained for the sole purpose of training men and women to make effective use of the new products of technology—the telephone, telegraph, teletype, television, radio, the motion picture, the sound producer, the stage and the public forum."

I want it to be understood that the Pasadena Playhouse association is a non - profit, educational corporation of collegiate grade. It is interested in furthering the cause of the good theater whenever and in whatever manner it can.

You'll pardon me again if I seem boastful. I do not write in that spirit — but I am proud of our accomplishments. More than 125 world premieres are among the 2600 main stage productions which star famed artists of theater and stage. Fame has come to many as a direct result of their work in Playhouse productions. Actors such as Dana Andrews, Robert Young, Marilyn Maxwell; dancers like Agnes DeMille and Martha Graham; directors such as Will Price, can trace the beginnings of their success to the Pasadena Playhouse.

Dear Gilmor: Thank you for your aticle. What you have written should be of interest to all aspiring artists, no matter where they live. To my readers: Gilmor Brown is a member of about every national, or international drama or theater group, and take it from me, whatever he says and writes about the theater is authoritative.

Terror stalks the house and an entire family walks the tightrope between life and death as three fugitives hole up in Fredric March and Martha Scott's home in "The Desperate Hours," arriving Thursday at the Paramount Theatre. William Wyler's shocking thriller stars Humphrey Bogart and Fredric March and co-stars Martha Scott.

'The Desperate Hours' Lauded Great Shocker

Once in a decade, a rare motion picture causes professional reviewers to turn out columns that may be classed as literature. Such a film is William Wyler's "The Desperate Hours," Paramount's stunningly suspenseful drama opening Thursady at the Paramount Theatre. From the day of the first advance showing, the nation's critics have without exception been inspired to literary heights in writing about what promises to be one of the very greatest dramas ever made. It is apparent that no amount of praise, no degree of superlative can be considered too extravagant.

And small wonder. From its two-time Oscar-winner director to its honored cast and story, "The Desperate Hours," is blessed with the best the movie industry has ever had to offer.

The cast can only be termed fabulous. Heading the starring list, in roles that are expected to go down as cinema milestone performances, are Humphrey Bogart and Fredric March, and co - starred with them are Arthur Kennedy, Martha Scott, Dewey Martin, Gig Young and Mary Murphy, possibly the finest group of players ever teamed in a single motion picture. Supporting them are Broadway and television star Robert Middleton and ten-year-old Richard Eyer, a child actor we understand you won't quickly forget.

Nor will you forget the story of "The Desperate Hours". Working from his best-selling novel and smash-hit Broadway play, scenarist Joseph Hayes has fashioned a screenplay that has called forth such expressions as: enormously powerful, brilliant, relentlessly tense, magnificient, blood-chilling, heart-warming, and most revealing of all, award-winning. The comments on the performances of each and every player have been equally strong.

The story tells of the invasion of a peaceful home and the terrorizing of its family by three brutal and sadistic escaped convicts, and of the desperation, torment and final heroism of the family's father. It's a story rich in human drama, with the strongest possible appeal to every emotion every human being possesses. Heart - warming though it is, it has the grip, power, and suspense of the most exciting drama of crime and terror ever made.

The first to be made in black-and-white Vista Vision, and filmed by Oscar-winner Lee Garmes, "The Desperate Hours" promises to be fit companion to William Wyler's "Best Years Of Our Lives," "Dead End," "Wuthering Heights," Mrs. Miniver" and "Roman Holiday." It is, in fact, destined to take its place at the head of Mr. Wyler's incredible list of successes, and that places it at the head of the most distinguished lists in the history of the motion picture.

Completion Urged On Lower Valley Water Projects

Conferences with budget bureau officials relative to recommendation of funds for Lower Mississippi Valley flood - control projects for the next fiscal year and with Economic Cooperation Administration officials concerning possibilities of reduction of the U. S. foreign-aid program featured a Congressional-business visit of Rep. Otto E. Passman in Washington during the past week.

Congressman Passman emphasized to administration budget-planners the "vital need" for orderly completion, as rapidly as possible, of the over-all Lower Mississippi Valley flood - control, drainage and navigation project. He told the Budget Bureau, his Monroe office reported, that "complacency in the matter, should it develop, would be a serious blow" to the future of a major area of the nation.

Chairman of the House Foreign Operations Appropriations committee, Rep. Passman was said to have discussed with ECA administrators some of his observations on a globe - girdling mission this summer for a first - hand study of the foreign - aid program. He reiterated that the mission had convinced him "even more than previously" that this nation's foreign spending should be "drastically" reduced. "The United States cannot expect to continue spending for foreign aid as in the past and at the same time maintain its own economy and way of life," his Monroe office reported him as declaring to the program's officials in Washington.

While in Washington, Passman also arranged for early conferences with congressional agricultural leaders, his fifth district office said. Among other topics for discussion will be proposals for a two - price system for cotton and a five - year acreage allotment plan.

Massachusetts Institute Of Technology To Install 10-Digit Electronic Brain

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 10—UP—A new giant electronic brain," which can perform 40,000 additions of 10-digit numbers in one second, will be installed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, it was announced Saturday.

The computer, first of a new high-speed type developed by International Business Machines Corp., for education and basic research, will be the principal tool in a new MIT electronic data processing center. It will be installed early in 1957 in the Karl Compton Memorial laboratories, which MIIT is now building here at a cost of $4 million.

Availability of the 74, as it is known officially, was announced jointly Saturday by Dr. James R. Killian Jr., MIT president, and Thomas J. Watson Jr., IBM president.

Watson said the "brain" was designed for solving mathematical problems in engineering, science, social science and management studies. Its speed is so great, he said, it can perform 40,000 additions or subtractions or 5,000 multiplications or divisions of 10-digit numbers in one second.

Watson also disclosed IBM expects to produce next year some 80 computers of the 704 type, and its commercial version, the 705.

Other colleges and universities in New England have been invited to share in the use of the machine for research and education of students in computing techniques, Killian said. He added that an advisory committee, made up of representatives of New England colleges participating in the program, will be formed to advise on the priorities for problems to be submitted to the machine and the suitability of problems.

Dr. Philip M. Morse, MIT professor of physics and former director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory, will be director of the Compton computation center. He is a native of Shreveport and currently resides in Winchester.

Once in a decade, a rare motion picture causes professional reviewers to turn out columns that may be classed as literature. Such a film is William Wyler's "The Desperate Hours," Paramount's stunningly suspenseful drama opening Thursady at the Paramount Theatre. From the day of the first advance showing, the nation's critics have without exception been inspired to literary heights in writing about what promises to be one of the very greatest dramas ever made. It is apparent that no amount of praise, no degree of superlative can be considered too extravagant.

And small wonder. From its two-time Oscar-winner director to its honored cast and story, "The Desperate Hours," is blessed with the best the movie industry has ever had to offer.

The cast can only be termed fabulous. Heading the starring list, in roles that are expected to go down as cinema milestone performances, are Humphrey Bogart and Fredric March, and co - starred with them are Arthur Kennedy, Martha Scott, Dewey Martin, Gig Young and Mary Murphy, possibly the finest group of players ever teamed in a single motion picture. Supporting them are Broadway and television star Robert Middleton and ten-year-old Richard Eyer, a child actor we understand you won't quickly forget.

Nor will you forget the story of "The Desperate Hours". Working from his best-selling novel and smash-hit Broadway play, scenarist Joseph Hayes has fashioned a screenplay that has called forth such expressions as: enormously powerful, brilliant, relentlessly tense, magnificient, blood-chilling, heart-warming, and most revealing of all, award-winning. The comments on the performances of each and every player have been equally strong.

The story tells of the invasion of a peaceful home and the terrorizing of its family by three brutal and sadistic escaped convicts, and of the desperation, torment and final heroism of the family's father. It's a story rich in human drama, with the strongest possible appeal to every emotion every human being possesses. Heart - warming though it is, it has the grip, power, and suspense of the most exciting drama of crime and terror ever made.

The first to be made in black-and-white Vista Vision, and filmed by Oscar-winner Lee Garmes, "The Desperate Hours" promises to be fit companion to William Wyler's "Best Years Of Our Lives," "Dead End," "Wuthering Heights," Mrs. Miniver" and "Roman Holiday." It is, in fact, destined to take its place at the head of Mr. Wyler's incredible list of successes, and that places it at the head of the most distinguished lists in the history of the motion picture.

Completion Urged On Lower Valley Water Projects

Conferences with budget bureau officials relative to recommendation of funds for Lower Mississippi Valley flood - control projects for the next fiscal year and with Economic Cooperation Administration officials concerning possibilities of reduction of the U. S. foreign-aid program featured a Congressional-business visit of Rep. Otto E. Passman in Washington during the past week.

Congressman Passman emphasized to administration budget-planners the "vital need" for orderly completion, as rapidly as possible, of the over-all Lower Mississippi Valley flood - control, drainage and navigation project. He told the Budget Bureau, his Monroe office reported, that "complacency in the matter, should it develop, would be a serious blow" to the future of a major area of the nation.

Chairman of the House Foreign Operations Appropriations committee, Rep. Passman was said to have discussed with ECA administrators some of his observations on a globe - girdling mission this summer for a first - hand study of the foreign - aid program. He reiterated that the mission had convinced him "even more than previously" that this nation's foreign spending should be "drastically" reduced. "The United States cannot expect to continue spending for foreign aid as in the past and at the same time maintain its own economy and way of life," his Monroe office reported him as declaring to the program's officials in Washington.

While in Washington, Passman also arranged for early conferences with congressional agricultural leaders, his fifth district office said. Among other topics for discussion will be proposals for a two - price system for cotton and a five - year acreage allotment plan.

Massachusetts Institute Of Technology To Install 10-Digit Electronic Brain

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 10—UP—A new giant electronic brain," which can perform 40,000 additions of 10-digit numbers in one second, will be installed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, it was announced Saturday.

The computer, first of a new high-speed type developed by International Business Machines Corp., for education and basic research, will be the principal tool in a new MIT electronic data processing center. It will be installed early in 1957 in the Karl Compton Memorial laboratories, which MIIT is now building here at a cost of $4 million.

Availability of the 74, as it is known officially, was announced jointly Saturday by Dr. James R. Killian Jr., MIT president, and Thomas J. Watson Jr., IBM president.

Watson said the "brain" was designed for solving mathematical problems in engineering, science, social science and management studies. Its speed is so great, he said, it can perform 40,000 additions or subtractions or 5,000 multiplications or divisions of 10-digit numbers in one second.

Watson also disclosed IBM expects to produce next year some 80 computers of the 704 type, and its commercial version, the 705.

Other colleges and universities in New England have been invited to share in the use of the machine for research and education of students in computing techniques, Killian said. He added that an advisory committee, made up of representatives of New England colleges participating in the program, will be formed to advise on the priorities for problems to be submitted to the machine and the suitability of problems.

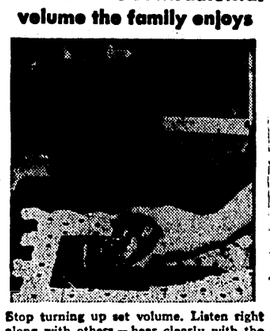

Dr. Philip M. Morse, MIT professor of physics and former director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratory, will be director of the Compton computation center. He is a native of Shreveport and currently resides in Winchester.

SO MR. DITHERS HAS TAKEN UP OIL PAINTING

YES, AND REMEMBER TO PRAISE HIS PAINTING OR I'LL LOSE MY JOB

THOSE ARE THE DEEP, RICH TONES OF A MASTER

AS LONG AS YOU LIKE IT SO MUCH, I'LL GIVE IT TO YOU TO HANG IN YOUR LIVING ROOM

OH, NO!

WE HAVE TO... HE'LL FIRE ME IF HE FINDS WE DIDN'T PUT IT UP

DO YOU THINK YOU COULD FIND A NEW JOB WITH ANOTHER FIRM?

I'D HAVE TO START IN AT THE BOTTOM AND WORK MY WAY UP ALL OVER AGAIN

COULD YOU GO INTO A PROFESSION OF SOME KIND, DEAR?

IT WOULD TAKE EIGHT YEARS OF STUDY TO BECOME A DOCTOR OR A LAWYER

THEY SEEMED SO HAPPY WITH MY PAINTING... I'M ANXIOUS TO SEE WHERE THEY'VE HUNG IT

YOU LUCKY, LUCKY PEOPLE

OH----WE WERE JUST TRYING TO DECIDE WHERE TO HANG YOUR MASTERPIECE, MR. DITHERS

I THOUGHT MAYBE THERE

YES, IT WOULD DOMINATE THE ROOM

PSST, BLONDIE

HOW ABOUT OVER THERE?

WHOOPS

BOO-HOO... OUR BEAUTIFUL PAINTING IS RUINED

HOW STUPID OF ME.. HOW CLUMSY OF ME.. I'M SO SORRY--WILL YOU EVER FORGIVE ME?

I CAN'T SLEEP.. MY CONSCIENCE BOTHERS ME

STOP WORRYING -- ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN

OH-OH!

DROP THAT BAG, BUB!

D-DON'T SHOOT!

NOW, KAYO, SEE WHAT HE'S GOT THERE.

NOTHIN' BUT A CLOCK, SOME KNIVES AND FORKS, A LOT OF SILVERWARE AND JEWELRY.

MY MISTAKE, MY FRIEND, TAKE YOUR TRINKETS AND GO, AND THANK YOUR LUCKY STARS IT WASN'T A CHICKEN AND SOME GROCERIES IN THAT BAG.

WHAT?

I SAID AFTER I PHONED FOR YOU, I FOUND TH' BURGLAR HAD EMPTIED TH' CHICKEN AND GROCERIES OUT OF TH' BAG AND USED IT TO CART OFF ALL TH' BEST SILVER AND EVERYTHIN' EXCEPT TH' GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK.

SHHUSH! I HEARD A NOISE. I'LL BET HE'S BACK FOR THE GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK.

DON'T TAKE TH' GUN WITH YOU, WILLIE. HE'LL TAKE IT AWAY FROM YOU.

BANG! BANG! BANG!

OW! NOW, WHAT'S HE DONE.

GOSH! UNCLE WILLIE HAD A TERRIBLE NARROW ESCAPE!

WAS HE HURT?

NO, BUT HE SEEN A HEAD OUTLINED AGAINST A WINDOW IN TH' DARK AND SHOT AT IT. THEN, WITH TH' LIGHTS ON, HE DISCOVERED IT WAS HIS OWN HAT ON TH' NEWEL POST WHICH HE'D SHOT FULL OF HOLES.

I CAN'T SEE WHERE THAT WAS A VERY NARROW ESCAPE.

WHAT IF HIS HAT HAD BEEN ON HIS HEAD WHEN HE SHOT AT IT? GOSH, MAMIE, WHAT MAKES YOU SO DUMB?
